Nixon May Announce Vietnam Cease-Fire Tonight

Meetings In Paris Concluded Quickly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will address the nation on radio and television tonight, probably to announce a Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, in making the announcement early this afternoon of the broadcast, did not say specifically that Nixon would speak on a cease-fire. But all signs pointed to it.

Ziegler said the speech at 7 p.m. PST was designed "to report on the status of the Vietnam negotiations."

The speech will follow a meeting by Nixon with Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his chief Vietnam negotiator who was due back in Washington at 5:45 p.m. EST after a three-hour, 45-minute meeting in Paris today with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

The Paris meeting broke up amid warm smiles and waves from both Kissinger and Tho.

Kissinger had been expected to remain in Paris for several days. His quick return suggested that the final session of the long, difficult negotiations went smoothly.

Ziegler said that prior to Nixon's address, he will meet at 8:30 p.m. EST with his Cabinet and at 9 p.m. with a bipartisan group of congressional leaders.

The latter were Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania; Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield; Speaker Carl Albert, House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts.

Ziegler also announced there would be a larger bipartisan congressional leadership meeting at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Ziegler declined to say how long the speech would be or to expand in any way on his terse announcement.

If as expected Nixon announces tonight an agreement has been reached, it will come almost four years to the day from the first peace talks in Paris. It was on Jan. 26, 1969, that American, North Vietnamese, South Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators first gathered at the Hotel Majestic in Paris to try to end the long, bloody war.

Details of the cease-fire agreement, not immediately made public, were expected to closely parallel the nine-point accord that both sides nearly agreed on in October. That called for the return of all U.S. prisoners of war and the withdrawal of all U.S. troops within 60 days.

A cease-fire would take place within 24 hours of the formal signing, and an international supervisory team would go into Vietnam to police the ceasefire.

The accord established a National Council of Reconciliation made up of representatives from the Saigon and Hanoi governments, plus neutralists to supervise elections which would determine the political future of Vietnam.

The October accord also provided that all sides respect the sovereignty of Cambodia and Laos, measures which officials said then would lead to a cease-fire in those countries.

All U.S. and South Korean troops would be withdrawn. There was no specific language for removal of North Vietnamese troops in the South, but various reports have said an understanding existed on that point.

Both the White House and North Vietnam announced in advance of today's Kissinger-Tho meeting that it would be for the purpose of completing the draft of the cease-fire accord. The meeting ended with both sides shaking hands warmly, their faces wreathed in smiles.

There were rumors in Saigon and Paris that Nixon would announce the end of the war in a radio and television speech tonight but there was no confirmation from the White House. President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam also was expected to address his nation at about the same time.

Neither delegation would make any comment on the outcome of the meeting, but in the past, when snags have hit the negotiations, the two sides have held further sessions in efforts to resolve them. Today the meeting ended in a state of rosiness and there was no announcement of further talks.

The Hanoi delegation announced that Tho will give a news conference Wednesday. It said the event would take place at 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EST) at the International Conference Center at Kleber Avenue in downtown Paris —site of today's meeting between Tho and Kissinger.

The announcement came less than three hours after Kissinger flew to Washington following his three-hour-45-minute Vietnam peace meeting with Tho, after which the two men emerged smiling and shaking hands. A news conference by Tho is not common, but has happened in the past.

The delegation would not give any details of Tho's subject, nor comment on today's meeting.

The initialing of the agreement was given as the reason for Kissinger's unexpected return to Washington today. The paper said Kissinger was bringing with him the initialed agreement and that it will be checked over by Nixon and Secretary of State William Rogers. If the pact meets with their approval, Rogers will go to Paris to formally sign the agreement. Both the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong Foreign Ministers already were in Paris and the French Government has prepared the old Kleber Avenue Majestic Hotel for a possible signing ceremony.

WIFE AND DAUGHTER — Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson and her daughter, Lynda, stood at the head of the casket containing the body of former President Lyndon B. Johnson this morning. Country Saddened By Johnson Death

Heart Attack Fells Former President

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The people who knew Lyndon B. Johnson best — his family, friends and neighbors from the Texas hill country — filed by his body in the marbled Great Hall of the LBJ Library today to honor and mourn the 36th U.S. President.

Johnson, whose pursuit of the Vietnam War divided a nation to which he had pledged a "Great Society," died Monday of a heart attack. He was 64.

The tall Texan who described the White House as the "lonely acres" was a man who loved and needed people. And they came to him today to pay their final respects.

His body will lie in state in a gray metal casket until 8 a.m. tomorrow CST at the top of the stairs in the stately Great Hall of the $18.6 million library in front of a black marble pylon.

President Nixon proclaimed Thursday as a national day of mourning for Johnson.

Nixon issued an executive order requiring closure of all federal agencies, except for those involved with the national security, on Thursday — the day of the Johnson funeral.

The President directed that flags be displayed at half staff for 30 days.

Smartly uniformed members of the 5th Army's "Hell on Wheels" Division stood by.

Johnson's widow, Lady Bird, 60, her two daughters and her four grandchildren, accompanied the body in a motorcade from the Weed-Corley Funeral Home to the library. They met solemnly by the catafalque before the public lying in state.

"I had just about the toughest assignment I've ever had," said Tom Johnson, an aide to the former president but no relation, who helped prepare the body for the ceremony, including dressing his former boss in a business suit. "I've helped him put on his coat a lot of times, but this time was the toughest."

Johnson was stricken during an afternoon nap Monday at his LBJ Ranch 65 miles from Austin. Secret service agents rushed to help him.

"They found the former President Johnson on the floor next to his bed. He was not moving," said Tom Johnson. "He was lying on his back. An agent said he appeared dead. He was dark blue in color. They administered oxygen and mouth to mouth resuscitation ... "

While Johnson's body lay in state, President Nixon's chief negotiator, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, was enroute to Washington from Paris, where he conferred with North Vietnamese officials in what could be the last meeting before a cease-fire is announced.

Johnson escalated the war into a major conflict during his presidency, and it forced him out of office in 1968. In his final days in the White House, Johnson said sadly: "Peace has eluded me."

On the black marble pylon rising above the catafalque were these words:

"I have followed the personal philosophy that I am a free man, an American, a public servant and a member of my party—in that order, always and only.

"The Great Society asks not how much, but how good; not only how to create wealth but how to use it; not only how fast we are going, but where we are headed. It proposes as the first test for a nation: The quality of its people."

Mrs. Charles Beckham of Smithville, Tex., was the first person in line during the morning to file past the casket. She took her four children out of school and drove 50 miles north.

"I respect President Johnson," Mrs. Beckham said. "I was about to lose my only child and he helped bring my husband home from the military."

A jetliner provided by Nixon will fly Johnson's body to Washington Wednesday. The casket will be taken to the Capitol, where the body will lie in state in the rotunda until Thursday, followed by funeral services at the National City Christian Church.

The body then will be flown back to Texas for a final ceremony and burial at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in the family cemetery on the banks of the Pedernales River, a quartermile from the LBJ Ranch.

"These plans represent the wishes of the family," Tom Johnson said. Of Mrs. Johnson, he said, "I would describe her condition as very sturdy. She is holding up very well."

Johnson's death came 27 days after that of Harry S. Truman, the nation's 33rd President.

Doctors said two of the three major vessels taking blood to Johnson's heart had become

Johnson Lauded By State Leaders

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan and former Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown today joined California political leaders of both parties in paying homage to Lyndon B. Johnson.

"He always placed the interests of the nation, as he saw them, first," Reagan said. "As president and leader of his party, President Johnson believed that America must honor its commitments as the leading nation of the free world."

Brown, California chairman of Johnson's 1964 campaign and now a Beverly Hills attorney, said he "regarded President Johnson as one of our greatest presidents.

"Unfortunately his great works in civil rights and human rights were overshadowed by the Vietnam War," Brown said.

Brown was California governor when Johnson was president and placed his name in nomination for the presidency at the 1964 Democratic National Convention. Brown was one of those mentioned that year for the vice presidential nod that ultimately went to Hubert Humphrey.

Brown said Johnson's "determination to pass legislation for the good of the people was not matched by anyone. He had a laundry list of things he wanted to get done, and most of them he did.

"But the average person didn't realize that he was passing those bills for the little people," Brown said. "He was a far more sensitive and humane man than ever given credit for."

Reagan also praised the manner in which Johnson "took over when the whole country was on edge" following the

Living Cost Rise; Statistics Given

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living of Americans rose 3.4 per cent during 1972, the government reported today. December prices increased by 0.3 per cent to wind up the year.

On behalf of the White House, Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the December figures showed that "substantial progress has been made in lowering inflation and conditions have improved for reaching reasonable price stabilization."

However, the Bureau of Labor Statistics which released the monthly report noted the December consumer price index did not reflect a sharp surge in wholesale food prices for the month —the greatest in a quarter of a century.

They can be expected to show up in higher grocery store costs for January, the BLS said.

The December increase for consumers was paced by higher prices for eggs and fresh vegetables along with rises in rent, property taxes, insurance and general repairs.

Stein said a 3.2 per cent annual rate of increase for the final quarter of 1972 "was only a little above the target." He also said that the "restraint of food price increases will be a major objective for 1973."

The BLS report suggested that consumers already were paying higher supermarket prices for food as a result of the big jump in wholesale food prices in December, and that these will show up in the January index.

The BLS said direct comparisons between wholesale and retail food prices are not always meaningful.

"Since the prices for food are collected at different times of the month for the two indexes, there is generally a time lag between wholesale price index changes and their reflection at the consumer level and not all price change at wholesale is always passed on to the consumer," the BLS said.

During the first 14 months of President Nixon's Phase II economic controls — from November, 1971, through last month — the CPI also went up at a 3.4 per cent annual rate, down from the 3.8 per cent rate in 1971 before the Aug. 15 wage-price freeze.

But food prices went up at an annual rate of 5 per cent in Phase II through December, the same rate as in 1971 prior to the freeze. The index for commodities other than food increased only 2.5 per cent in Phase II compared to 2.9 per cent in 1971 before the freeze. For services it went up at a 3.6 per cent rate in Phase II, compared to a 4.5 per cent annual rate in 1971 before the freeze.

The BLS reported that average weekly earnings of factory workers gained ground in relation to the rise of the cost of living in 1972. Average weekly earnings went up 6.2 per cent — almost double the 34 per cent price rise.

The average worker got a 2.7 per cent increase in the purchasing power of his weekly earnings, the report said.

The BLS said prices for new cars increased 0.4 per cent in December, reflecting price increases on 1973 model cars approved by the Price Commission in early December. But used car prices went down 0.9 per cent.

Supervisors Request State Welfare Help

Marin County Supervisors, confronted with the possibility of spending its $1.1 million revenue sharing allocation to ease welfare cuts, urged the state today to help out.

Betty L. Presley, county director of public social services, told supervisors that changes in federal welfare regulations may end up costing Marin between $66,000 and $823,000 this year.

The problem is caused by Title III of the federal revenue-sharing bill which puts a $2.5 billion ceiling on what the federal government will spend on welfare nationwide.

California's share of the total will be about $245 million — some $28 million less than expected. That deficit will have to be made up by the state and counties.

Depending on how the state hands out the $245 million, Marin's share of the $28 million deficit will range between $66,000 and $823,000, to be covered by local funds (revenue sharing) or a cut in social service programs.

If the money is distributed on the basis of county population, Marin will lose only about $66,000 as its proportionate share of the $28 million deficit.

On the other hand, if it is distributed on the basis of the welfare case load in each county, Marin, with a low case load, will lose about $823,000, Miss Presley said.

Supervisors unanimously urged state officials to distribute the money on the basis of population, though chairman Arnold M. Baptiste questioned the move as possibly reducing the allocation to poor people elsewhere in the state.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere responded that the board had to look out for the best interests of Marin.

Voting Light In Marinwood Bond Election

Voting was light this morning in the Marinwood open space bond election, with only 253 residents casting ballots by 11 a.m.

A total of 2,334 registered voters is eligible to cast ballots in the election, according to the Marin County Elections Department.

Polls at the community center, Miller Creek School and Mary Silveira School will remain open until 8 p.m. today. By 11 a.m. today, 115 residents had cast ballots at the community center, 48 at Miller Creek School and 90 at Mary Silveira School, according to precinct officials.

The $600,000 bond issue election is aimed at preserving 350 acres of undeveloped land — most of it in the community's ...thwestern corner — as open space.

Water Is Back To Tasting And Smelling Good

Marin Municipal Water district water is tasting and smelling good again today, a spokesman for the agency said today.

For the past several days users in Southern Marin and the Ross Valley have complained of an unpleasant taste and odor caused by chemical reaction to debris washed into the district's reservoirs during recent storms.

But B. G. Grant, district publicist, said the district has solved the problem by diluting the offending water from its Bon Tempe treatment plant with water from its San Geronimo plant and modifying treatment.

Grant warned that the metallic flavor and aroma may reoccur if storms wash more material into the district's lakes.

Plane Crash Injuries Fatal To Onassis Son

ATHENS (UPI) — Alexandros Onassis, only son and heir of shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis, 23, died today from multiple head injuries he received during a plane crash yesterday, a spokesman at the accident hospital KAT said.

"The death of Mr. Onassis occurred at 18:55 11:55 a.m. EST. There is nothing else to add," the spokesman said.

Earlier a spokesman has said that at 4 p.m. 9 a.m. EST, the young man's heart had started beating irregularly.

Onassis never gained consciousness when the light plane he was piloting crashed minutes after takeoff over the Athens airport runway. An American and a Canadian pilot with him were seriously injured too.

Doctors declared Onassis "clinically dead" hours before his heart stopped beating. Two blood clots were removed from his brain.

The young man's mother, the former Tina Idvanos, and his father and stepmother, the former Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, who spent the morning around his bedside, were seen leaving the hospital.

Bond Vote For Public Safety Set

Residents of Fairfax will vote April 17 on a $300,000 bond issue for new city public safety facilities, the town council formally decided last night. (See another town council story, page 16.)

The bonds would acquire land to construct a new fire house at the present site at Bolinas Avenue and Park Road and remodel fire department headquarters in city hall to provide for expanded police facilities.

The vote was 4-1, with Mayor pro-tem E. Ross Parkerson dissenting.

At a recent council meeting, Parkerson had argued that construction of a new firehouse at the Bolinas-Park site would encroach on nearby Peri Park, and offered an alternate site at 85 Bolinas Road.

Although Egger sided with the majority, he repeated his support of Parkerson's remarks. He said, nevertheless, that he believed voters should be given the opportunity to weigh the plan.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A NATO Compromise

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) allies agreed today on a compromise reply to the surprise Soviet demand for changes in exploratory talks on East-West troop reductions.

A NATO spokesman said agreement on the reply was reached at the fourth NATO council meeting in five days. Formal approval from NATO capitals is expected by tonight, he said, with the reply going off tonight or tomorrow to Russia and other Warsaw pact countries.

NATO sources said the allies reply might agree to Soviet demands that the talks open in Vienna, instead of Geneva, as originally planned. But they said NATO balked at the Kremlin suggestion that the talks be expanded from the 12 nations which have troops in Central Europe, to include all "interested" countries — including neutrals.

Land To Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States agreed today to return portions of 10 military installations with a total area of 5,663 acres to Japan over a three-year period ending January 1976.

The agreement was signed at a meeting of the consultative committee that supervises operation of the U.S.-Japan military security treaty.

Most of the property concerned is in the Tokyo area. "American military capabilities in Japan remain unchanged," a U.S. official said. "We would like to believe there will be some increase in efficiency."

The consolidations will mean a reduction of the authorized strength of the U.S. air force in Japan by 2,100 men from the present level of 8,400.

Ask Rule Delay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bacon processors have asked the government for a delay in enforcement of a new rule requiring the use of "show-and-tell" packages.

The regulation, scheduled to take effect Feb. 17, requires that when bacon is sold in standard "window-type" packages, the window must be big enough to show the consumer at least 70 per cent of one entire slice. The idea behind the rule is that the buyer will be able to tell how much of the bacon is fat and how much is lean.

Older types of packages provided a view of only a thin sliver of each slice, and sometimes made the bacon seem leaner than it actually was.

New Demo Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats, in a major congressional seniority system reform, have voted to require each committee chairman to stand for election by their 243-member caucus.

The Democrats approved the new system in a 204-9 vote yesterday in a closed door caucus.

They also approved a provision that 20 per cent of those present at a caucus could request and receive a secret ballot vote on each chairman. This rule was tested on the first two men named to succeed themselves by virtue of seniority.

Equal Rights

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Legislation was introduced in the Nevada Senate yesterday to ratify the Federal Equal Rights Amendment for women, and one of the sponsors predicted a vigorous fight over the measure.

"This could be as controversial as last session's abortion bill in terms of controversy," said Sen. Richard Bryan, D-Las Vegas, who cosponsored the measure with Sen. Thomas R. C. Wilson, D-Reno.

"I haven't polled other lawmakers but I think it will bring on a fight," said Bryan. "The results could be close."

ALL SMILES IN PARIS

U.S. presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho, their faces wreathed in smiles, share a handshake as they leave the International Conference Center in Paris. They conferred for nearly three hours today and shortly afterwards it was announced Kissinger was returning to Washington later in the day for a conference with President Nixon. See story, page 1.

Man, 29, Kills Five, Then Himself In Topeka

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — A 29-year-old man went beserk last night, storming through a dingy riverfront neighborhood killing his boarding house landlady and four other persons with shotgun blasts. Police said they may never know why he did it.

The gunman became the sixth victim of the melee when he broke into a home, sat down on a couch, turned the 16-gauge shotgun to his head and pulled the trigger.

The victims included the 55-year-old landlady, her daughter and an elderly man thought to be another boarder in the home where the gunman lived. Several houses down the street, a woman watching television and a middle-aged man were killed.

The body of the last man was found four hours after the incident by a neighborhood woman who was sorting through clothes in the closet of the house. Police said the victim had apparently tried to hide in the closet, but was spotted and shot as he crouched beneath the clothes.

"He tried to hide," said Detective Leonard Ashworth. "He just didn't hide good enough."

Police said all the victims were black, including the gunman, identified as Ronald G. Jordan, believed originally from Denver.

One woman was wounded at the second home, but she was in serious condition and under intensive care at a Topeka hospital. A hospital spokesman said her condition had "stabilized nicely" eraly today.

"We're having a hard time tracking down anyone who saw this thing happen," said Lt. Milton Johnson. "Most of them (witnesses) are dead, and the woman who survived is in intensive care.

"Even if she lives, it's hard to say if we can determine a motive or not. We're still working on it. You always hope for witnesses, but you never know."

Police said the killings were the worst mass murder in Kansas in at least three decades. The last sensational case was the murders of four members of the Herbert Clutter family in the late 1950s, chronicled by author Truman Capote in the book, "In Cold Blood."

Early reports indicated that Jordan, who police described as having a small criminal ecord primarily for "strong arm robbery," indiscriminately knocked on doors in the neighborhood and shot whomever appeared. Jordan apparently knew all of the victims he killed.

The bizarre attacks occurred in a mostly black neighborhood across the Kansas River from the Topeka business district. The one and two-story frame homes, located in the shadows of a river viaduct, were within sight of the dome of the Kansas Capitol.

The injured witness was identified as Darlene McCray, 40.

The dead were Mrs. Jessie Mae Avery, 55, the landlady; Pearl Avery, 31, her daughter, and Oscar Maddox, 63. Two doors away was Lucille Cowans, 52, and Herbert Gatewood, described as in his early 40s. Gatewood by ducking onto the closet apparently was the only person who tried to escape Jordan.

U.S. Planes Out In Force in Saigon Aid

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. jets flew their heaviest strikes in five months today in support of South Vietnamese forces while North Vietnam accused the allies of "stepping up the war and terror in South Vietnam."

The jets, U.S. military authorities said, flew 374 one-plane strikes in South Vietnam. This was one fewer than the 375 sorties flown Aug. 22.

B52 bombers, authorities said, flew about another 27 missions of three planes each.

Meanwhile, North Vietnam's official Vietnam News Agency quoted the Communist newspaper Nhan Dan as calling for the "checking of the hands of the war maniacs, who are stepping up the war and terror in South Vietnam."

"The Saigon army, with the support of U.S. air and naval forces, have made one nibbling attack after another on the liberated zone in the past few months."

In North Vietnamese terminology, "liberated zone" refers to Communist-held territory in South Vietnam, particularly territory overrun since last year's Easter Offensive.

With a cease-fire reportedly fast approaching, South Vietnam's second city, Da Nang, went on alert today as part of a reported nationwide move to thwart any Communist territorial grab ahead of a truce. Security guards at the big allied air base put on helmets and flak jackets.

A "grey" alert was on for the 5,000 American servicemen in the Da Nang area, most of them stationed on the base. No traveling in town was permitted except on business, UPI Correspondent Alan Dawson reported.

Dawson said there were unconfirmed reports that Da Nang, a city of 472,000, might be subjected to a 24-hour "practice" curfew in preparation for a cease-fire.

There have been widespread reports, so far without any official announcements, that most South Vietnamese cities will go on round-the-clock curfew for the first few days of any cease-fire, the better for government forces to stop any infiltration of Communist troops into government-held territory.

One sign that a cease-fire was not imminent was that although fighting has stepped up this week there has as yet been no all-out surge by both sides. The theory is that they will try to seize as much territory as possible just before a cease-fire takes effect so there will be no time for counterattacks.

In six clashes Monday around Quang, South Vietnamese paratroops reported killing 64 North Vietnamese soldiers at a cost of three killed and five wounded.

In the Saigon area a Viet Cong unit tried to infiltrate a hamlet 16 miles from the capital Monday night. Government militiamen intercepted the Communists and killed one of them. One militiaman also died in the skirmish, military sources said.

Strikes By Teachers Continuing

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A marathon bargaining session between representatives of the Chicago Teachers Union, the school board and Mayor Richard J. Daley broke off without a settlement today.

Strikes also continued today in Philadelphia, St. Louis, Mo., and Superior, Wis.

A closed session between Daley and representatives of both sides of the Chicago teachers' dispute ended at 6:40 a.m. EST after nearly eight hours with no settlement being reached. No time or date for future negotiations was set.

"It's a sad day for the city of Chicago and the school children when the two sides, so close, couldn't resolve this problem," Daley said after the negotiations ended.

The union and the school board reportedly reached agreement on two of four major contract issues in the marathon session—a 2.5 per cent pay raise for teachers retroactive to Jan. 1 and expansion of minimum class size provisions to all elementary schools. The issues of a shorter school year and more duty-free preparation time for teachers remained unsettled.

All of St. Louis' high schools were closed today as the teachers' strike entered its second day, but about 130 elementary schools were expected to be kept open.

St. Louis teachers defied a court order barring the walkout when they struck Monday. An injunction was later issued in St. Louis Circuit Court prohibiting picketing by the teachers.

The strike by 13,000 Philadelphia teachers dragged into its third week and union lawyer Leonard Sagot said Monday that the school board's "indifference" and the "solidarity" of the teachers could prolong the strike well into the spring.

Dollar Takes Plunge On European Markets

LONDON (UPI) — The Swiss National Bank today suspended its support for the dollar, sending the value of the dollar plummeting on Europe's foreign exchange markets..

In Bern the Swiss National Bank refused to buy dollars to keep their value from plunging against the powerful Swiss franc. The bank said the move was prompted by a "huge" influx of dollars into Switzerland Monday.

The bank said the Swiss franc will be free to seek its own level against the dollar, thus joining the Italian lira, which was allowed Saturday to "float" free of restricted exchange rates against the American currency.

Restricted exchange rates mean that when private speculators are unwilling to pay a minimum amount of foreign currency for the dollar, national banks step in to keep the price of the dollar at its minimum.

In heavy early morning trading, the dollar dropped to 43.90 Belgian francs in Brussels in unrestricted, commercial exchange dealings, compared with Monday's closing rate of 44.245 francs.

In what West German bankers described as "hectic" exchange dealing, the dollar dipped to 3.1750 marks in commercial trading, against the Monday's closing quotation of 3.1930 marks.

At one point in London the dollar dipped to 2.3620 to the pound, against Monday's 2.3575 closing rate—an effective 9 per cent devaluation since the so-called December, 1971, Smithsonian Agreement in Washington which fixed new international exchanges rates.

In Paris the dollar dropped to 5.05 francs on the free money market compared with Monday's 5.09 closing rate. French bankers attributed the drop to the Swiss refusal to support the dollar.

"It appears to be another European speculative attack on the dollar," a French banking source said.

In Rome Italian bankers said the decision to float the lira was taken to stem the flow of capital from the strike-ridden country and not to undermine the dollar. But Swiss bankers said the move failed to prevent a flood of hundreds of millions of dollars to Switzerland Monday.

In Paris, deputies of the Committee of 20 on reform of the world's monetary system began three days of talks today on the role of reserve assets and converibility of currencies.

But a spokesman said it was unlikely they would discuss the floating of the Swiss franc.

The Committee of 20 consists of the world's chief financial and trading powers. It includes representatives from both developing and industrial nations.

Relatives Of Jet Crash Victims Pour Into Area

LAGOS (UPI) — Bodies of Moslem pilgrims lay strewn along the runway and screaming relatives fought army troops and police in attempts to reach dead kinsmen.

Off the runway, broken and burned, rested the hulk of a chartered Boeing 707 that crashed Monday at the Kano airport, 520 miles north of Lagos, in the worst disaster of its kind on record.

Aviation officials said 180 persons of the 202 persons aboard the plane, chartered by Nigerian Airways from the Jordanian national Alia Airlines, died when the plane touched down on gravel 40 feet off the runway, veered left into a ditch, lost a wheel, went into a skid and burst into flames.

The worst previous crash on record, last Oct. 13, involved a Soviet Aeroflot jetliner near the Moscow airport. In that crash, 176 persons died.

The crash Monday occurred as the jetliner was returning from a 2,100-mile flight taking pilgrims to Mecca. Officials said scores of planes make the trip every year to ferry the Nigerian faithful to the spiritual center of Islam.

Officials said 22 persons, including the pilot and five other crewmembers, survived the crash. The crew was placed under guard at a Kano hospital to protect them.

The dead, many of them killed as they jumped or were thrown from the skidding, burning aircraft, were strewn along the runway. Later, police and troops gathered the bodies and covered them with blankets while wailing relatives watched.

Some of the survivors, officials said, escaped death by jumping from the emergency door in the plane's tail section, the only part of the aircraft not destroyed by fire.

Officials said the Kano control tower warned the pilot just before the crash of fog and poor visibility.

The cause of the crash was not officially announced and Transport Commissioner Russell Dikko left Lagos immediately to lead an investigation into the cause.

Authorities sealed off the Kano airport to prevent disturbing evidence.

Other pilgrim flights were diverted to Lagos.

Praise, Outcries To Ruling On Abortions

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A Supreme Court decision that allows abortions on demand in early stages of pregnancy is being applauded by women's rights advocates but criticized by Roman Catholic churchmen as a "tragedy" and "catastrophe" for the nation.

By a 7-2 vote, the Supreme Court Monday struck down state laws that prohibit abortions during the first three months of a pregnancy. That decision, the court ruled, is up to the woman and her physician.

During the second three months, or until a fetus has reached a stage of "viability" —when it could be born and live—the state may regulate but not forbid an abortion. The decision allows states to regulate the conditions of abortion, such as who may perform them and what kinds of facilities should be required.

After this "viability" stage—reached at 6 or 7 months—a state may forbid abortions except "when it is necessary to preserve the health or life or the mother."

The majority ruling, by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, held that rights of personal property under the 14th Amemdment are "broad enough to encompass a woman's decision whether or not to terminate her pregnancy."

The decision will sharply alter the application of antiabortion laws of 46 states. It held unconstitutional—as applied—a Texas law limiting abortions to cases where the mother's life was at stake and a Georgia law allowing three grounds for abortion, one of them cases of rape. Twenty-nine other states have laws similar to Texas' and 15 others have laws similar to Georgia's.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said, "This is an historic and giant step toward the recognition of the rights of women to control their own bodies and to have abortions by choice under the constitutional right to privacy."

She said the "next step" must be enactment of a national law prohibiting any restriction on abortion at any time.

Wilma Scott Heidi, president of the National Organization of Women (NOW), said most of the decision was "good" but that it should have given the woman the right to decide rather than her doctor. She said the decision should not have allowed states to limit abortion practitioners to doctors, adding "We think paraprofessionals can do it."

Cardinal John Krol of Philadelphia, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, said the decision "is an unspeakable tragedy for this nation."

"It is hard to think of any decision in the 200 years of our history which has had more disastrous implications for our stability as a civilized society ... The child in the womb has the right to life it already possesses, and this is a right no court has authority to deny," Cardinal Krol said.

Cardinal Patrick O'Boyle of Washington, D.C., called the decision a "catastrophe for America." He said the Supreme Court had apparently "embraced a policy of death" and had written "another Dred Scott Decision." In the 1857 Dred Scott case, the court held that a Black slave was not a "person" having constitutional rights. In Monday's case, O'Boyle said, the court held that an unborn child is not such a person.

Groups In Marin Split On Decision

Two Marin groups were critical today, although for markedly different reasons, of the U.S. Supreme Court decision nullifying state laws against abortions in early pregnancy.

The Marin Chapter of the National Organization of Women, a pro-abortion group, contends the ruling still imposes heavy state interference on the right of a woman to control her own reproductive life in the time beyond three months.

A Now spokesman questioned the constitutionality of such interference by the state in a person's life and called for repeal of all legal restrictions of abortion. Termination, the group said, should be regulated only by the same business and professional code provisions that cover other medical procedures to insure safety, cleanliness and competence in performance of such procedures.

Anti-abortion forces, represented by the Marin Chapter of Voice for the Unborn, contended that the decision placed "cheap" regard on human life.

"The decision for life and death should not be in the hands of one individual, whether they be a doctor or a mother," said president Marie DePizzol of San Rafael.

"This is a black day for American justice," she said. "I think the American people expected more from the Supreme Court than to regard human life so cheaply."

The group plans to increase efforts in education on abortion and in instituting new court cases on behalf of the unborn child, she said.

Robert G. Lyons was elected vice president; Marie Perry, secretary, and Esther Schimbor, treasurer.

James G. Bartley was named District 3 director and Col. Paul H. Dane as District 4 director.

Membership chairman Laurence Kett reported membership at a record 274 families.

Records Act Compliance Is Sought

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring 25 state and local agencies to comply with the California Public Records Act was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William C. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The 1970 act by Bagley required public agencies to designate their public records and adopt procedures for their public release.

Despite the passage of two years, Bagley said, public agencies have done virtually nothing to comply with the act.

Until public agencies decide what records are public or confidential, "the average citizen is helpless to dislodge records of interest to him. Too often he encounters a resistant bureaucracy and just gives up," Bagley said.

The bill requires the agencies to formulate their public records regulations by July 1, 1974, and to furnish a copy of the regulations to any interested person.

Among the 25 specified agencies were the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, Golden Gate Bridge District and the new statewide Coast Commission.

Bagley said that the public records act was meaningless "unless we give it the teeth necessary to be a benefit to everyone."

Talks Begin

LONDON (UPI) — East German and British officials today began talks on the establishment of diplomatic relations. The talks were scheduled to last two days and are preliminary exchanges, which will be followed by further talks in London and East Berlin, officials said.

Welfare Cheat Given Four Months In Jail

A San Rafael mother of five, who defrauded Marin County of $4,438 in welfare payments, was ordered by a Marin Superior Court judge yesterday to spend four months in jail and repay the money.

After extensive arguments that 32-year-old Virgie Simmons should not be jailed because of the effect on her family, Judge E. Warren McGuire was unswayed.

"This is one of those violations in which everyone is concerned about the defendant," he said. Claiming aid recipients might be "quite willing" to trade a short jail term for illegal grants, McGuire said he was most concerned about deterring others.

"My concern is that people who are taking aid fraudulently are taking it from those who need it," he said.

Nevertheless, the judge made one concession. He told her she could serve the time on weekends or do five days a week with weekends off to keep her family together.

He also placed Mrs. Simmons, also known as Virgie Rubit, on probation for five years.

A Marin Superior Court jury convicted the San Rafael woman Dec. 20 after hearing evidence that her 1971 income exceeded $20,000, part of which went to buy an $8,400 Chrysler.

She was charged with welfare fraud last March after an investigation determined she had been overpaid more than $4,000 during a 14-month span ending last January.

Her known income was $205 a month from Social Security, $59 veterans' benefits because of a late husband who was in the Navy, $405 a month in welfare, support for three of her children from their fathers and her salary as a clerk at the San Rafael Post Office.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams said she grossly understated her income to receive unentitled aid, but was eligible for $1,400 during the 14 months.

Trio Arrested On Suspicion Of Burglary

San Rafael police arrested three men from New England on suspicion of burglary and conspiracy yesterday after a resident on Aqua Vista Drive reported seeing a man in a multicolored hat trying to break into her home.

Booked into Marin County Jail and held on $10,000 bail each to appear today in Marin Municipal Court were Francis David Beaulieu, 23, of Westerly, R.I.; John Woodrow Franklin, 25, of Hope Valley, R.I., and George Smith, 23, of North Stonington, Conn.

Officers said Virginia E. Buckley of 4 Aqua Vista Drive saw a man climb her backyard fence and pull a window open, then flee when he saw her watching, according to police. Police arrested the trio nearby.

Tribute Paid

Coordination On Water Is Sought

Faced with the possibility that home construction will outpace the ability to deliver water, the Novato City Council and North Marin County Water District board today sought coordination.

John O. Nelson, water district manager, said because of delivery problems, especially at times of peak use, the district would be hard pressed to meet the needs of subdivisions approved or about to be approved by the city.

Water district directors sounded out the city on the possibility of a slowdown on issuing building permits, but Councilman Fred F. Ruegg said it was the responsibility of the water district to deny hookups if there was a shortage.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said the city doesn't issue building permits unless water is available.

The district has a contract for 10,000 acre feet of Russian River water annually, but needs a new pipeline to deliver that amount, Nelson reported.

Nelson said he would have data on building and water supply ready by the Feb. 6 water board meeting. Then, he said, directors could determine whether there was a "condition of threatened supply" which could lead to a denial of hookups.

The council and the water board referred the water supply and building coordination problem to Nelson and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown and agreed to meet again in about 30 days.

The council will hold a closed meeting at 5 p.m. today with City Atty. Clark Palmer on pending litigation, according to Sartain.

Administrative Pay Hikes Are Announced

Trustees of the Mill Valley School District last night set administrative salaries for 1972-73, granting raises to administrators ranging from $600 to $2,00 a year.

The raises will be retroactive to July 1 of last year, according to Patsy Whie, district secretary.

The board gave Supt. James A. Collins, who plans a return to teaching soon, a $1,200 annual salary hike from $24,000 to $25,200, she said.

Receiving $20,000 raises were Dr. Delmo Della-Dora, Middle School principal, and Carrol D. Killingsworth, director of business services. The increase will bring both men's wages to $22,000 a year, Mrs. White said Betty Grimm, special administrator assistant, received a $600 hike, bringing her salary to $19,500.

The district's seven elementary school principals each received a $900-a-year raise, bringing their salary range from $1,8,600 to $19,800.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

MEETING — Set a special meeting for 7:45 p.m. Thursday in Old Mill School to consider appointment of two additional consultants to the district's advisory team on the selection of a Collins's replacement. Dr. James W. Guthrie, associate professor at the University of California School of Education at Berkeley, already has been named to the panel. To be considered for appointment at the meeting are Dr. Ralph Keller, director of placement services at Stanford University, and Dr. William Cowan, professor of educational administration at California State University, San Francisco.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Kyra Janssen as a temporary teacher for the fifth grade.

Nation Is Saddened By Johnson's Death

completely closed through the ravages of heart disease.

Johnson, as President, escalated what now has become the longest war in American history. He was stricken just days before an expected peace settlement that would end the war that divided the nation he wanted so much to unite and promote through far-reaching social programs..

"He was pacing himself to the point where he had two work days —one in the morning and one in the afternoon," said a family spokesman of the routine which Johnson followed to the end. "He would take his afternoon nap and then begin the second work session. He had just had lunch and retired for his nap."

Johnson called the ranch switchboard at 3:50 p.m. CST Monday asking for help. Two minutes later, Secret Service agents rushed into his room and found him on the floor beside his bed. He was pronounced dead 41 minutes later on arrival at San Antonio, where he was rushed by private airplane.

"I found a great deal of courage running through the family," said Tom Johnson today. "I found sturdiness and a great deal of compassion..."

Mrs. Johnson was notified of her husband's attack by two-way radio in her car a block from the LBJ Library in Austin, 60 miles from the ranch. She was flown by helicopter to San Antonio's Brooke Army Medical Center, arriving at the same time as the airplane bearing Johnson's body.

It was criticism of the Vietnam War that prompted Johnson to decide in 1968 to leave the White House instead of seeking a second full term. The conflict abroad marred his battle at home against poverty and prejudice through his "Great Society" programs.

Johnson was thrust into the presidency with the assassination of John F. Kennedy in a Dallas motorcade Nov. 22, 1963. He was elected to a full term the following year in a landslide over Sen. Barry M. Goldwater. It was the largest popular plurality vote in presidential history.

Johnson's body will lie in state at the LBJ Library from noon CST until 8 a.m. Wednesday, with a full military honor guard and various members of his former staff "at his side as they were in his years of public life," a family spokesman said.

Johnson's two daughters, Luci Nugent and Lynda Robb, rushed to the LBJ Ranch in the central Texas hill country where Johnson was reared to plan his funeral. The family cemetery is near his boyhood home on the ranch.

Mrs. Robb flew to Texas from Charlottesville, Va., where her husband Charles is a law student at the University of Virginia. Mrs. Nugent lives in Austin with her husband Pat.

An Army spokesman at Brooke said Johnson died of coronary thrombosis. It was his fourth heart attack.

"President Johnson had severe coronary artery disease with complete occlusion of two of the three major arterial supplies to the heart," a family spokesman quoted doctors as saying. "The third major artery was about 60 per cent occluded."

Johnson, a poor boy who worked on a road gang as a young man, became a millionaire and, as President, put the nation into the business of warring on poverty. His dream was a "Great Society" of prosperous Americans living in peace and justice.

"To President Johnson, the 'American dream' was not a catch phrase—it was a reality of his own life," said President Nixon, who succeeded Johnson in the White House. "He believed in America—in what America could mean to all of its citizens and what America could mean to the world." .

Johnson suffered his first heart attack in 1955 when he was Senate majority leader. He was 47 and it took him six months to recover. He called it "as bad as a man can have and still recover." He suffered subsequent attacks in 1970 and last April.

Civl rights leaders said Johnson did more for blacks than any American president since Abraham Lincoln. Nevertheless, his administration was marked by Negro unrest and racial resentment in the ghettos of the nation's cities.

In addition, antiwar critics cried out against Johnson's escalation of the war in Indochina.

It was the war and his weakening health that led to Johnson's dramatic announcement March, 31, 1968, that he would not seek re-election. He said his withdrawal from presidential politics was a "desperate" attempt to show the North Vietnamese that the United States was willing to work out a peace settlement.

The war continued until his death. On the day Johnson died, Nixon's chief negotiator, Henry A. Kissinger, flew to Paris, possibly to initial a Vietnam peace pact before the week was out.

Johnson's failure to end the war was his biggest personal disappointment.

"My hopes have faded away, and my dreams have not been realized," he said after he left office. "I deeply regret it, but I was constantly trying, just as I tried on many other causes that have failed."

But Johnson's "Great Society" programs that were successful included the strongest Civil rights law since Reconstruction, Medicare — health care for the aged—and the War on Poverty.

"Lyndon Johnson did more to advance public support for education and civil justice than any president in American history," said Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who ran with LBJ's support against Nixon last November.

"With the exception of Lincoln, who freed the slaves, no single president contributed as much to the cause of racial equality as did Lyndon Johnson," said civil rights leaders Bayard Rustin and A. Phillip Randolph in a joint statement.

Johnson, 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success: "Hard work."

After his exit from public life, he retired on his LBJ Ranch in the tree-covered hillls of central Texas along the Pedernales River, were he and his wife Lady Bird tended to their cattle, made a few public appearances, and enjoyed their free time away from the pressures of politics. He was a millionaire several times over.

Johnson's last public speech was Dec. 12 when he addressed a symposium at the LBJ Library on the University of Texas campus to mark the public opening of his presidential papers on civil rights. Johnson made the 30-minute address against the wishes of his doctors. He spoke slowly, appeared tired and swallowed pills to ease his pain.

His last public appearance was Saturday when he attended an Arbor Day tree-planting ceremony near the LBJ Ranch with Lady Bird, who became an avid conservationist while First Lady.

East Bay Crash Fatal To Novatan

Dewey Staggs, 64, of Novato, was fatally injured in Oakland yesterday when his truck struck a freeway pillar after a collision with an auto, according to the Alameda County coroner's office.

Staggs's truck collided with a car at Cypress and West Grand avenues at 2:30 p.m., continued about 150 feet and hit the pillar, the coroner's office reported.

He was taken to Providence Hospital where he died at 4:30 p.m.

Staggs, operator of a Novato auto wrecking yard at 310 Deer Island Lane, lived at 27 Palm Lane.

He was a native of Texas and had lived in Novato 12 years.

Surviving are his wife, Opal, of Novato; four sons, Boyd Staggs and J. D. Terry of Novato, Dennis Staggs of San Anselmo and Robert Jones of Florida; two daughters, Janice Warrington of Novato and Vivienne Akins of Illinois; his father, Jim Staggs of Oklahoma; four brothers, Odell Staggs of Texas, Wayne Staggs of San Rafael, Bill Tyler and Ernest Jordan of Washington, and two sisters, Hazel Staggs of Oklahoma and Verona Beceks of Washington; 17 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

Judge Takes Stand At Magee Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A crippled judge described unemotionally yesterday the bloody shootout that left four men dead inside a van at Marin County courthouse in 1970.

And a rapt Ruchell Magee — the "other defendant" in the Angela Davis case — listened quietly for the first time at his eight-week-old murder trial.

Gary Thomas — crippled for life by a bullet from a lawman's gun — was an assistant district attorney at the time of the gun battle. He testified from a wheelchair that Magee held the shotgun that killed Judge Harold J. Haley in the back of the van.

After the shooting started, "I turned my head and looked at Judge Haley," Thomas said. "I saw his face, Then an instant later I saw his face slowly dissolve away — as if in slow motion."

Thomas — appointed later to the bench — said the sawed-off shotgun that killed Haley was held by Magee.

"Did he fire it?" asked prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr.

"All I know is it was in his hand and it went off," Thomas replied.

Magee is charged with killing Haley and with kidnaping the judge, Thomas and three women jurors in an abortive escape attempt. Magee was wounded and two convicts and a teen-age accomplice died.

Magee had been tossed out of court for outbursts during every previous session of the two-month trial. But he sat quietly through yesterday's testimony — never taking his eyes from Thomas.

Black revolutionary Angela Davis was accused of helping plot the escape and furnishing the guns. She was charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy, but an all-white jury found her innocent of all charges. Thomas also testified at her trial.

He told the jury yesterday that Magee shouted: "Let's kill 'em all now," before the shooting started. Convict James McCalin responded: "Let's cool it, keep your cool, everything's cool."

Slain Man Resided In Belvedere

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Police have identified a young man found shot to death yesterday as a resident of Belvedere, and not of Mill Valley.

Officers said Jeffrey Simon, 26, lived at 330 Bella Vista, although no listing was found for him at that address.

Simon, a bullet through his head, was found early yesterday in front of a home at 55 Fairmount Avenue.

A Hastings College of Law student, 23-year-old Robert Prudhomme, of 77 Fairmount Avenue, was arrested at his home on suspicion of murder after police acted on in police acted on information provided by neighbors.

Officers said they found a 1972 student body card from the College of Marin in Simon's pocket, as well as a card that showed him to be a current student at the University of Oklahoma.

College of Marin officials said they have no record that Simon was ever enrolled there, however.

Sanitary Board Vacancy Is Filled

Ture Dahlstrom has been appointed to the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board, replacing Cyril G. Hansen, who resigned because he is leaving the area.

Board president George F. Carney said Dahlstrom was chosen by district directors last night.

Dahlstrom, a 30-year resident of Sausalito, was formerly chief steward for the American President Lines' President Wilson and is now a special representative for the Don-Em Travel Center in San Francisco.

assassination of President Kennedy.

Political leaders in the state calied the powerful Texan a skilled legislator and a dedicated American.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, a Republican who served in Congress when Johnson was president, said: "In the area of legislation to solve domestic problems, he certain has to be classed as one of our greatest presidents. Few others showed the concern for the poor and for minority groups that Lyndon Johnson showed during his presidency."

Former Assembly Speaker Jess Unruh, who was Johnson's 1964 Southern California campaign co-chairman and now is running for mayor of Los Angeles, said: "I remember President Johnson as a longtime friend and although I differed with him on the Vietnam War, I respected his opinion. He laid down his political life for it."

Referring to the recent death of former President Harry S Truman, Unruh added: "It makes one feel somewhat leaderless with no ex-presidents on the scene. I wish we would have had more time with both of them."

State Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, the first black man ever to serve in the California Senate, said: "His contribution to the cause of civil rights will be long remembered by Americans of all races and creeds."

State Senate Democratic Leader George Moscone of San Francisco said Johnson's record "on civil rights was unexcelled by any American president. Any disagreement that any of us had with his policies in Vietnam was overshadowed by his civil rights record."

Assembly Democratic Leader Jack R. Fenton of Montebello called Johnson "one of the finest congressional leaders and most effective chief executives this country has ever seen in action. Only history will demonstrate the import of his 'Great Society'."

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, a Democrat, said Johnson's "many achievements in office have been overshadowed because of the war he inherited and which tormented him as president."

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, also a Democrat, said the Johnson administration "will go down as one of the best on domestic programs. No administration had a stronger, more progressive record of social reform."

Airman Is Sentenced On Charge

An Air Force staff sergeant was ordered yesterday to serve 90 days in jail and pay a $302 fine on a charge of felony drunken driving.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Andrew Leonard Sarabyn of Hamilton Air Force Base on probation for four years and ordered him to seek treatment for alcoholism.

The judge also ordered Sarabyn to pay any judgment against him in a pending $250,000 civil suit filed by a San Rafael woman hurt when his car collided with hers near Novato Sept. 23.

Injured in the head-on collision on Highway 101, south of the city was 20-year-old Denise Lee Saling. She was hospitalized with what the hospital described as head injuries and multiple fractures.

Sarabyn, who reportedly started drinking heavily while stationed in Vietnam in 1967, pleaded no contest to the felony charge in November.

Reporter Tells Of LBJ Years

EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI Correspondent Helen Thomas covered the White House from the time Lyndon Johnson moved into it in 1963 until he left it in January, 1969. In this dispatch she gives her observations of the 36th President and incorporates some of those of her colleague, the late UPI Reporter Merriman Smith.

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "God knows the last thing I wanted was to become President in this way."

The words were those of Lyndon B. Johnson and were spoken in the grim late afternoon of Nov. 22, 1963, as Air Force One carried the new President back to Washington from Dallas. The corpse of John F. Kennedy was in the rear of the plane, surrounded by numbed assistants, and Kennedy's widow, Jacqueline, sat in a small bedroom nearby in white-faced shock, her husband's blood splattered on the hem of her pink suit.

To those who saw Lyndon Johnson at that hour, he was everything a leader should be under great emotional stress—calm, deliberate, considerate. To UPI Reporter Merriman Smith he was "as realistic as an ice pick."

At one point, Johnson stopped to talk to two pool reporters and swore a fiercely determined oath, punching a big right forefinger into one reporter's chest to make his point:

"... I'll tell you one thing now that I am Presidnt and with God's help, you're going to live long enough to write that I was the best President this country ever had ... because I'm going to try like hell—I'm going to try so hard that you'll be forced to write something like that!" Johnson said.

Only the perspective of history can make a judgement of Johnson as President. But when he left the White House five years and three months later, the war in Vietnam had become his albatross. The country was divided, his supporters were alienated, and he was lonely and isolated, a prisoner in his office.

Reporters who followed Johnson's tenure in the White House saw him as emotional, demanding, sensitive, insecure. He was always afraid he was not big enough for the job. He stood in awe of the office. Sometimes he would say in wonderment, "there have been only 36 of us."

He was also a man who needed people. He described the White House as the "lonely acres." Sometimes he would stroll to the gates and put his hands through to shake hands with awed spectators.

Memories of him tend to flood at a solemn time such as this.

—There was that afternoon on the lawn of Bethesda Naval Hospital when he pulled up his flappy sports shirt to show photographers the incision of his gall bladder operation. There was a public flap over this display, but he later told a reporter he did it to stop gossip that he had cancer.

—He was courageous. At the end of his wife's whistle stop tour through the South during the 1964 campaign, he met up with her in New Orleans and berated the crowd to stop saying: "Nigger, niggery, nigger."

—He was a brilliant political strategist who knew how to arm twist President Kennedy's domestic program through Congress when the country was unified in his grief. But he looked back in longing at his own days as Senate majority leader. "I never had a vote cast against me," he said.

In Johnson City, Tex., he resurrected his boyhood home as a national landmark and filled it with family memorabilia and nostalgia of his childhood days. Sometimes he would drive his Lincoln convertible to the site just to watch tourists going through the white frame cottage.

Sensitive as he was, Johnson was always determined to know what the country was saying. He had three news tickers installed in his oval office and he read newspapers avidly. He had his night reading and morning reading, but he rarely slept a night through. —Each escalation of the war was torment. Once when his daughter, Luci, returned to the White House from a date at midnight, she found her father distraught. He had ordered the bombing of the oil dumps at Haiphong. "Your daddy may have started World War III," he told her. Luci, a recent Roman Catholic convert, took her father to a nearby church where priests opened the doors at midnight for the President to kneel and pray.

He was a man besieged by protesters. "Hey, Hey LBJ, how many kids did you kill today?" were the angry chants heard when he and his family were in public.

He was constantly in touch with the 24-hour situation room in the White House, inquiring about the fliers—who had made it and who had not.

He liked to operate in total secrecy and spring surprises. He would cancel an appointment with reporters if the news broke before he could announce it. He never wanted to say when he was leaving Washington and when he was returning for fear that reporters would write that he had "canceled" a trip, starting rumors that a crisis had arisen.

He kept his sense of humor. "That will be one of the things ... to be sick on our own time," Johnson said of his retirement. "It is a burden when you think of being sick on 200 million people's time."

Johnson electrified the world with his announcement March 31, 1968, that he would not seek re-election. Later he invited reporters up to the family quarters where he had donned a high collared sports shirt and was spooning up chocolate pudding. Was it irrevocable, he was asked.

"Irrevocable," he said.

On the presidential jet going home to Texas after 38 years in public life, Johnson told two wire service reporters:

"I felt differently within four seconds after I heard the oath," when Richard M. Nixon was sworn in.

"I feel for him and know what he's going to be facing up to," he went on. "As for myself," said Johnson, "I don't have to be concerned about everything that happens now. The responsibility is somewhere else. It's a great relief. We're so thankful. So many things happened. We just hope good things will heppen to Mr. Nixon."

He had always lived to the optimum of his energy and ability. With his eyes always on history, he was confident that his policies and actions would be vindicated, if not now, then later.

Flood Victim Aid Will Be Discussed

The Novato Flood Control Zone Advisory Board will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Olive School to discuss relief and financial assistance available to flood victims.

Representatives of federal, state and local agencies will be present to provide information, according to Charles E. Murphy, Marin County flood control engineer.

Tanks Stolen

Acetylene and oxygen tanks valued at $400 were taken last Tuesday or Wednesday from a construction shed belonging to Withers and Wight Construction Contractors, sheriff's deputies said yesterday. The shed is located at 49 San Pablo Avenue in Santa Venetia.

One More Candidate Enters School Races

Only one new candidate has filed nomination papers since yesterday in the April 17 school board races in Marin, the county elections department reported today.

John D. Kassenbrock, a Novato dentist and former chairman of the city's parks and recreation commission, filed for one of three seats open on the Novato Unified School District board.

The 45-year-old Kassenbrock served for eight years on the commission, a post he left last month when he was not reappointed by the city council. He was chairman of the commission for two years.

He said he was running for a board seat because he wanted to be of continued service to the city. "With six children, I have a big stake in the board," he added.

Kassenbrock said he is a former president of a Southern California organization called MERCI, a group concerned with mentally and emotionally retarded children.

He is an eight-year resident of Novato and has dental offices on Grant Avenue. He lives with his wife, Mary Ann, at 35 Eames Court.

The terms of three trustees will expire in Novato on April 17, and none of the incumbents has yet filed for reelection. James E. Casassa of 11 Nina Drive and Thomas J. Cleary of 41 Taft Court have also filed papers.

Step Forward

HELSINKI (UPI) — Britain told preparatory talks for a European Security Conference today that a four-point Soviet agenda proposal presented on Monday was a "substantial step forward." British Ambassador Anthony Elliot was the first Western ambassador to comment directly on the Soviet proposal to the 34-nation preparatory talks.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1973 with 342 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

American patriot John Hancock was born Jan. 23, 1737.

On this day in history:

In 1845, Congress ruled that all national elections shall take place on the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November.

In 1937, 27 Communists confessed they had conspired with Leon Trotsky to undermine the regime of Josef Stalin.

In 1948, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said he would not accept a presidential nomination from either party. He ran on the Republican ticket in 1952 and became the 34th U.S. president.

In 1969, a tornado killed 29 persons and left hundreds injured in Hazlehurst, Miss.

A thought for the day: American author James Fields said, "How sweet and gracious, even in common speech, is that fine sense which men call courtesy."

Planners Turn Down Novato Apartments

The Novato Planning Commission denied plans for 224 apartment units on San Marin Drive west of San Ramon Way last night because the density was too high.

Exmoor Land Co. had submitted plans for the apartments on 20 acres of land near San Marin High School.

In another matter, commissioners set a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Community House to review plans prepared by the late John Kenney for a community of 2,300 dwelling units on 700 acres, south of Highway 37 in the Black Point area.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

VALLEY OAKS — Approved a master plan by Kaehler-Timmer Development Co. for 88 single family homes on 19.9 acres of a 42.3 acre parcel, leaving the balance in open space on the south side of Olive Avenue opposite Rita Court.

APPEAL — Denied once more a request by International Concrete System Consultants Inc. for 83 apartment units on the east side of Diablo Avenue, south of Warner Creek. The commission previously had turned down the request but the firm appealed to the city council, which asked the commission t reconsider.

Administrative Pay Hikes Are Announced

Trustees of the Mill Valley School District last night set administrative salaries for 1972-73, granting raises to administrators ranging from $600 to $2,000 a year.

The raises will be retroactive to July 1 of last year, according to Patsy White, district secretary.

The board gave Supt. James A. Collins, who plans a return to teaching soon, a $1,200 annual salary hike from $24,000 to $25,200, she said.

Receiving $2,000 raises were Dr. Delmo Della-Dora, Middle School principal, and Carrol D. Killingsworth, director of business services. The increase will bring both men's wages to $22,000 a year, Mrs. White said.

Betty Grimm, special administrator assistant, received a $600 hike, bringing her salary to $19,500.

The district's seven elementary school principals each received a $900-a-year raise, bringing their salary range from $18,600 to $19,800.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

MEETING — Set a special meeting for 7:45 p.m. Thursday in Old Mill School to consider appointment of two additional consultants to the district's advisory team on the selection of Collins's replacement. Dr. James W. Guthrie, associate professor at the University of California School of Education at Berkeley, already has been named to the panel. To be considered for appointment at the meeting are Dr. Ralph Keller, director of placement services at Stanford University, and Dr. William Cowan, professor of educational administration at California State University, San Francisco.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Kyra Janssen as a temporary teacher for the fifth grade.

Rock Group Files $6 Million Suit

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — The rock group Three Dog Night has filed a $6 million lawsuit against a New York artists agency and brought a $3 million action against the same agency before the California Labor Commission, a spokesman for the group said today.

The action was filed in Superior Court against American Talent International Ltd., the spokesman said. The rock group alleged the agency falsely portrayed itself as representing Three Dog Night and wrongfully collected more than $132,000 in fees owed to the musicians. The agency represented them for only eight months, the musicians said.

Corte Madera Will Annex Development When Built

A 78-unit condominium development to be built on an island of county land in the middle of Corte Madera will be annexed to the town once it's constructed, the Corte Madera Board of Design heard last night.

A master plan for the eight-acre project was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission. The site is at 66 Tamal Vista Boulevard, opposite the Co-op Shopping Center. Developer is Johnny Ribiero of San Rafael.

Town zoning administrator William G. McBride said board members were told county officials required the developer to meet town standards.

The board approved the design of two park benches to be placed outside the Corte Madera Regional Library by the Corte Madera Woman's Improvement Club, and required that a fence to be constructed around a former car wash site at 5750 Paradise Drive by Big 4 Rents should feature six-foot trees at 15-foot intervals.

A Teacher Lottey Is Scheduled

The Kentfield School District board last night said it will hold a reduction-in-force lottery for teachers hired since Sept. 1, 1970.

The lottery will be held on Jan. 31 at 3:30 p.m. in the district office.

Reduced enrollment in the district's schools indicates that two out of 66 teachers may have to be laid off in the 1973-74 school year.

Interim Supt. Byron W. Mauzy said two board members whose terms expire this year — Richard B. Ellis and De Witt K. MacDonald Jr., — announced that they do not intend to seek reelection April 17.

The third trustee whose term expires, Gloria Riccardi, already has filed her candidacy.

The Kentfield School District board also:

SCREENING — Approved paying members of the screening committee for a new superintendent $75 each for screening applications, plus $50 for interviews; appointed Reginald Hammond, Fairfax School District superintendent, as chairman of the committee.

TEACHER — Hired Gloria Murray as a temporary sixth-grade teacher at Greenbrae School for the rest of the school year.

PROGRAM — Approved spending $450 from the research and development fund for Kent elementary school children to take part in the primary reading instruction.

GIFTED — Approved four members of the Academically Talented Task Force spending up o $100 to attend the annual conference of the California Association for the Gifted in San Francisco on Mar. 2 and 3.

OFFSET — Hired Debra Jahnke as a part-time temporary offset equipment operator in the district office, part of an experiment to see if all district printing can be centralized.

MEMORIAL — Heard from Mrs. Riccardi that a joint Parent-Teacher Association executive meeting had concurred in renaming Kent Junior High School in honor of the late Supt. Anthony G. Bacich. The faculty-inspired suggestion will be considered at a late board meeting.

WORKSHOP — Set a board policy workshop for Feb. 5 at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School.

Officers Chosen By Labor Council

The Marin County Labor Council has chosen officers for 1973.

Reelected were Charles Smith, president; Michael Pechina, vice president; Jerry Tuosto, recording secretary, and Charles Weers, secretary-treasurer.

William Schutt also has been elected to serve on the organizations board of directors, according to Weers.

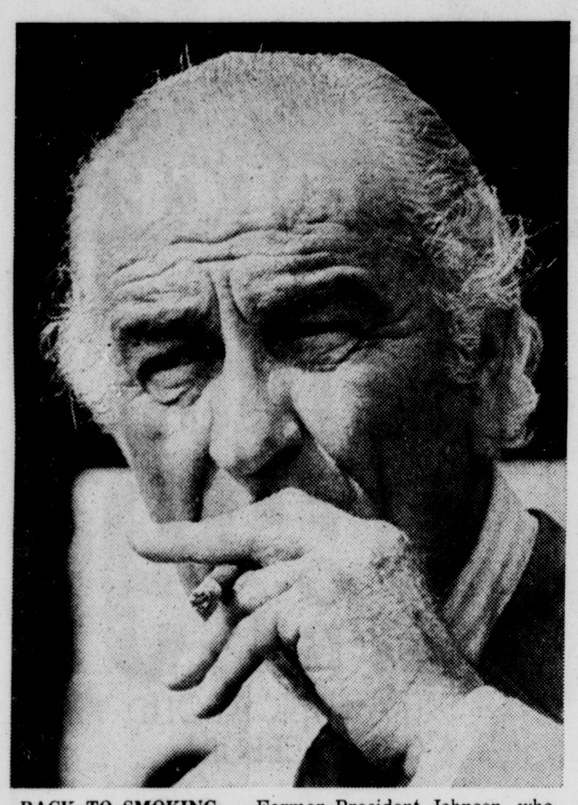
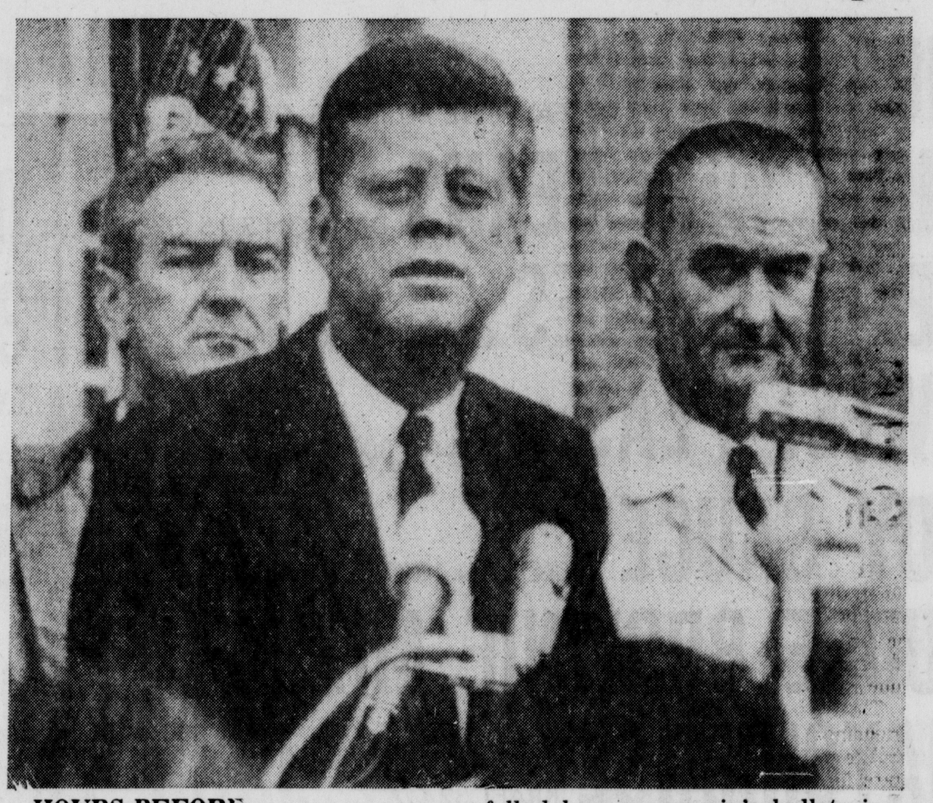
Lyndon B. Johnson: Moments In History



BACK TO SMOKING — Former President Johnson, who gave up smoking for several years on orders of his doctor, was caught by a photographer last April puffing on a cigar during informal opening of an exhibit of political cartoons at the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park in Stonewall, Tex.

JUST EIGHT DAYS AGO — Former President Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, leave the inauguration of Gov. Dolf Briscoe in Austin. The occasion last Tuesday was Johnson's last public appearance. He was stricken during an afternoon nap yesterday at the LBJ Ranch in central Texas.



HOURS BEFORE — Former President Johnson (right) listens as President Kennedy addresses a large crowd at Fort Worth, Tex., on Nov. 11, 1963. Hours later Kennedy was felled by an assassin's bullets in nearby Dallas and Johnson was sworn in as the nation's 36th chief executive. At Kennedy's left, John Connally, then governor of Texas.

PRESIDENTS CONFER — Shortly after undergoing abdominal and throat surgery in November 1966, former President Johnson met with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in his hospital suite in Bethesda, Md. The surgery, in part to correct difficulties arising from a gall bladder operation a year earlier, followed a Southeast Asian tour.

WITHIN A MONTH — The U.S. has lost its last two surviving presidents within a month. Former President Harry S. Truman is shown with then President Johnson receiving the nation's No. 1 Medicare card in ceremonies at Independence, Mo., in January 1966. Truman died Dec. 26. Johnson died yesterday.

Ridge Grading Rules Softened In Novato

The Novato City Council softened last night a hard-line general plan proposal to prohibit grading of ridges and knolls for development by voting to allow the practice if it is found not to be detrimental to the goals and policies of the city.

The vote was 4-1, with Councilman Fred F. Ruegg dissenting on grounds that he sees nothing wrong with the practice, known as "daylighting," in order to provide housing for people.

The strongest voice against such grading came from Councilman David Price Jones, who called it "a bad practice, period.

"My philosophy is that in a great majority of cases, we should leave the tops of scenic ridges and knolls alone," Jones said.

The debate, which came as the council resumed deliberations on a new community general plan, resulted in a compromise that expanded the daylighting issue from one to two proposed policy statements.

The first, introduced by Councilman George C. Quesada, allows the city to prohibit "excessive grading," particularly in canyon fills, side hill cuts and daylighting for development purposes.

Councilwoman Dorothy Young objected to the word "excessive" as ambiguous, but agreed to leave interpretation of the term up to the planning commission.

The second, initiated by Jones, stipulates that "the city shall not permit construction on scenic ridges and knolls unless appropriate findings can be made that to do so would promote and not be detrimental to the goals and policies of the city."

In relation to the development issue, the council voted that "the city may apply provisions such as lower density, larger setbacks or special design standards for any development adjoining unique land forms, creeks, marshes, the Petaluma River or San Pablo Bay."

Dealing with the proposed general plan's provisions for open space, the council voted 4-1 to approve and endorse the county's preliminary open space plan and acquisition program.

By an identical 4-1 vote, councilmen also approved a proposal that "the city give high priority to city acquisition of open space, since urban development as proposed by the countywide plan will cause intense development pressures on the acquisition of open space."

Ruegg cast the dissenting vote in both instances because "I believe the city has higher priorities than open space," he said.

The Novat City Council also:

HEIGHT — Referred back to the planning commission a general plan proposal to limit height of residential buildings to three stories for clarification on whether restrictions should be calculated by stories or by feet from ground level.

CONSERVATION — Unanimously approved a planning goal to recognize the environmental resources and enlighten the public of the advantages of conservation.

COLLEGES — Concurred with Marin Community College District policy to limit enrollment at Indian Valley Colleges to 5,000 students.

Leary Plans Challenge Of Courts

SANTA ANA (UPI) — Drug advocate Timothy Leary plans to challenge the authority of California courts to try him, on the grounds he was "hijacked" from Afghanistan by American agents.

Leary, 51, appeared in court Monday for the first time since he was returned to the United States Thursday in custody, 28 months after escaping from a California prison.

Leary told newsmen he had been "hijacked by a totalitarian government" from Kabul, where he was sighted by a U.S. narcotics agent.

California courts have no authority over Leary because he was "kidnaped from Afghanistan in violation of the law," said Leary's lawyer, George Chula.

Leary appeared for arraignment and requested permission to act as his own lawyer. Superior Court Judge James Turner denied the request, ruling it "premature," and continued the arraignment to Jan. 30.

Leary has been indicted here on 19 counts of conspiracy and smuggling as the alleged mastermind behind the "Brotherhood of Eternal Love," of which Leary was one of the founders.

Narcotics investigators described the brotherhood as a ring of drug dealers responsible for production of millions of LSD tablets and a smuggling operation that brought 1,000 pounds of hashish a month into the United States.

Leary also is liable to state and federal charges in connection with his escape, and completion of the origional 1-to-10 year marijuana possession term he was serving when he fled.

Commuters To Be Polled On Service

San Geronimo Valley commuters will be polled during the next two weeks on their views of an expanded bus service designed to minimize automobile use in the area.

The San Geronimo Valley Planning Committee will distribute postcards at 14 throughfares feeding Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between 7 and 9 a.m. Commuters are asked to fill in the cards and mail them within three days.

A recent survey revealed that 50 per cent of valley residents would use expanded bus service, according to Joachin Burkhardt, chairman of the transportation and transit subcommittee of the planning group.

Officer, Airman Of Month Named

Sgt. Walter A. Brandenburg and Airman Edward L. Karczmarczyk, both of the Security Police Squadron, have been named noncommissioned officer and airman of the month for January at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Brandenburg, 33, has been in the Air Force for 10 years, all in police work, and plans a career in civilian law enforcement after he retires from the Air Force. He is majoring in administration of justice at Golden Gate University.

Karczmarczyk, 18, also plans a career in law enforcement after he leaves the Air Force. He is studying administration of justice at Indian Valley Colleges and is a member of the Hamilton Karate Club.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Are you a good detective? Then solve the "Case of the Insulted Artist," a make-believe drama starring famous people born today. Follow the clues and guess the answer.

Imagine you are a judge in Paris. Brought before you is Hollywood movie actor Randolph Scott, celebrating his 70th birthday as a tourist seeing the sights. But he stands accused of having slandered the great French artist Edouard Manet by calling him a "funny-looking hippie," while visiting the Louvre.

"Mon Dieu!" screamed the bearded man, wearing a yellow hat. "You have insulted me, monsieur."

"I was talking about the picture — not you!" answered Scott, who refused to apologize. A native-born Virginian, he knew the difference between being a gentleman and a coward.

Just as the two were ready to meet for a duel, two blue-uniformed gendarmes appeared and arrested them both. Thus the duel was avoided but both men were jailed.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart, 58, today, a witness to the affair, arrived in court with his friend, David Douglas Duncan, 57. "Your honor," said Justice Stewart. "In France will truth set a man free?" Assured that it would, the jurist won the case by asking cameraman Duncan to produce a photograph of Manet's self-portrait. Question: What did the picture reveal?

ANSWER

It showed the accuser was an imposter. True, he wore a beard, but he was not 141 years old, the artist's age today!

The Lowly Deuce Of Diamonds Proves 12th Trick For Slam

Bridge players are creatures of habit. They expect you to ruff your losers in the dummy. If you don't ruff, they assume that you cannot have any losers.

TAKES A LOOK

West opened the queen of hearts, holding the trick. South ruffed the next heart and looked around for a way to develop 12 tricks.

If he ruffed his losing diamond in dummy, he would wind up with a losing club in each hand. There was no chance of deceiving the enemy if he kept the king of hearts in dummy. The defender with the ace of hearts would see clearly that he had to hold on to that card for dear life, and he would allow the other defender to stop the clubs.

LOWLY DEUCE

The lowly deuce of diamonds was not as good a threat as the king of hearts, but it enjoyed the advantage of being concealed instead of staring the opponents in the face.

After ruffing the second heart, South got to dummy with a spade and ruffed the king of hearts. Then he ran four more rounds of trumps without bothering to ruff a diamond in dummy.

DISCARD CLUB

As the play went, dummy had one more trump than declarer after South had ruffed two hearts. When dummy led the last trump, South could discard a club from his hand.

The defenders assumed that South had no diamonds to ruff in dummy and that it was safe to throw away their diamonds and save their clubs. Since each defender saved only two diamonds, declarer eventually took the last three tricks with the ace, king and deuce of that suit.

ANSWER: Pass.

You have no reason to believe that you are safer at two diamonds than your partner will be at one spade.

Homeowner Unit Picks New Officers

The Glenwood Homeowners Association in San Rafael has elected new officers for 1973.

Officers are Phil Hershwitzky, president; David Manuel, vice president; Robin Rudy, treasurer, and Edward Berger, secretary.

Prusser Seeking Treasurer's Post

Gordon Pusser, a Larkspur businessman, has announced his candidacy for reelection as Northern California treasurer of the Democratic State Central Committee.

He will seek reelection at the party's convention Saturday and Sunday in Sacramento.

A former treasurer and co-chairman of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee, Pusser took credit for broadening the base of the party's financial support. Traditionally funded through large donations from few contributors, the party has expanded its list of contributors from about 1,000 to over 50,000, Pusser said.

Scout Is Due Eagle Rank Monday

Randall O. Wylie, 14, of Boy Scout Troop 42, will be given the eagle scout rank at a dinner at 7:30 p.m. Monday at West Novato School.

Wylie, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Walter O. Wylie of 20 Juanita Court, Novato, is a ninth grader at Sinaloa Junior High School, where he is an honor student and member of the band.

He has been a troop instructor and patrol leader for the leadership corps and has earned 21 merit badges, including four at the Marin Sierra Camp.

For his eagle project, Wylie served as den chief for cub scouts at Tamarancho Day Camp for three weeks last summer.

He has been in scouting six years, starting with Cub Pack 86 in Novato, then Troop 81 and starting last March with Troop 42.

Police Seek Kidnaper Of Toddler

MODESTO, Calif. (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies hunted today for a tall, skinny man with reddish brown hair in the kidnaping at knifepoint of an 11-month—old baby from a supermarket parking lot.

The description came from the child's mother, Mrs. Frances lauver, 22, who also said the kidnaper sounded "semi literate."

"We doubt robbery was the motive," said Sgt. Charles Curtis of the Stanislaus County sheriff's department. "The man apparently just wanted the child."

Mrs. Lauver said the kidnaper threatened her with a knife in the parking lot, forced his way into her station wagon and drove it to a peach orchard two miles away.

There he ordered the mother out of the car but refused to let her take her son, Thomas Michael Lauver jr., saying: "No, I'm taking him with me."

Before driving off, the kidnaper told Mrs. Lauver to give him her address and promised to return the child if she did not report the incident.

Mrs. Lauver wrote the address with a lipstick on the back of a grocery cash register slip and the man left with the young son.

Mrs. Lauver, nearly hysterical, ran screaming to a nearby inn from where deputies were called.

Within 20 minutes of receiving the call, the station wagon was found parked just three blocks from the grocery lot where the kidnaper first appeared but there was no trace of him or the child.

Mrs. Lauver said the abductor was between 25 and 30 years old and had several days growth of beard.

In hopes that the boy would be returned, deputies withheld news of the kidnaping from Saturday until Monday.

Builder Loses Appeal To Tiburon Council

The Tiburon City Council dealt another setback last night to a builder planning 56 townhouses and an inclined railway to serve the units at the Red Hill slide area.

The council turned down unanimously an appeal by Greystone Builders of planning commission rejection of its proposal.

Besides the railway, the plans also call for a recreation building, swimming pool and 150-car garage on 4.7 steeply sloped acres, which the builder has promised to stabilize.

In rejecting the appeal, the council sent the builder back to the planning commission, and asked that panel to consider reducing density in the area.

"My vote on this project in the future will be affected by whether we have enough R-3 (multiple dwelling) projects already in the city," said Mayor Albert H. Sennett.

The council also said that if the project is ever approved, the builder must meet strong conditions from the city engineer on how to stabilize the slide.

Councilman Branwell D. Fanning suggested that the builder buy insurance for the city to cover any possibility that the townhouses would slide down the hill.

But Fanning said it would be advantageous to the city to have the slide stabilized. "If they don't stop the mass from sliding, someone is going to have to grapple with it eventually or someday Belvedere Lagoon is going to be filled in in one swoosh," he said.

Leonard Cahn, representing the developer, protested the new turn. He said that he had worked extensively with the city staff to reduce massiveness of the project.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

HILARITA — Postponed until Feb. 14 a special meeting to review plans for the moderate income housing development known as Hilarita. The council will decide whether plans modified by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development are close enough to precise plans already approved by the city.

NUISANCE — Declared a nuisance a pool equipment shed in the yard of Richard Miller at Seven Corte Las Casas and ordered it removed in 30 days.

MORATORIUM — Set Feb. 12 to discuss a request that the county ban more developments in unincorporated areas of the Tiburon peninsula until new master plans are approved for these areas.

HACIENDA DRIVE — Asked staff to begin acquiring title to the lower portion of Hacienda Drive so the city can begin repairing the street.

PUBLIC LANES — Adopted a procedure for acquiring the right-of-way on lanes and paths now lying on private land that have been used as public walkways for several years.

TENNIS COURTS — Decided to go ahead with building two tennis courts at Del Mar school and asked the staff to set up a joint powers agreement with Reed Union School District.

LANDMARKS — Asked the planning commission to review a proposed ordinance for setting up city landmarks.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to consider filling two planning commission vacancies, but took no action.

Woman Killed By Avalanche

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) — An avalanche roared down a mountainside near this winter playground Monday, killing the wife of a resort owner.

Authorities identified the victim as Mrs. Anne Janss, 54, wife of William C. Janss, owner of Sun Valley Co., Inc.

Three other skiers were swept nearly a half mile down the slope but were uninjured.

Stolen Auto Found Stripped

An automobile belonging to Asst. Marin County Counsel Richard V. Godino was found partially stripped in a Marin City parking lot Saturday, sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

The car, a 1956 Chevrolet station wagon was found at 9:40 a.m. parked at 84 Cole Drive. Two rear wheels and the spare tire, valued at $100, were missing, deputies said.

Godino reported that he last saw the car last Tuesday parked near his home on Tennessee Valley Road in Tamalpais Valley.

End To War Requested By Council

Although reports of peace in Vietnam seemed stronger than ever, the Tiburon City Council decided there was still enough reason last night to ask Congress to end the war.

The council voted unanimously for a peace resolution proposed by Councilman M. Carlisle Becker.

Becker said his measure might be anticlimactic, but he believed it was still necessary because war in Southeast Asia could escalate at any time.

Several times Councilmen Branwell D. Fanning and Allan N. Littman tried to modify or table Becker's motion. The only successful major amendment was one praising President Nixon and Henry Kissinger for their efforts at peace talks.

Fanning labeled as "a bunch of baloney" clauses in the resolution which said that the war had "led to disorder in government, commerce and moral behavior" and had aroused the "disapproval of other nations."

"If we hadn't had so many idiotic resolutions like this five years ago, the war would hve been over by now," he said.

Littman called the resolution a political move. "We have so many things to do within our own domain that a resolution on the eve of the signing smacks too much of partisan politics," he said.

But Mayor Albert H. Sennett disagreed. "It doesn't criticize any administration or any elected officials," he said.

For the ultimate vote, the council managed to unite to adopt the resolution.

Hunger Striker Is Out Of Jail

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI) — Glenn Pontier, 26, of Clifton, N.J., who staged a hunger strike with Rev. Philip Berrigan and nine other inmates last August, was released from the Danbury Federal Prison Monday.

Pontier completed a one-year sentence for evasion of the Selective Service law imposed after he refused an option to work rather than enter the military service.

Watergate Bail Reduction Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The trial judge brusquely refused today to reduce bail for four men of seven accused who pleaded guilty in the Watergate bugging case. All four are now in jail.

Federal Judge John J. Sirica stressed their admission of participating in "clandestine activities" in rejecting the request to lower the $100,000 bail for each of the four men, all from the Miami area.

Daniel E. Schultz, newly hired attorney for the four, urged the reduction on grounds his clients had pressing personal problems necessitating their release.

Sirica declared: "Each of these four defendants is fluent in Spanish and one or more of them apparently has ties in foreign countries. Each of them has experience in clandestine operations, including the use of aliases ...

"The court fails to see why these defendants should receive better treatment than their codefendant, Mr. Howard Hunt ... and the court sees no reason to make an invidious distinction here."

Hunt, a former White House consultant, pleaded guilty separately from the Miami four. The latter, who are being held for sentencing at the end of the trial, were Bernard L. Barker, Frank A. Sturgis, Virgilio Gonzalez and Eugenio R. Martinez.

Sirica said: "While it is true that the defendants did not violate their bail conditions, it must be realized that the temptation to flee now would be much greater than before. They are facing massive fines and long jail sentences. They have had a taste in the past week of life in jail and I'm sure they didn't find it pleasant."

They admitted they had participated in the break-in and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate apartment complex on June 17.

That left only two men on trial—James W. McCord Jr., former security chief for the committee to re-elect President Nixon, and G. Gordon Liddy, one-time finance counsel to the Nixon campaign. They are charged with conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping at the headquarters.

Hunt is free on bond.

Lawyers for McCord and Liddy spent much of Monday trying to discredit testimony by the star prosecution witness, ex-FBI agent Alfred C. Baldwin III. Baldwin testified he thought his political espionage work for President Nixon's re-election campaign — eavesdropping on some 200 Democratic phone calls—was legal.

Baldwin said he had been asked by McCord to do the monitoring from a motel room across the street from Democratic headquarters and felt that was within the law.

McCord's lawyer, Gerald Alch of Boston, tried to show McCord was seeking to prevent violence to Nixon and other Republicans.

"Isn't it a fact," Alch asked Baldwin, "that McCord never told you why he was monitoring the Democratic phones?"

"The specific reason I never knew," Baldwin replied, "but if you knew Mr. McCord, he made references to what he wanted ..."

Alch: "Did he ever say the monitoring was because of (antiwar) demonstrations?"

Baldwin: "He never said it was and he never said it wasn't."

Alch: "That's my point."

Airlines Name Change Slated

LONDON (UPI) — The British Airways Board said today the name British Airways will replace the names British Overseas Airways Corporation (BOAC) and British European Airways (BEA) in the future.

The board said in a report that the two airlines will operate separately but expenditure will be cut by promoting them jointly. The old names will be discontinued when British Airways is sufficiently established, it said.

BEA operates on European and domestic routes and BOAC flies to destinations outside Europe.

Boxing License Law Challenged

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Secretary of State C. Delores Tucker Monday asked the Pennsylvania attorney general's office for an opinion on the constitutionality of a 1955 state law which denies boxing and wrestling licenses to women.

Mrs. Tucker told Attorney GEenral Israel Packel that despite the 1971 equal rights amendment to the state constitution, the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission has turned down requests from women for licenses to become professional boxers and wrestlers.

"It is my strong opinion that the enforcement of that section of the Athletic Code clearly violates the constitution, and I request an official attorney general's opinion on the matter," Mrs. Tucker said.

Bufano Mosaics Placed On Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three huge mosaics that Beniamino Bufano created for $15,000 and a gold pass for cafeteria meals went on sale Monday—with an asking price of $300,000.

The artist finished the mosaics on a Powell Street cafeteria wall in 1950 for the late David Moar, a benefactor and president of Fosters Lunch Systems Ltd. now Henry Solomon, retired Fosters president and consultant to the firm, says they will have to be sold because in six years a bank that owns the building plans to tear it down and replace it.

Trustees Mum On Talks About Hawkins' Contract

The Tamalpais High School District board, reported to be considering firing Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, emerged from a closed session last night, announced another private gathering tomorrow evening with Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, then went home.

None of the trustees would comment on the private session to discuss Hawkins' contract, although the subject appeared on the agenda.

Tomorrow's closed meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at Redwood High School, followed by an open meeting at 8:30 p.m. in the school faculty lounge.

Dozens of people stayed until nearly 11 o'clock last night to hear the results of the latest round in the board's tussle with the $33,000-a-year administrator. They heard nothing.

A majority of the board is rumored to favor asking for Hawkins' resignation, but he is said to have asked for $50,000 to buy up the remaining three years on his contract.

Trustees also refused to say if tomorrow's meeting is likely to produce results.

School Board Views $11 Million Budget

The Tamalpais High School District board got its first look last night at the shape of a possible 1973-74 budget that called for expenses totaling $11,468,864, up from the current $10,902,863.

The spending program would require a tax rate hike of from 4.5 to 11.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, according to staff estimates.

The forecast budget, said district business manager Frank A. Cassou, would need a tax rate of either $2.18 or $2.25 per $100. This year's district rate is $2.135.

Cassou explained that the varying rate predictions are based on revenue provisions of the state's new tax shift — school finance legislation.

If district assessed valuation increases by 6 per cent this year, then the rate would be $2.18, said Cassou. If it increases by only 2 per cent, then the $2.25 rate would be applied.

The forecast budget is only a "general estimate," trustees were told, and a new budget planning group will begin deliberations on Feb. 1.

Income was projected on maximum revenue entitled the district under provisions of the new state legislation, and the district's 6.6 cent permitted override wasn't included. No provision was made in the forecast for any salary increases that may be granted to employees.

The board merely received the forecast budget, scheduling discussion for Feb. 5. According to Cassou, the estimates will undergo "more extensive refinement" during the next three months before the district's preliminary budget is prepared for review by the board in May.

Tamalpais High School District board also:

ADULT SCHOOL — Heard a report on adult education in the district by Asst. Supt. Robert D. Torrey and put the subject over to its March 5 meeting.

ALTERNATIVE — Heard a report on Drake's "School-Within-A-School" by educational leader Thomas M. Lorch and teacher Rudolph R. Genetti, which indicated there are 125 students in 20 to 25 "tribes," and that Drake plans to continue the school next year with no requests for special funding.

SCHEDULE — Heard that Drake's new daily schedule to start in the fall is expected to give students more flexibility and chances to take more classes. It will operate on a 10-day schedule, and days will be divided into six periods or three long periods on alternate days. Lorch said the system currently is in use in a Palo Alto High School where it has proved popular.

SALARIES — Heard 1973-74 salary proposals by the Tamalpais District Teachers Association, presented by Truman Whorton. Members are requesting 5.5 per cent salary raises, automatic cost of living increases, bonuses for advanced degrees, income protection insurance, orthodontic coverage on dental insurance to pay 50 per cent of expenses up to $1,000; more credit for previous teaching experience and compensation for unused sick leave. The requests now will be negotiated.

BUY MARIN — Decided to abandon the idea of having a policy giving preference to Marin businesses in district purchases because it would cost too much to administer and because the new state tax shift law will reallocate sales tax out of the district.

LEAVE — Granted a year's unpaid leave to Redwood English teacher James L. Pierce, effective Feb. 1, to set up a new program to credential teachers at the University of California. Pierce's request wasn't acted on at two previous meetings, and trustees had voiced concern that he had taught for only one semester since returning from a similar year's leave. Trustees Robert W. Corlett, Bette Wallace and David D. Ring voted to grant the leave, with Frank L. Miller and Jerrold M. Ladar dissenting.

CONFERENCES — Approved attendance at conferences for 26 employees.

TRANSFERS — Approved budget transfers, mostly from the special reserve to pay for repairing the Drake shop building roof.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to a special meeting tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the Redwood High School faculty lounge, preceded by a closed session at 7:30 p.m.

'Tampering' In Corona Case Is Hit

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The district attorney who prosecuted Juan V. Corona for the biggest mass murder in U.S. history said Monday that he has "seen no evidence of any jury tampering."

Sutter County Dist. Atty. G. Dave Teja discounted defense attorney Richard Hawk's charge that a sheriff's matron had talked to one juror about the verdict the evening before the panel found Corona guilty of 25 counts of murder.

"He's made a lot of charges that he couldn't back up," said Teja.

Hawk said Mrs. Naomi Underwood, 63, a widow who held out for four days for an innocent verdict before voting guilty, told him the matron offered information about Corona "that will ease your conscience if you have qualms about the way you voted." Mrs. Underwood later called the talk a "confidential chat."

Teja, who returned here to prepare for a hearing next Monday on Hawk's motion for a new trial, also doubted if Mrs. Underwood's change of heart concerning the verdict would mean much. He said appellate courts have generally had "a policy against a juror impeaching the verdict of a jury."

Jury foreman Ernest Phillips said Monday that Mrs. Underwood, who announced during the weekend that she had changed her mind and would now vote innocent, "is apparently very confused about what constitutes a guilty verdict." He noted she "voted guilty pretty near 55 times" last Thursday as the jury's decision was returned in court.

Corona, 38, a Yuba City, Calif., farm labor contractor, was convicted of slaying 25 drifters and burying them in shallow graves along the Feather River in 1971.

Police Are Called To Demonstration

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police were summoned Monday to rout a peaceful demonstration outside the Soviet consular mission.

About 100 persons marched around the Russian quarters to protest the Kremlin's controversial education tax on emigrants.

Singer Is Injured In Cycle Accident

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richard Carpenter, 25, pianist and singer with The Carpenters, broke his right leg and suffered fractures in both wrists in a motorcycle accident.

A spokesman said Carpenter was wearing a cast from foot to knee, but was expected to be recovered in time for his next concert appearance Feb. 11. Carpenter was involved in a collision Sunday in a motorcycle riding park near Diamond Bar in eastern Los Angeles County.

Lily's Like An Angel To Children Of Iran

LILY ARJOMAND is responsible for ushering in the "age of the child" in Iran. With help from her childhood friend, Iran's Empress Farah, she has set up the Institute for the Intellectual Development of Children and Young Adults, which has built more than 80 libraries in Iran, conducts art and music classes and provides books, films and theater for children.

(Christian Science Monitor photos)

By JUNE GOODWIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

TEHRAN, Iran — Iran's Empress Farah once was an unroyal little girl who had a chum named Lily.

The two girls became fast friends at the Jeanne d'Arc School in Tehran. Then Farah went to France to study architecture, and Lily left for the United States to learn library science. But they remained friends.

Today, after lots of other events Farah is the Queen of Persia, and Lily is Lily Arjomand, who has ushered in the "age of the child" to Iran.

THE TWO women are in cahoots to do everything they can think of for the children of Iran — libraries, art and music classes, better books, children's films and theater. With 80 per cent of the population under 20 and an illiteracy rate of about 80 per cent, the children need all the help they can get.

Mrs. Arjomand has bypassed government bureaucracy and set up the Institute for the Intellectual Development of Children and Young Adults directly under the office of the Empress.

"Lily is one of the few people with whom the Empress can kick off her shoes and giggle," one institute worker said.

What "kicking off their shoes" has accomplished is phenomenal and hardly typical of organizations in most developing countries. The institute is chock-full of highly motivated workers — about 500 of them, all Iranians save one. Organization is pyramidal, with Mrs. Arjomand on top. She still catalogs all books and even approves or disapproves the furniture design in the new libraries.

But the "pyramid" doesn't seem to dampen enthusiasm. Indeed, it's endemic to Iran's society — with the Shah at the top. Also, there's plenty of money for the institute because of the royal endorsement and perpetual proof that the money is well spent.

MRS. ARJOMAND'S fund-raising tactics are distinctive, but probably not atypical of Iran, where who-you-know matters. At a party she'll materialize, say, at the elbow of the president of the Iran National Bus Company. "We need a bus," she'll chirp.

"But I just gave you a bus."

"I know... but this one's for a mobile theater."

She gets the bus.

The institute began, humbly, about eight years ago with one library in south Tehran. Mrs. Arjomand, at the Empress's urging, set it up with a budget of $20,000. The budget's now $3 million a year.

Then, when she found a dearth of good children's books written in Farsi, she began to publish some herself. To date, the institute has published 40 original children's books, winning international prizes for some; and children's libraries are dotted all over Iran — more than 80 of them. The institute's permanent architect says he now draws up plans for libraries five at a time.

Architecturally, the libraries are some of the most exciting buildings in the country.

"Lily has a real 'thing' about keeping them spotless," an institute worker said. "She hires men just to polish things. It's such a surprise sometimes — you're walking in a dirty, crummy part of town and all of a sudden this immaculate, warm building looms up."

NOTHING IS too good for the children. A whole "think-tank" department in the institute is devoted to developing new projects and pinpointing the neediest areas in the country.

The latest idea was the organizing of choruses. Just before that the children's theater was launched. Often, one thing leads to another. For instance, Mrs. Arjomand's search for good children's films to use in the libraries resulted in the Tehran International Children's Film Festival, now seven years old.

Almost from the beginning the institute has been reaching out to children in rural areas. At first books were sent in saddlebags on donkeys to the nomadic Kashquai tribe around Shiraz. Jeeps have since nudged out the donkeys.

An additional performance of the ballet "Babar the Elephant" will be given on Feb. 13. The performance was added because two performances on the original schedule for Feb. 15 were sold out. Choreographer for the ballet is Joan Edgerton Gabert, and the orchestra will be conducted by Hugo Rinaldi.

Little Jim Club Changes Format For Fund Raising

Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital has revamped its fund raising format and taken the fund raising burden off of women.

For the past 20 years the club has conducted one of the most successful annual charity fund raising drives in the Bay Area by selecting contestants for queen of the annual Mardi Gras Ball. The queen has been the woman raising the largest sum of money.

This year fund raising efforts are being assumed by 16 men, professional, business and civic leaders, including two Marin men, architect Leo A. Daly III of Belvedere and restaurant owner Roland Gotti of Kentfield.

This year's ball will be held March 3 at the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco, and the king and queen will be the guests judged to be wearing the best costumes.

All past queens will be honored at a luncheon on Feb. 14.

The format was changed out of a desire to do something different for the anniversary year, according to Mrs. W. H. Klarquist of San Francisco.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

When Definitions Are The Same Why Are Some Words Obscene?

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

Can anyone tell me why the four-letter word "rape" is allowed in newspapers and on the air, but if you use that other four-letter word, you're liable to get bleeped for obscene language unless you watch where you say it.

And how come anyone can use the word "prostitute" but the five-letter description is pretty chancy? And you can be illegitimate, but it's still b— in a lot of magazines. Well, anyway, a few.

All this doesn't make sense. Not that I want to run around yelling forbidden four-letter words, but — WHY?

DEAR WHY:

No, it doesn't make sense — that's why we're rapidly reaching a point where no word will be "obscene." Which is a shame because I think everyone needs to shock and be shocked occasionally, and certain semi-forbidden words are necessary so that we can retain this sense of shock. If they become as commonplace as "Oh darn!" well, what would we do for an encore? — HELEN

WHY:

The words you can't write in a family newspaper have one thing in common: they're all good ol' Anglo-Saxon terms now transformed into down-grading slang. Maybe it's how they're used (to show contempt, hate, or whatever) more than what they say that keeps them out of certain media. — SUE

P.S. Strange how those words published in a newspaper would jump up and hit you in the face, but you scarcely notice them in today's books, or when used by people who say them naturally as part of their conversation. Perhaps it isn't what they are, but where they appear that carries the shock appeal. — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My girlfriend and I had an argument. I said I'd like to pose for a nude calendar if there was money in it, and she said if I did, she'd drop me. This is weird because she is a model and has posed with more exposed than those calendar guys ever showed. I mentioned that and she says "My pictures are art, yours would be a kind of dirty joke."

Since when is the male body a "joke" while the female body is "art"? — JOHN

DEAR JOHN:

Maybe your girlfriend just doesn't want you to be a pinup in the girls' locker room. — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR RAP:

My boyfriend's hair is rapidly thinning. His father is bald, and his attitude is, "If God meant me to go bald, that's the way it will be."

I know it's partly hereditary, but I see no reason why he shouldn't seek help in one of those men's grooming salons.

DEAR L.:

If there was any sure cure for baldness, would so many men be bald? Don't talk your boyfriend into treatments that probably won't produce anything but a flatter wallet. — HELEN

DEAR L.A.G.:

The right styling can make thin hair look heavier: men's grooming salons are good at this. But the only ways to fight baldness are with transplants or hairpieces. — SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel —or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

A Salute To Senior Citizens

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the average worker passes the age of 65, he usually is not as efficient as a younger man, is injured more often and is absent from work for longer periods — right or wrong?

Wrong, reports the Institute of Life Insurance. A survey by the New York State Division of Human Rights concludes that workers over 65 perform their jobs "about equal to and sometimes better than younger workers."

The older workers also have fewer on-the-job accidents and are less often absent from work because of illness.

UNICEF Drive Nets $7,563

A total of $7,563.25 was collected during the Trick or Treat for UNICEF drive held in Marin County last Halloween, according to Mrs. Harold Kling of Corte Madera, drive chairman.

The total is an increase of $564 over the 1971 drive.

Bathtub Reward Boosts Fourth-Grader Interest

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Reward a child for good performance by permitting him to sit in a bathtub? Whoever heard of anything more ridiculous?

But that's exactly what a Windcrest Elementary School teacher is doing in her fourth-grade class. It's true the bathtub is an unusual one, and it's not every teacher who would dream of having one in her classroom. Yet it is working and it is never empty.

Miss Kathy Kenagy spotted the old-fashioned footed model in a junkyard; got her father to help her lug it to school, scrub it, decorate it with decals and furnish it with pillows. Set in a quiet corner, it is an entrancing attraction for the children.

"Those who earn the privilege are allowed to sit in it to catch up on their reading," Miss Kenagy said. "I can't say discipline and learning have improved since it's been in the room, but student interest and happiness have gone up.

"They can't stand seeing an empty tub just sitting there; we have to keep it filled with someone."

Sensitivity Test Used By Dentists

Dentists sometimes test a patient for "sensitivity" following completion of dental therapy with a jet stream of cold water or air. Should the patient visibly react, and some have been known to almost jump with pain, the dentist may suspect dental hypersensitivity.

More than three-quarters of the patients suffering from hypersensitive teeth included in the study described in the New York Journal of Dentistry obtained relief through normal care of teeth at home by substituting a specially formulated toothpaste for the one they had been using.

Table Setting Is Routine And Often Unattractive

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by
General Features Corp.

Every table setting is a bit of a challenge, if we accept it as such. Considering the fact that we tackle the assignment at least twice a day, most of us should be veritable whizzes at whipping up interesting place settings.

But what's the truth? Don't we usually slap things down in pretty (not so pretty) routine ways? Taking the same old dishes out of the cupboard or dishwasher and putting them right back on the table?

Let's make a pact, each of us — man, woman, child — will reach into the cupboard once each day and try to pull out something unusual or unique to embellish the table. So what if we don't have six of every item? More's the surprise, with each member of the family examining his individual arrangement.

MY CUPBOARD might reveal some tin plates purchased in Mexico for 25 cents apiece. They have scalloped edges and make good service plates. I might use them under some Japanese imports — lacquered paper plates shaped like chrysanthemums. The gold-and-silver look might be fun.

Glassware is my nemesis, since I'm clumsy at the sink. If I entertain eight guests, I have to mix wine glasses. There are five stemmed pink goblets, six clear crystal ones and two or three of several other styles. Everyone at the table could probably have a pair of unmatched glasses.

Place-setting liberation could include flatware, too. It's more interesting to have three patterns of flatware than one. Better to have a sharp knife than one that merely matches, right?

We fall into the same patterns with place mats and table covers. Perhaps there's a three-yard scrap of velvet in the fabric drawer or chest? Wouldn't it be delightful to surprise the clan with a candle-lit, velvety table setting for their next budget session with meat loaf? Or how about a patchwork job made from scraps of felt left over from stitchery projects? (That's one for me: I have at least three dozen 12-inch squares of felt in rainbow colors tucked away.)

Gingham and plaid fabrics are nifty as table covers. Right now many department stores are getting ready for a country-look promotion in table and bed linens, and the new gingham and plaid designs are freshly colored and beruffled.

THE TABLE cover shown today is a ready-made one by Bates, but it proves the point about unusual fabrics making fashion news for mealtimes. For their new line, Bates has created Piper's Pride, a bold plaid that recalls the pride of the regiment and the intrigue of the Scottish kilt. Bates has created ready-to-hand draperies of the same fabric and both come in blue-red, green-blue, orange-teak and gold-olive color combinations. The table covers may be purchased in 72-inch or 90-inch rounds.

No Fairfax Action On Building Permit

The Fairfax Town Council failed to act last night on an appeal by Councilman Frank J. Egger of issuance of a building permit for a home at 100 Tamalpais Road. (See another story, page 1.)

Egger, blaming City Administrator Robert E. Crowe for the problem, said similar action in the future should mean the dismissal of Crowe.

Egger claimed that Crowe signed a building permit for the single-family home, being built by Raymond Zerbe, even though a variance was needed because of a setback problem. The variance, with the house nearing completion, was granted Dec. 28.

Egger later appealed.

The councilman said he realized that the house was now about 75 per cent complete and that the town could not very well ask that it be torn down.

Mayor Albert E. Gately said the judgment error was made by city building inspector Dale Hostrup, no longer employed by the town. Hostrup had given Zerbe his verbal approval of setback encroachment before the building permit was issued by Crowe, Gately said.

Gately said that the site was subject to slides and was "one of the most unbuildable sites in town."

The Fairfax Town Council Also:

ABAG — Voted to rejoin the Association of Bay Area Governments at a cost of $178 for the remainder of this fiscal year. It postponed naming a representative to ABAG until its Feb. 13 meeting.

ANNEXATION — Heard Parkerson suggest that the town consider annexing 190 acres between Rancho Tamarancho and the city limits west of Fairfax. There are 40 different property owners and approximately 100 residents. The council named Parkerson and colleague Robert R. Souza as a committee with town staff to contact residents on the proposed annexation.

JOBS — Adopted standards for assistant fire chief, fireman, police sergeant and police officer. The new standards bring the town more in line with other cities in Marin County, Crowe said.

SUBDIVISION — Approved revision of 13 lots in the Village West subdivision on Olema Road which had been approved on March 30. The changes were made to save trees on the lots, according to Ben C. Albritton, town engineer.

OVERLAY — Received a bill for $4,147 for the town's share in overlay of Olema Drive from McLellan Co. of San Anselmo. The council had agreed to pay up to $2,500 and voted to send the contractor that amount and no more.

CARS — Approved a plan by Crowe to turn the city administrator's car over to the police department, turn back a leased car and pay the administrator $100 per month for use of his own car. This will save the town $600 annually, he said.

BRINKS — Refused a suggestion that the town limit the number of drinks at the Jan. 31 meeting of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen, a session which the town will host at Deer Park Villa. Gately said the plan was unfeasible, but hoped that host councilmen would set a good example by not drinking too much.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Feb. 13 in memory of President Lyndon B. Johnson and voted that if President Richard M. Nixon called for a national day of mourning, Fairfax town offices would close.

A 'Drastic' Reduction In Oil Spill

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Coast Guard reported Monday night a "drastic decrease" in the volume of an oil spill that polluted an arm of San Francisco Bay and killed nearly 300 water fowl.

A spokesman said the remaining oil from the vandal-caused spill was floating in patches in the Oakland estuary, but that the body of water would remain closed for continuing cleanup.

The spokesman said it was estimated that 171,000 gallons of the salvage oil had left the tanks of Port Petroleum Co., that 120,000 gallons had entered the estuary and 62,000 gallons had so far been recovered.

About 400 men and 70 vessels continued the effort to collect the remaining oil from marina inlets and under piers. The Coast Guard said the cleanup would continue well into next week.

The salvage oil —petroleum that had already been used in cars and other equipment — was released by unknown vandals who opened tank spigots early last Friday.

Alfred Neumeyer, Art Historian, Succumbs

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. Alfred Neumeyer, 72, an internationally known art historian, scholar, teacher, author and lecturer died a "sudden and unexpected" death, it was announced Monday.

Neumeyer, who taught students and collected awards and degrees from around the world, succumbed at his Oakland home Sunday.

Born in Munich, Neumeyer served as director of press office of government museums of Berlin and studied at the German Institute of Art History in Florence and the institute of Art History in Rome.

In 1935 he moved to the United States and joined the faculty of Mills College in Oakland. He served as director of Mills' art gallery from 1936 to 1961, during which he procured many rare works for the college's permanent collection.

He was named professor emeritus at Mills' after his retirement in 1966 and has since been actively involved teaching special courses at Mills and nearby University of California in Berkeley and St. Mary's of Moraga.

He authored several publications including a well-received interpretative book called "Search for Meaning in Modern Art." It was published in Germany in 1961 and in 1964 was sold in paperback in the United States.

In the U.S., Neumeyer studied under a Guggenheim Fellowship and two Fulbright fellowships and in 1961 was elected to director of the College Art Association of America.

He leaves his wife, Eva Maria and one son, Peter, of Stoney Brook, N.Y.

PUC Is Accused Of Stalling On Moving Probe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti Monday accused the Public Utilities Commission of stalling in its investigation into alleged underestimating practices by moving firms.

Moretti said the Legislature asked the PUC as early as 1963 for regulations to prevent some moving firms from deliberately underestimating moving costs to attract a customer and then billing him much higher than the estimate.

"I'm appalled that in all these years there's still no ban on deliberate underestimating practices," the Van Nuys Democrat said in a letter to PUC President Vernon L. Sturgeon.

Marin City Group To Eye Services

A special meeting of the Marin City Homeowners Improvement Association will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center "to discuss grievances concerning the community and the Marin City Community Services District."

Jesse E. Berry, vice president of the association, said members are concerned that the district constitutes "taxation without representation." Members claim that "80 per cent of the district's large budget goes for salaries and nothing for programs," said Berry.

Ecological Reforms Are Adopted By Sierra Club

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Directors of the Sierra Club have adopted a series of proposals for far-reaching economic reforms as part of the club's campaign for national energy conservation.

The program would:

Do away with oil depletion allowances and other economic subsidies to energy industries.

Revamp the public utility rate structures to assure that energy is priced at its full cost.

Impose taxes on the extraction of all non-renewable energy resources such as oil and coal.

End fuel import quota systems, replacing then, if necessary for national policy, with a tariff system.

Levy a pollution tax on industry.

The directors of the conservationist organization want the new "energy" taxes to be spent on government research and development of "less wasteful and environmentally damaging ways of producing and using energy."

Astronauts Pay Visit To Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The last Apollo astronauts visited Capitol Hill Monday. The entire Senate was absent, and in the House the space explorers spoke to only about one-third of the members and to galleries that were half full.

It was the traditional tribute given American spacemen. The Apollo 17 commander, Eugene Cernan, noted the end of the Apollo moon program in his remarks and spoke of the gains of the American trips to the moon.

In the House, the astronauts received a standing ovation when they entered. Cernan was accompanied by the other Apollo 17 crewmen, Roland Evans and geologist Jack Schmitt.

Returning astronauts in the past received the tribute of a joint session of Congress. Monday, however, the Senate was not in session and the House presented the tribute alone.

Princess Rapped For Fox Hunting

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne has come under attack again for going fox hunting. But this time she has company—her boyfriend and a member of the council of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruely to Animals.

The princess, 22, and Lt. Mark Phillips, 24, went fox hunting during the weekend. Riding with them were other members of the equestrian team that won an Olympic gold medal at Munich, including Richard Meade, a member of the council of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Production Of 'Caligula' Is Announced

An acting group, which hopes to set up a permanent Marin County theater company, will product Albert Camus' "Caligula" in a run from Feb. 1 to March 2 at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

The Renegade Acting Ensemble, including several Marin actors with experience in local and New York productions, will present the play on Wednesdays through Fridays at 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 7:30 p.m. Donations will benefit the Mount Carmel Booster Club, an athletic program for children.

John Garber, director of recreation in Mill Valley, will play Caligula, while Will Marchetti, who has worked with the Marin Shakespeare Festival, directs the play.

New Estimates Hike Public Flood Damage

New surveys of storm and flood damage to public highways and other facilities in Marin County today boosted the public property damage total to at least $811,910.

The figures were still incomplete, however.

Frank E. Kirby, county coordinator of emergency services, said the greatest change from figures reported yesterday in the Independent-Journal was due to arrival of state experts' estimates on damage done to Shoreline Highway — $335,000.

A first estimate of private property damage in Novato was $140,000, according to William Ward Jr., regional disaster director for the state Office of Emergency Services.

Ward said that state highway engineers who checked the Novato area for damage to roads and public works found no significant damage.

Elsewhere in Marin, county and state roads — exclusive of Shoreline Highway — suffered a total of $376,600 in damage, Ward said, revising upward the county's earlier figures by $75,000.

Meanwhile, officials of the National Flood Insurance program in San Francisco were processing 22 Marin County claims for flood and mud damage, mostly from Marin County.

Standard homeowner policies do not cover such damage, but property owners in Novato and other parts of Marin have been able to buy special coverage for such losses for the past year. About 230 Marin residents did so, according to Edgar H. Lion Jr., insurance official in San Francisco.

109 London Flu Deaths Last Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The London flu epidemic took the lives of at least 109 persons in California last week, the third consecutive week the death toll has risen, it was announced Monday.

The figure, gathered from 11 major cities, compared to 99 for the week ending Jan. 12 and 57 for the week ending Jan. 5.

"The epidemic is apparently moving into Southern California in force after having peaked in the San Francisco Bay area during the last two weeks," said Vince Vandre, spokesman for the state Department of Public Health.

Vandre said that the Hayward School District reported 17,400 of its 24,700 students were absent last week. That compared to 9,185 for the previous week.

He stated the flu is hitting the elderly and chronically ill persons the hardest.

Vandre said an epidemic is considered to exist once the number of deaths exceeds 65 each week.

Here is a breakdown of the combined flu and penumonia deaths during the epidemic last week in the 11 cities:

Los Angeles, 19; San Francisco, 14; Fresno, 11; San Diego, 11; Oakland, 9; San Jose, 13; Glendale, 2; Berkeley, 5; Long Beach, 7; Pasadena, 2, and Sacramento 16.

Student's Survival Explained

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (UPI) — A 21-year-old Sonoma State College student fell 200 feet over a snow-covered slope and survived eight days of storms and freezing temperatures before being rescued.

Robert A. Baxter of Santa Rosa said he survived by "rationing myself four dates every other day and sucking on chunks of ice."

Baxter, hospitalized in good condition today, said he had just about given up hope when three hikers heard him calling for help Sunday and alerted park rangers.

The student was wearing a light windbreaker, corduroy jeans and cowboy boots when he tumbled down the mountain while hiking along John Muir Trail near Nevada Falls on Jan. 14.

"There were some days when the storms prevented me from shouting," Baxter said.

Springs Flow

VAN BUREN, Mo. (UPI) — The largest single outlet spring in the United States is Big Spring, which has a maximum flow of 846 million gallons daily.

Sausalito's Downtown Area To Be Studied

A $278,475 project to improve Sausalito's downtown business area will be presented to the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The proposal, by architect Donald K. Olsen, includes widening of sidewalks, landscaping and purchase of street furniture, according to City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr.

The city has proposed that the improvement project be financed by an assessment district composed of merchants and property owners in an area from Princess Street to north of Bay Street.

St. Cyr said 64 per cent of the property owners in that area of Bridgeway have signed a petition calling for the district.

Planners Deny A Request To Abandon Street

A request that the City of Mill Valley abandon Winwood Lane, a short street located between West Blithedale Avenue and Winwood Place, was denied last night by the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

Peter Haywood, a resident of the area, had asked that the street be designated for bicycle and pedestrian use only, according to Carol Defenderfer, planning secretary.

She said the commission decided there was "no compelling reason" for the city to abandon the street.

THE CLOSE-UP FASCINATION OF ROCK

Report On Water Need On Agenda

A consulting firm's recommendation on the amount of future water supply to be needed by the Marin Municipal Water District will be presented to the district board at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the agency office in Corte Madera.

The firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield, Clair A. Hill and Associates, also will present a definite estimate of the district's annual net safe yield. (Net safe yield is the amount of water the district can expect from its reservoirs, year in and year out).

At the board's last meeting, Director Jack R. Felson said he could not vote for the proposed North Marin intertie, which will bring 4,000 acre feet of water to the county annually, until he knew what the net safe yield was.

The intertie is stalled because the board deadlocked last time over approving a new contract for water through the pipeline.

In other business, the board will call for an election to fill the seat vacated by the resignation of Director Eugene A. Miller and will hear proposals for an environmental impact study on fluoridation.

Stickers Will Label Homes With Invalids

Brightly colored little stickers that may save lives will be placed on doors and windows of Marinwood homes beginning early next month, Marinwood Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield said yesterday.

The stickers are designed to enable firemen to identify quickly any home which houses invalids, nonwalking patients, persons with chronic heart or respiratory diseases, or other disabilities that might require speedy use of oxygen or resuscitator equipment.

Bonfield explained that his department is getting "more and more rescuscitator calls," sometimes from persons too agitated to remember to give the address number where help is needed. "As long as we know the street, we have a good chance of getting to the victim if he has one of our fluorescent stickers" readily visible on the front of the house, Bonfield said.

Marinwood residents may obtain the stickers by registering at the fire station between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Feb. 5 through 11. Firemen will attach the stickers to the homes to make sure they will be in uniform, visible positions.

A committee of citizens and firemen also is considering providing a second type of sticker so that parents may indicate bedrooms where youngsters sleep. This would help firemen to rescue children who might not be able to escape from burning houses by themselves, Bonfield said.

Shortage Of Fuel Looms For Buses

A 25 per cent cutback in Golden Gate Transit bus service has been threatened by a shortage of diesel fuel.

The system's maintenance superintendent, J. Brooks Rice, predicted there was "very little" chance of the cutback, but acknowledged he had been warned 10 days ago by SheH Oil Co. that the shortage could be severe enough to force rationing through May.

Rice stressed that the Golden Gate Bridge District's contract for the fuel supplied by Shell did not allow the company to ration its supply. The contract, however, can be canceled by either the district or Shell on 90 days' notice.

Rice said supplemental fuel could be bought from other suppliers, but at a "much greater cost." The district pays Shell 11.77 cents a gallon.

Shell's letter said it hoped to supply its customers the same amount of diesel fuel they got during the first five months last year, when the district bought 430,500 gallons for its San Rafael bus base.

This year, however, it needs 100,000 more gallons because the fleet has grown from 155 to 188 buses and service has been expanded, Rice reported. The threatened rationing also would affect the district's smaller bus bases in Novato and Santa Rosa.

A spokesman for Shell offered to check into the matter, but was unable to get further information.

The shortage, a nationwide problem, resulted from extreme cold which skyrocketed use of natural gas for heating. Industry was forced to switch to fuel oil, thus creating the shortage.

Ross Man Is Arrested On Burglary Probe

Tiburon police arrested a Ross man yesterday on suspicion of burglary after he turned himself in when he heard police were looking for him.

Tod William Ringen, 21, of 50 Laurel Grove Avenue, Ross, was released from Marin County Jail after posting $1,000 bail, and is to appear Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said they traced property stolen from John J. Rigazio of 2227 Centro East to a person who said he purchased the property from Ringen. Investigators said Rigazio's apartment was burglarized twice in recent weeks, and belongings worth $740 were stolen.

Haig Is Selected For Peace Award

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., recently appointed Army vice chief of staff, was to receive the Golden Slipper Club's "Quaker City Award" today for his role in the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Haig, 48, a former top assistant to President Nixon and Dr. Henry Kissinger, was cited by the club as "a Philadelphian who has distinguished himself in service to his country." The Golden Slipper Club is a philanthropic organization comprised of about 1,000 Philadelphia business and professional men.

Townhouse Development Unresolved

A controversial townhouse development near San Anselmo was considered without resolve again yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission, which set another hearing for Feb. 5.

The project, which has been pending since last summer, proposes 44 townhouse condominiums on a 15-acre site at the end of Sacramento Avenue near Sorich Ranch Park.

The commission, shy three members yesterday postponed a decision in the face of a deadlock after two and a half hours discussion.

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo, who joined Commissioner Rebecca Watkins in supporting the project, moved the postponement after failing to persuade Commissioners John F. West and William Long to drop their opposition. Four votes are needed for approval.

(Commissioners Jack G. Nixon, George B. Leonard and Kenneth T. Stevens were absent yesterday.)

The county planning department had recommended denial of the master plan and related zoning requested by Max D. Schenk. The department's recommendation was based on a contention the site lacks adequate fire protection.

E. Ross Parkerson, a county planner, said it would take county fire units 12 minutes to reach the site from the Woodacre firehouse.

While San Anselmo's fire department is just minutes away, he continued, the city is not interested in contracting its services to unincorporated areas.

His statements were supported by Charles R. Leitzell, city engineer for San Anselmo, who said "if they want city services, it's up to them to annex and pay city taxes."

San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi challenged the planning department's recommendation, noting a letter from County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli in which he said he could see no problem.

Bianchi added that special construction and smoke detection equipment would reduce fire hazards within the development.

The attorney added that San Anselmo's interest in annexing the property was simply to keep it from being developed.

A parade of nearby residents joined Leitzell in urging annexation and complained of traffic, sewage and drainage problems that would worsen if development were permitted.

Church, School Proposal Rejected

The Marin County Planning Commission flatly rejected yesterday a proposal to build a church and private elementary school on a wooded knoll overlooking Marinwood.

Commission rejection came swiftly on a 4-0 vote with three members absent, and was greeted with general approval from about 20 Marinwood residents who had turned out in protest.

The proposal, submitted by Valley Baptist Church, envisioned a new church and private elementary school for 240 students on a forested hill adjacent to Highway 101 north of its intersection with St. Vincent Drive.

It sparked controversy within the community when proposed last year, with several local groups and organizations filing letters of protest with the county.

"I don't appreciate being the enemy of the community... being cast as the heavy," Rev. Warren Conrad told the commission, adding his intent was to serve the community.

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo summed up the commission's position in turning down the proposal, saying, "it's the kind of use that calls for approval from the community. I don't think it's absolutely necessary on this site."

She and the other commissioners said they would prefer to see the land used for residential development which would save wooded portions of the knoll.

Commissioners Rebecca Watkin and William Long noted extensive grading would be required for the private school and questioned the appearance from the highway.

Commissioner John F. West, who served as chairman yesterday, joined the others in voting denial, saying the site is too far removed from transit routes for such development.

The commission's action came before audience members were given a chance to speak.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

BLACK POINT — Recommended rezoning of industrial lands near the Petaluma River at Black Point to single-family residential use. The lands are located along the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way near Highway 37. The board of supervisors will consider the rezoning next month.

HIGHLANDS — Approved unanimously changes in the Highlands housing project master plan reducing the number of dwellings from 140 approved earlier to 109. The project, proposed for a hill overlooking the Reedlands subdivision has been protested by the City of Tiburon.

DIVISION — Approved unanimously division into four lots of a 20-acre site at the end of Mulberry Terrace in Marinwood. The site is owned by Paul T. Scheiner. The Marinwood Community Services District protested the action, saying it would increase the value of the property being considered for open space acquisition by the community.

REZONING — Postponed to Feb. 5 a hearing on a request from John S. Burd to rezone his two-acre site at Inverness to single-family residential use, allowing seven homes. The commission said the housing was too dense but delayed action pending further study of what zoning should be approved.

CASA MADERA — Approved a master plan for the Casa Madera apartment development near Corte Madera. Plans call for 78 units on the eight-acre site on Tamal Vista Boulevard opposite the Co-op Shopping Center.

NICK'S COVE — Postponed to Feb. 5 a hearing on a master plan proposing a 1,000-square-foot addition to Nick's Cove Seafood Restaurant north of Marshall. Questions remain unresolved over sewage.

Suspect In Stabbing In Petaluma Sought

A 21-year-old identified as a possible Marinite was named as a possible assailant yesterday in the Saturday stabbing of former world's wristwrestling champion Jim Dolcini which nearly led to a riot in Petaluma.

Southern Sonoma Municipal Court Judge Alexander J. McMahon issued a warrant for John Charles Batts, 21, charging assault with a deadly weapon.

Batts, who is believed to live in central Marin, is wanted in connection with the brawl at the Hideaway Bar.

Police said Dolcini, 22, was stabbed four times while trying to break up a fight. Scores of police were called in to quell an angry mob of more than 150 which tried to attack the assailant of the popular Dolcini.

Dolcini was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital after undergoing surgery for his wounds.

Police said Batts is a member of an unidentified motorcycle group from San Rafael. He is described as five feet, seven inches tall, 160 pounds with brown hair and eyes.

An all points bulletin has been issued for his arrest.

Man Arrested In Probe Of Armed Robbery

A man, said by police to be a regular customer of the Barrel House tavern in San Rafael, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of a $1,600 armed robbery at the establishment last week.

Frank Dewey Haygood, 48, of no known address, was taken from Sacramento County Jail, where he was being held for San Rafael authorities, and booked into Marin County Jail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said a well-dressed man with a silk stocking pulled over his face burst into the tavern at about 6 a.m. Jan. 15, waved a pearl-handled revolver and took about $1,600 from a cash box before fleeing on foot. Tavern owner Perry Hugh Stewart recognized the voice of the thief as resembling that of a regular customer, accoridng to police.

Party For Demise Of Bank Fizzles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bank failures don't produce the nostalgia that Ron Zimmerman had expected when he declared an anniversary wake for the defunct San Francisco National Bank.

Yesterday was the eighth anniversary of the bank's demise and Zimmerman, who manages a tavern, had offered drinks in exchange for its practically worthless stock certificates.

But nobody showed up.

"I guess nobody wants to own up that they were taken," said Zimmerman who admits he lost a substantial sum on the stock which dropped in value from $90 a share to 10 cents after the liquidation.

On the wall of the tavern is a framed picture of former Marinite Don Carlos Silverthorne, 91, bank founder, who served a jail sentence for fraud and embezzlement.

Controls Sought Over FBI Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., today introduced legislation that would require Senate confirmation every four years of the FBI director.

"In this era of sophisticated law enforcement techniques and public sensitivity to the criminal problems in this country, it is imperative that the Senate have the opportunity to question and explore the directions of such a powerful organization as the FBI at least every four years," Byrd said.

CUPERTINO, Calif. (UPI) — Neither rain, nor sleet, nor snow etc ... but watch out for dead batteries.

The Post Office announced Monday that its entire automotive fleet in this San Francisco Bay Area community will be replaced next month by electric-powered vehicles. The cars, which run on 16 cents of recharging a day, are built by Harbilt in England.

Special Tragedy In Johnson's Death

There was special tragedy in Lyndon B. Johnson's death yesterday afternoon.

At the very time that the United States' only living ex-President suffered his fatal heart attack, it was disclosed in Saigon that a cease-fire agreement ending the Vietnam war is scheduled to be signed Saturday.

IT WAS U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, and President Johnson's escalation of it, that clouded the "Great Society" which he dreamed of establishing as a lasting monument to his years in the White House.

It was the rising tide of protest over that involvement that led — at least in large part — to his decision not to seek a second elective term.

And that war escalation, that protest and that decision resulted in putting a Republican in the White House in 1968.

THE TROUBLE in Southeast Asia dogged the life of the onetime school teacher from Stonewall, Tex., from the time that an assassin's bullet took the life of President John F. Kennedy and made Johnson president, with 11 months and 12 days left of his predecessor's term.

The United States then had some 16,000 "advisers" with the South Vietnamese army. The new President said he had no intention of increasing that number.

Campaigning for election a few months later, President Johnson declared that he was against "sending American boys to fight a war that Asian boys should fight." But on Aug. 7, 1964, in the midst of the election campaign, he won from Congress a resolution empowering him to take "whatever steps necessary" in reprisal for a reported attack on two American destroyers by North Vietnamese gunboats in the Bay of Tonkin.

That was the beginning. Within a month after President Johnson took the oath of office for his full term in January, 1965, U. S. troops were landing in Vietnam. By the time he left office four years later, more than half a million of them were there.

IT REMAINED for Richard M. Nixon to reduce the involvement, withdraw American land forces, and at last — on the very eve of Lyndon Johnson's death — reach agreement with North Vietnam on terms of a cease-fire.

But there was another special irony in the story. It was in response to an invitation by President Johnson that the late Ho Chi Minh agreed to peace negotiations in Paris — those negotiations so long stalled, so long unproductive, but the face-to-face meetings which at last made possible winding down the war.

And so Lyndon Johnson, whose success as President was so blemished by the war in Vietnam, could in his last hours reflect that at least he had put the machinery into motion for ending it.

As time passes, the tall Texan from the banks of the Pedernales will be remembered for many other things. For now, grief at his passing must mingle with relief over the imminent end of a war in which he played so controversial a role.

Feeble Vote Getter Holds Power Equal To Governor's

By EARL G. WATERS

Ronald Reagan is governor by virtue of having received the votes of 3,439,664 Californians in 1970. In that same election Robert Moretti garnered the grand total of 40,747 votes to win re-election to the Assembly.

It is this wide difference which dramatically points up the untenable system of organization whereby Moretti, as speaker of the Assembly, wields power nearly equal to that of the governor.

As a vote getter Moretti isn't in the same league with Reagan. In fact he is hardly in the same ballpark with his fellow legislators. Of the 120 members elected to the Legislature, only 19 others received fewer than 50,000 votes.

In the Assembly, where Moretti rules the roost, his puny 40,000 votes pale beside the 137,275 received by Assemblyman Robert E. Badham. Yet, in winning, Badham defeated a fellow who pulled 78,861 votes — or nearly twice as many as Moretti.

Many others polled in excess of 100,000 to win their seats in the Legislature. The average vote received by winners was over 81,000.

BUT THE ASSEMBLY operates under a system wherein it elects one of its 80 members speaker. Whoever can muster the votes of 41 assemblymen gets the gavel.

It wouldn't be bad if that's all he got. But with the symbol of authority goes great actual power.

It is the exclusive right of the speaker to name all the committee chairmen and designate the committee members. It is also his sole prerogative to assign proposed legislation to committees.

Armed with this muscle, the speaker exercises as much control over legislation as does the governor. Neither can assure passage of any bill but both can effectively block any measure they choose to oppose. In the case of the governor, however, the Legislature has the right to override a veto.

But woe to the assemblyman who dares to oppose the speaker! He not only can be removed from a committee chairmanship, he can be removed from the committee. Worse, his legislation can be throttled. His ability to represent his district, already severely limited by such a system, can be completely stymied.

WIELDING THIS POWER, a person once elected speaker can entrench himself. He does this not only by favoring supporters with committee appointments and support of their legislation but by collecting campaign funds for their re-election.

As Moretti blatantly acknowledged in an interview over KNBC, the lobbyists have the "message." They know the power held by the speaker.

In its reorganization for the new two-year sessions, much has been said about improvements. As long as one man, holding office with fewer than 50,000 votes, can dominate the representatives of 119 other legislative districts, there can be no real improvements.

What is the answer? The Senate found it long ago. There a committee, elected by the Senate, appoints all other committees and assigns the bills. There is no one-man ruler.

Until the Assembly divests the speaker of his vast powers, the people of the state are without truly representative government.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Chamber Of Commerce Patronizes Outsiders

Since the home-owning taxpayers of San Anselmo regularly subsidize our chamber of commerce to the tune of $3,000 each year, we are concerned that when a chamber of commerce dinner is given, it is arranged for outside city limits. This year, it will be held in Fairfax. Of course this means not only the revenue goes elsewhere but also any sales tax benefits.

Can we not ask our chamber of commerce, a group especially dedicating to servicing San Anselmo, to arrange such affairs inside San Anselmo and thus return some benefits to the taxpayers and businessmen of this town?

City Servants Helped Flood-Stranded Woman

For the help I received on Jan. 16 when many streets were flooded, I would particularly like to give my thanks and appreciation to three gentlemen who helped me in a great time of need: Mr. Ernest Tanzi, chief mechanic for the City of San Rafael, Mr. Bill McEachern and Police Officer Art Meyers.

Being stranded in my car in a flooded area, they brought me to safety and worked on my car for over an hour until I could get it started and be on my way.

I am very thankful that we have such men working in our city government who show such concern for the safety and well-being of its citizens. I am indebted to them for their help.

Novato City Council Supported President

On Jan. 20 you made incorrect inference to the Novato City Council's approach to "Peace Day" actions by including them with some in the county who protested at the same time President Nixon was delivering his inaugural address in Washington.

Correct information is that on Jan. 18 the Novato City Council voted 5-0 to declare Inauguration Day and the city's 13th birthday as "Peace Day" in Novato as "a day of support for the President in his efforts to achieve peace." The council at the same time approved wiring this resolution to the President, Congressman Mailliard, and California's two U. S. senators.

This kind of reporting misrepresents the truth, and is not the quality of which you can be capable.

Lawyer Takes Issue With Sentence Criticism

I am writing this letter in answer to your editorial regarding the case of the People vs. Lundgren, wherein which you chastised the system of justice and the Honorable John A. O'Kane for the decision that was rendered in the case. Unfortunately, your editorial is based upon an uninvestigated, unsophiscated view of the law and the facts regarding the case.

It may be of some interest to you that the reason enunciated for the decision was that the prosecution failed in its burden of proof, to prove the necessary elements of its charges levied against Mr. Lundgren. It may also be of interest to you that the proof shown at the preliminary hearing, upon which the court made its decision, indicated that the deceased Dr. Sydow was under the influence of an intoxicating beverage so that he could not safely operate a motor vehicle. The level of blood alcohol according to the coroner of the City and County of San Francisco was above that which the law provides a driver is under the influence.

Unfortunately, that level where you sought to editorialize a situation wherein which you did not have the benefit of viewing the transcript of the preliminary hearing, nor did you have the benefit of hearing the proceedings involved in this case. To those of us that did have these benefits, it would be exceedlingly clear that Mr. Lundgren, as well as the People of the State of California achieved a full and fair hearing.

It is interesting to note that in the same editorial column you chastised the court, through the Honorable John A. O'Kane, whatever you sought to also chastise a court in the Los Angeles area for the restriction of the freedom of the press. "Free Press" also means an enlightened and responsible press.

A responsible and enlightened press would never editorialize something that it did not have the total facts or background in which to base its judgment.

CHARLES M. DRESOW

San Francisco.

(Attorney Dresow seems to be confused. The editorial did not raise the point of fair trial. Lundgren pleaded guilty to drunken driving in an accident in which a man was killed. The penalty assessed by Judge O'Kane was that provided for drunken driving in which no accident is involved or there is only property damage. — Editor.)

MARQUIS CHILDS

Mexico Undergoing Period Of Perhaps Historic Change

MEXICO CITY — Should anyone north of the border be taking notice, this happens to be a moment of historic change. The Latin America of the guerrilla, the romantic revolutionary, is all but gone.

Fidel Castro is no longer exporting his failed revolution. The belief here is that Washington and Havana are privately drawing together, not only over the hijacking issue but in a broader context that could lead eventually to at least a limited renewal of relations.

Che Guevara's attempt to foment a revolution in Bolivia came to a pitiful end. He was the last hero of the romantic revolution, with the posters showing his dark, handsome face on Paris kiosks and in Tokyo Socialist halls. The campesinos, the depressed peasantry, simply did not respond to his call to rise up against the oppressors.

THE EXPERIMENT going forward here in Mexico is designed to achieve a new social and economic base. President Luis Echeverria Alvarez in the first two years of his six-year term has introduced a whole series of reforms from taxation to improved land use and an assault on the pollution which is so visible in this smog-ridden city.

The eager young men Echeverria has drawn into his government, such as 32-year-old Fausto Zapata, undersecretary of the presidency, like to think a parallel exists with the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt. If the vast gulf between the poor — more than 55 per cent tied to the land —and the very rich can be narrowed, a healthy democratic society can take root.This will be a model not only in Latin America but for the Third World for which President Echeverria is a highly articulate spokesman.

Time is all-important. Given 10 years of steady progress, the transition can take place. But if the dead weight of the past frustrates the reforms, the future is dark indeed. The military dictatorships in Brazil and Argentina, with their periodic outbursts of terrorism, are a portent.

ECHEVERRIA, who looks like an earnest professor of sociology, talks of the urgent need to prevent a second colonialism. This will come if foreign investors are allowed to take over the Mexican economy. His program, therefore, calls for 51 per cent Mexican ownership in foreign corporations, with large areas restricted entirely to domestic operation.

A broader and a deeper concern is with the plight of the Third World — Latin America, Asia, Africa — as the supplier of raw materials for the developed world of the United States, western Europe, Japan, the Soviet Union. Prices for those materials tend to move steadily down while, with inflation in the industrialized nations, the price of manufactured goods exported to the Third World goes steadily up.

This, the president says with intense conviction, makes slaves of those who perforce sell on a depressed market the raw stuff that fuels the machines of the advanced nations. One answer is for the United Nations to set a scale of investment which the developed nations would put into the underdeveloped world. This would establish a balance between the two halves that seem increasingly to go their separate ways. How it would be enforced is another matter, since in the developed world faith in the United Nations falls far short of Echeverria's passionate conviction.

Labor-intensive projects in the pattern of the New Deal are part of the president's domestic program so that badly needed foreign exchange does not go for expensive imported machines. As part of the aid furnished Nicaragua to rebuild the ruined capital of Managua, Echeverria is sending teams to demonstrate the labor-intensive technique.

THE SHADOW of the giant to the north is omnipresent whether as a negative or a positive force. Long gone is the enthusiasm of the Allianza Par Progressa. Except for technical assistance, Mexico is no longer a recipient of American aid.

But the power of the United States is not alone in productivity, in the bounty of a mechanized agriculture, in a huge military establishment. It is also the power of example. If with restraints on wages and prices removed there is increased inflation, the result as reflected in Latin America will be serious. If with Nixon economics American cities continue to deteriorate, the example will not be lost on those who oppose the Echeverria reforms. This is part of the equation when the door seems open for constructive change.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

Returning Congress Reminded Of Giant Of Bygone Years

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is back in Washington along with bookstore displays of a new volume serving as a reminder of the often-heard remark that there are no giants in the House and Senate any more.

The new book, "Mr. Republican," is the most detailed biography yet written of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, one of the dominant Republicans in the national government for a decade before his death almost 20 years ago. The author is James T. Patterson, Brown University historian, who neither sanctifies nor condemns his subject.

READERS WHO HAVE missed or forgotten some details of 20th Century history will find that not only Taft wanted Herbert Hoover — still nonpartisan at the time —to be elected President in 1920. Patterson has a quotation from Franklin D. Roosevelt, who also said Hoover would make a good president. Roosevelt lost the vice presidency as the 1920 Democratic nominee and evicted Hoover from the White House 12 years later.

The young Taft, a Hoover aide on foreign relief agencies during and after World War I, worked against his own party organization in Ohio to seek the 1920 nomination for Hoover. The GOP nomination and election was won by an Ohioan, Warren G. Harding.

Those unfamiliar with Taft's earlier years can learn that he declined to spend a year as law clerk to Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court and chose to go directly into private law practice in Cincinnati without even a token salary.

And they can wonder with the author whether the views of Taft, later the chief voice of political conservatism, would have been influenced by the views of a liberal justice who wrote that "the life of the law has not been logic, it has been experience."

TAFT MADE THREE bids for the Republican presidential nomination, the major ones in 1948 and 1952, when his authoriship of the Taft-Hartley labor law was a political burden. Observers who watched that law germinate might suggest that it reflected Taft's legalistic approach, remote from the human experiences of the men in mines and mills.

They also might suggest that any flaws in the law could be blamed on non-cooperation by the labor movement and the Truman administration, who felt that if given enough rope Taft would hang himself. He outmaneuvered them and steered a bill to passage over President Harry S Truman's veto.

Although Taft was the hero of Republican conservatives, it is oversimplification to attach that label to him. He was a budget-balancer and a man eager to avoid the risk of war at the expense of a Nazi conquest of Western Europe — two characteristics regarded as essential to conservatism as it was then known.

DESPITE HIS FAILURE to win the presidency, once held by his father, Taft was a giant in the Senate to his admirers and his critics. In a kind of division of power, he concentrated on domestic issues and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan on foreign policy, and both overshadowed other Republicans in Congress.

They died in the early 1950s when Lyndon B. Johnson was emerging as one of the most skillful leaders in Senate history before moving to the vice presidency and presidency. Other powerful figures who have passed from the Capitol scene since Taft were Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senators Walter F. George, D-Ga., Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was acquiring power as Democratic whip under the less aggressive Mike Mansfield before he became vice president. Now back in the Senate, he swings as much weight as anyone outside the leadership.

This city now is watching to see if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will seek to become a mover and shaker.

Need Little Improvement Loan? See Your Friendly Navy Lender

WASHINGTON — The United States Navy has just loaned $54 million to the Grumman Aircraft Co. The Navy has defended its role as banker on the grounds that the money was not really a loan but rather an advance on F-14 airplanes which Grumman says it cannot deliver.

When my friend Morris Stans (no relation to the former secretary of commerce) heard that the Navy had gone into the banking business, he immediately rushed down to the Pentagon.

He said to a Wave at the desk, "I'd like to see someone about a loan."

THE WAVE ASKED Morris to be seated and then started to make some telephone calls. Finally she said, "Go to the third floor to BuNav BOC and ask for Commander Smiley."

"What does BuNav BOC stand for?" Morris asked.

"Bureau of Navy for Bailing Out Contractors," the Wave replied.

Stans went to the third floor office of Commander Smiley, who was talking on the phone. "Yes, sir. We can loan Litton Industries $100 million at 5.5 per cent. No, sir, there are no collateral requirements. Your name on the note is good enough for us. Yes, sir, Mr. Ash, the check will be in the mail tomorrow morning."

COMMANDER SMILEY Turned to Morris. "What can I do for you?"

"I'd like to borrow $500 to make some improvements on my house."

"I'm sorry, the Navy doesn't make loans for home improvements," Commander Smiley said.

"But the house is on the water," Morris said, "on Cape Cod."

"Well why didn't you say so?" Commander Smiley asked, taking out a form. "First I must ask if you've applied for this loan from a commercial bank."

"I applied to seven banks. They all turned me down. They suggested I see the Navy because they said you'll loan money to people that no bank would touch."

"THAT'S OUR BUSINESS," Commander Smiley said. "Our motto in the Navy is, 'Impossible loans are our business.'"

"I thought it was, 'Don't give up the ship.'"

"Times have changed," Smiley said. "Now would these improvements on your house benefit the Navy in any way?"

"Well, I want to repair my dock for my sailboat, but the Navy would be free to use the facilities to tie up an aircraft carrier or something in case of war."

"We very well might," Commander Smiley said, filling out the form. "How do you propose to repay the loan?"

"Ten dollars a week," Morris replied.

"That seems fair," Smiley said. "I must tell you under the 'Truth in Lending Navy Act' that we will have to charge you 6 per cent interest."

"BUT I JUST heard you tell Litton Industries you would only charge them 5.5 per cent," Stans protested.

"That's because Litton owes us so much money. Now if you wanted to make a loan of, say, more than $20 million we could give you a more favorable rate as well."

"No, I'll stick with the $500."

"Very good. Just sign here. This booklet is your payment schedule. Just make your checks payable to the Department of Defense."

"Thank you very much. The Navy won't be sorry they trusted me."

"I'm sure we won't," Smiley said, shaking Stans' hand. "On your way out pick up a new toaster or a coffeepot or an electric blanket in the lobby."

"Free?" Morris asked.

"Of course. Why do you think Grumman Aircraft came to us instead of Bank of America? They know we give out the best premiums in the country."

Petaluma Development Board Proves System Is Workable

Much like members of a jury, Petaluma's development allotment board members heaved a sigh of relief when voting was completed on proposed building projects.

The 16 board members heard hours of "sales pitches" by developers and lugged home pounds of reports to read in what spare time they had. Some were upset with the large amount of time the board work took, but most tackled the assignment with spirit.

THIS WAS THE FIRST board to carry out city policy of keeping residential growth to 500 units per year. Some mistakes were made along the way, but it is expected the process will be more streamlined in the future.

Members for the most part were uninitiated to the planning process. They brought with them common sense which made up for any lack of expertise, and spent hours pouring over reports to become more knowledgeable.

The system used to rate developments would have brought cheers from professional planners and made great sense to them, but to the laymen the intricate point system only brought confusion. It is hoped that by next year a simpler method can be found.

Simplification will not only benefit board members, but the developers as well, since some were short-changed on the original voting because of misunderstandings.

PETALUMA'S UNIQUE growth control plan continues to win awards and draw national attention. Even members of the board —d despite their lay status — have been interviewed and consulted on the system.

Legal tests may still be ahead, but as the plan progresses through the first test period, officials seem even more confident it will succeed.

Firm Draws Fine For False Ads

NEW YORK (UPI) — The manufacturer of Geritol was fined $812,000 Monday for false advertising.

The firm was cited for claiming that Geritol was effective against tiredness symptoms in 11 separate television commercials shown on 100 occasions.

The fine—$456,000 against J.B. Williams Co. and $356,000 against its wholly-owned advertising subsidiary, Parkson Advertising Agency Inc. — is believed to be the highest ever for violating Federal Trade Commission regulations against false advertising.

Appeal On Duplexes Will Be Presented

The Fairfax Planning Commission will consider city Councilman Frank J. Egger's appeal of design review board approval of two duplexes on Bolinas Road when it meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The commission also will consider modifications in a precise development plan for 68 townhouse units being built by Gentry Development Co. on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Ferry, Bus Matters Face Board

A new contract with consultants to detail plans for the Larkspur ferry terminal will be considered by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The building and operating committee, meeting in toll plaza offices, also will review plans for the San Rafael bus base on Jacoby Street.

The insurance committee will meet at 9 a.m. Thursday to renew expiring policies. The joint finance-auditing and rules, policy and industrial relations committee will meet at 10 a.m. to consider changes in auditing procedures.

The full board will meet at 10 a.m. on Friday, and has scheduled a public hearing at 11 a.m. on the district's application for a federal loan to buy the abandoned railroad right-of-way through Mill Valley. The hearing was postponed last month to give time to convince the City of Mill Valley to reverse its opposition, but a district spokesman said it probably will have to be postponed again because no agreement has been reached with the city.

Purse Snatchers Find Judge Tough

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A judge sentenced two purse snatchers to two-year-to-life prison terms Monday, declaring the crime "one of the most cowardly and unprincipled offenses I can think of."

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Harold V. Hove warned that similar offenders would be dealt with harshly in his court as he sent I.V. Johnson, 28, and Lawrence Allen, 26, both of Oakland, to state prison.

"The idea of preying on unprotected women—big people like you—appalls me," said Hove.

Johnson had four prior felony convictions and Allen had one.

School Heads Oppose X-Ray Program End

The Marin Association of School Administrators has decided to protest elimination by the Marin County Board of Supervisors of the county's minifilm X-ray program.

Association president Ralph Giovanniello said the group — which is actually school district superintendents — strongly opposes scrapping the program, and has asked him to write to supervisors.

"This is really passing the cost off to the taxpayers, we feel," said Giovanniello, "since the school districts will have to pay for their employees. Costs will go up from $2 under the minifilm program to around $20. School district taxpayers will have to pay the increased cost."

The association also has decided to observe a uniform school calendar for the 1973-74 school year. Districts in Marin will start the 1973-74 school year on Tuesday, Sept. 11, and end on Friday, June 14, 1974.

Between those dates schedules may vary, said Giovanniello, but high school districts will attempt to coordinate holidays with their elementary feeder schools.

Autopsy Results Still Awaited

Robert Pack of Kentfield was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital last Wednesday after collapsing in a San Anselmo drug store. He was 50.

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported Friday that Pack was found dead in the washroom of the drug store after apparently suffering a heart attack.

Actually, autopsy results are still pending on Pack, who died while en route to the hospital, according to relatives.

Advice and Consent

Most important officers appointed by the President, such as Cabinet members, and Supreme Court Justices, must have approval of the Senate before taking office. This "advice and consent" power of the Senate applies to many other Presidential appointments, such as high military officers, head customs officials, and members of such important agencies as the Atomic Energy Commission, the Federal Reserve Board, and the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Senate also has power to approve or reject treaties.

DO YOU KNOW — Whom did the President choose to be new Defense Secretary?

NOTICE OF HEARING ON ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT SEWER PLANT EXPANSION, PUMP STATION, AND TRANSMISSION AND COLLECTION FACILITIES ASSESSMENT DISTRICT SAN RAFAEL SANITATION DISTRICT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on January 17, 1973, an Environmental Impact Report was filed with the Board of Directors of the San Rafael Sanitation District in conjunction with the proposed acquisition and construction by the District of the following:

a) The construction of all off-tract sanitary sewage transmission facilities necessary to transmit sewage from the area of the proposed assessment district to the existing sewage treatment plant of the San Rafael Sanitation District of Marin County, located at the intersection of the northerly extension of Biscayne Drive and Pt. San Pedro Road, including sanitary sewage pump station, force main, gravity sewer, modification of existing pump station, and all necessary connections;

b) The construction of all facilities and improvements necessary to expand the capacity of said sewage treatment plant from approximately 500 residential connections to approximately 1600 residential connections;

c) The construction of a reclaimed water irrigation system, consisting of lake excavation, pump station, storm drain relocation, transmission mains and potable water and electric power facilities;

d) The acquisition of all lands and easements and the doing of all work auxiliary to any of the above and necessary to complete the same.

Reference is made to Resolution of Intention No. 247, adopted June 28, 1972, as amended, and the Engineer's Report filed pursuant thereto, for a more particular description of the proposed improvements.

A copy of said Environmental Impact Report may be obtained at the office of the District Administrator, City Hall, 5th and "D" Streets, San Rafael, California, or at the office of the District Engineer, Coleman, Selmi and Simpkins, 201 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Greenbrae, California. Anyone wishing to be heard or desiring to make any comments regarding the report or to make any additions thereto may do so at the hearing, and written comments regarding the report or for inclusion in the report may be submitted to the District Administrator at the above address at or prior to the time of the hearing.

The major environmental impacts expected as a result of the project are the possibility that the availability of additional capacity in the sewage treatment plant will or could induce growth. However, any growth which might materialize will be subject to the complete control of the City and County Planning Commission, the City Council, and the Board of Supervisors, all of whom have planning jurisdiction over the property subject to growth possibilities.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that Wednesday, February 7, 1973, at the hour of 5:00 o'clock P.M. in the regualr meeting place of said Board, City Hall, San Rafael, Californai, are hereby fixed as the time and place of said hearing.

The bonds mature serially on July 1 of each year commencing in 1974.

Interest is payable for the first ten months on January 1, 1974, and thereafter interest is payable semi-annually on January 1 and July 1 of each year. Both principal and interest on the bonds are payable at the San Francisco main office of the Bank of America N.T. & S.A., paying agent of the City of San Rafael. The maximum interest rate is seven per cent (7%) per annum.

REDEMPTION PROVISIONS: Bonds maturing by their terms on or prior to July 1, 1983 are not subject to redemption prior to their fixed maturity dates. Bonds maturing by their terms on or after July 1, 1984 are subject to redemption prior to their fixed maturity dates, at the option of the city, as a whole or in part in inverse numerical order from higher to lower, on July 1, 1983, but not prior thereto, and on any interest payment date thereafter prior to their fixed maturity date or dates, at the principal amount thereof and accrued interest thereon to date of redemption, together with a premium equal to the sum of one-quarter of one per cent (¼ of 1%) of the principal amount of each bond so redeemed for each year or fraction thereof remaining between the date of redemption and the stated maturity date.

REGISTRATION: The bonds will be coupon bonds, and will be registrable only as to both principal and interest. The bonds are subject to de-registration and re-registration.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of Messrs. Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass & Anderson, Oakland, California, and Mudge Rose Guthrie & Alexander, New York, New York, attesting to the validity of the bonds will be supplied free of charge to the successful bidder for the bonds. A copy of the legal opinion, certified by the official in whose office the original is filed, will be printed on each bond without charge to the successful bidder.

SECURITY: The bonds are general obligations of the City of San Rafael, and the City has the power and is obligated to levy annual ad valorem taxes for payment of principal and interest on the bonds on all property within the City subject to taxation by the City (except certain personal property which is taxable at limited rates) without limitation as to rate or amount.

HIGHEST BID: Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates not exceeding seven per cent (7%) per annum in multiples of 1/8 or 1/20 of one per cent (1%). Each bidder must specify in his bid the amount and maturities of the bonds of each rate and all bonds maturing on the same date must bear interest at the same rate. No rate may be more than one and one-half per cent (1½%) higher than the lowest rate named in the bid. A zero rate cannot be named for all or any of the time from the date of the bond to its stated maturity and the premium, if any, must be paid in the funds specified for payment of the bonds as part of the purchase price. No bid for less than par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained. Unless all bids are rejected, the bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose proposal results in the lowest net interest cost to the issuer, and the net interest cost will be determined by deducting the amount of any premium paid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds from their date until their respective maturities.

RIGHT OF REJECTION: The City of San Rafael reserves the right at its discretion to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid. Any bid must be in strict conformity with this Official Notice Inviting Bids, and without any qualification.

PROMPT AWARD: The City of San Rafael will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than twenty-four (24) hours after expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals.

DELIVERY AND PAYMENT: Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the principal office of Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association in San Francisco, California, as soon as the bonds can be prepared, but not prior to the date of the bonds. Payment of the purchase price of the bonds must be made in funds immediately available to the City in San Francisco, California.

FORM OF BID: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds herein offered for sale. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, and endorsed, "Proposal for Bonds, San Rafael Open Space, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $15,000.00 drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the City of San Rafael to secure the City of San Rafael from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. Checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by mail upon the award of the bonds. Check of successful bidder will be credited upon the purchase price of the bonds, and no interest will be paid upon the deposit of any successful bidder. Check of the successful bidder will be forfeited to City if the bidder fails to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within the time provided for in this notice as liquidated damages.

TAX EXEMPT: In the opinion of bond counsel, the interest on the bonds is exempt from present federal income taxes and from State of California personal income taxes under existing statutes, regulations, and court decisions; and the bonds are exempt from all California taxes except inheritance, gift, and franchise taxes.

LEGALITY FOR INVESTMENT: It is believed that the bonds will constitute legal investments in California for all trust funds, and for the funds of all insurance companies, commercial and savings banks, trust companies, and state school funds. The bonds are eligible as security for deposits of public moneys in California.

NO-LITIGATION CERTIFICATE: The City of San Rafael will furnish to the successful bidder, at the time of delivery of the bonds, a no-litigation certificate, certifying that there is no controversy or litigation pending or threatened concerning the validity of the bonds.

Federal Controls On Land Use To Be Discussed

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Federal land use controls will be discussed by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif, at the annual league day meeting next Monday of the League of Women Voters of the Bay Area.

The meeting, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., will be at His Lordship's Restaurant at the Berkeley Marina.

Also on the program, open to the public, will be a discussion of the state's environmental controls by Jean Auer of the state Water Resources Control Board and Gladys Meade of the state Air Resources Board.

A film on the Bay Area regional transportation plan produced by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission also will be shown.

Change Proposed In State Voting

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene has introduced a bill designed to eliminate the "vexing problem" created at presidential elections because California polls close three hours later than they do in the East.

Under current laws, election results in the East are televised in California before many voters have been to the polls.

The bill (SB130) by the Sacramento Democrat would permit California polls to open one day earlier than in the rest of the nation and close at 5 p.m. on the traditional election day — three hours before the polls close now.

The measure's effect would be to keep California polls open almost two days. It would apply only to presidential elections.

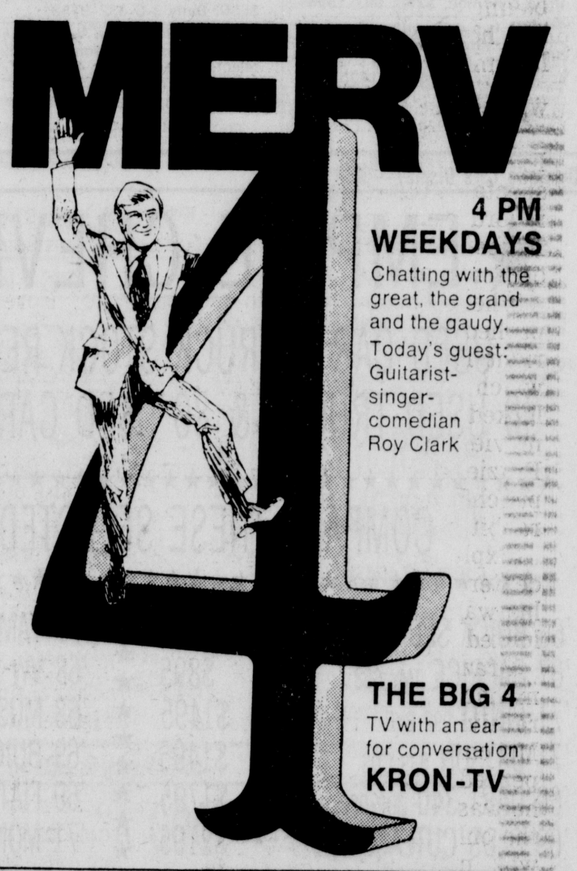
"By closing our polls early on election day," Greene said, "eastern results will be precluded from influencing our electorate."

Bill Would Delay Sales Tax Boost

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, has introduced a bill delaying for two years the imposition of a one-cent increase in the state sales tax because of a $1.1 billion budget surplus.

The measure (SB90) offered Monday was the latest entry into a growing controversy over how to dispose of the excess funds.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has said he wants to refund the money to taxpayers but hasn't arrived at a decision on what method should be used.



Champ Foreman Rules Boxing World

By GREG GALLO

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — George Foreman, the bull-strong Hayward, Calif., power puncher who loves America, is the new world heavyweight champion and the only question now is who he'll make his first defense against — Muhammad Ali or the man he wiped out here, Joe Frazier.

Unburdened by an return contract, the 24-year-old, unbeaten Foreman is perfectly free today to pick and choose. And he may do exactly that, announcing his choice at a news conference here today.

Frazier might not be there. He has an appointment with a neurologist. The former champion's head was pummeled severely by the 6-foot-3, 217 ½-pound Foreman until Referee Arthur Mercante mercifully stopped the contest at 1:35 of the second round.

FOREMAN

Foreman, who made headlines five years ago when he waved the American flag after winning the heavyweight gold medal at the Mexico City Olympic Games, made even a bigger name for himself at National Stadium Monday night when he knocked Frazier down six times to capture boxing's prize plum before 36,000 inperson fans and 100 million others who saw the fight on closed circuit TV transmitted via satellite world-wide.

"God gave me intelligence and I knew I would walk out of the ring as the new heavyweight champion," said Foreman, whose feet never touched the ground on the way to the dressing room as hundreds of jubilant Jamaicans carried their new hero on their shoulders.

JOE FRAZIER
Beaten boxer

Paul FitsRitzon, chairman of National Sports Limited, promoters of the fight, hinted that Foreman's first defense might be right back here.

"When Foreman signed the contract he said, 'If I win I'd like to make my first defense here," said FitsRitzon.

STUNNING UPSET

The shock of his stunning upset left Foreman practically speechless immediately after the scheduled 15-round fight and he wasn't able to indicate what might be ahead for him.

"I'd just like to consider what I've done before I think about anything else," he said. "Right now I'd just like to be grateful for what I've done."

Foreman did do a job on Frazier. Eight stitches were sewn into his lip which Foreman ripped with his cement-like fists. Frazier's head absorbed so many heavy blows that the chief physician of Jamaica's Boxing Board suggested that he see a neurologist.

GEORGE FOREMAN
New champion

"He seemed in fair enough condition," said Dr. Stuart Gray after examining the battered Frazier after the fight. "naturally, he's a little downhearted, and I feel in view of the type blows he took, he should check further."

TO DOCTOR

Frazier was to see Dr. John Hall in the morning to check and see if he had suffered any serious head damage.

A loser for the first time in 30 pro fights, Frazier took the defeat graciously but vowed he would be back. "I've got a score to settle," he said. "I'll be back and that's a promise."

Yank Durham, the former champion's manager, agreed with his beaten fighter. "I saw nothing to suggest he should retire," said Durham.

Foreman, meanwhile, begins his reign as champion and with the devastating punching power he showed last night, figures to be around quite a while.

38TH STRAIGHT

The victory was his 38th straight and 35th knockout. Only this time his critics can't say he fought "nobody."

Foreman earned $375,000 for the four minutes and 35 seconds he fought while Frazier picked up $850,000 along with his headache.

A crowd estimated at 36,000 witnessed the mismatch and were policed by 1,000 special troops, who were assigned to the stadium after police received threats of sabotage and reports that a bomb might be set off under the ring.

But the only damage done at the National Stadium was to Joe Frazier by George Foreman, the new heavyweight champion of the world.

Boxing: A Sport Full Of Surprises

There's joy for boxing fans throughout the Bay Area today in celebrating the world championship of heavyweight George Foreman of Hayward, a tough customer who surprised a lot of experts last night.

I must admit I have come to expect surprises when two big bruisers get together to fight for the world championship of boxing. And again I was surprised by the mismatch I witnessed last night on closed circuit television at the Oakland Coliseum Arena. It's not like the "good old days" when Joe Louis was whipping all challengers to his crown. That was when you listened to Don Dunphy's voice on radio and purses were in the thousands, not millions. Louis would be favored to win, and he would.

Now I find it impossible even to try to predict outcomes of world heavyweight championship fights. Just when I thought a guy by the name of Sonny Liston was unbeatable, he was whipped easily by Cassius Clay (that was his name then). Then when I was convinced Muhammad Ali (after the name change) was the best heavyweight in boxing history, he lost a decision to Joe Frazier. But how could that have been the same guy who last night was such easy prey for Foreman? That was the latest of surprises for me.

Everything pointed to a close match last night. Frazier was favored to beat Foreman who had a spectacular record of 37 victories without a loss, a record built up against mostly no-name foes. Instead, Frazier became the 35th knockout victim of Foreman.

When Frazier tried to get in close, Foreman pushed him back easily and then connected with right hand after right hand. His final rightcross which sent Frazier to the deck for the sixth time looked like it came right out of a John Wayne movie. In the slow motion replay of the punch Frazier is seen hoppint in split-second after the punch landed. Said one wag: "It's Foreman's rabbit punch. It sends his opponent hopping."

Explanation of Frazier's poor showing is being centered on the beating he absorbed from Ali on his way to his winning decision 22 months ago. It looked like a different man.

Frazier faked me out when he stared so menacingly at Foreman as the two boxers were receiving his instructions from referee Arthur Mercante. Then when the fight started, he appeared to be the quicker of the two. A minute later he was sent to the canvas with a right. From then the only thing he was quicker with was his chin. It was mercifully stopped at 1:35 of the second round.

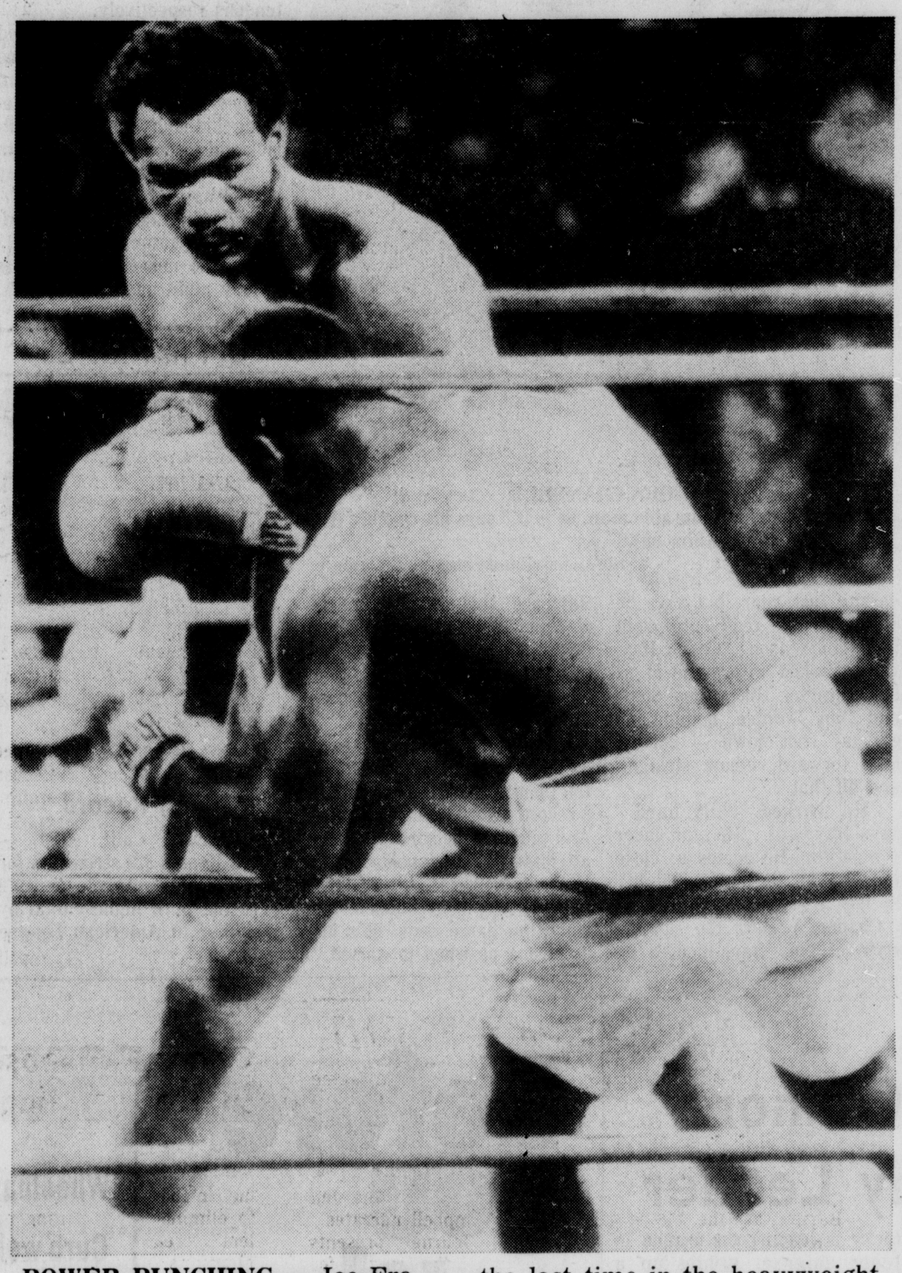
That's less than five minutes of fighting. For the thousands who were sitting aound me that comes out to just over $2 a minute to watch the fight on closed circuit television. Most of the Coliseum seats on the main floor were sold for $10, and other seats ranged to a low of $7.50 and high of $12.50. The Oakland Coliseum Arena was one of a half-dozen locations in the Bay Area showing the fight at about the same prices.

The 8,000 fans at Oakland Coliseum Arena paid a gate of $80,000, which promoter Ed Bercovich says is the biggest gate in the country, unofficially. There were also 1,850 fans at the Orpheum and 2,000 at Winterland in San Francisco and 1,400 at Richmond Auditorium.

The boxing fans were in and out of the arena by 7:40 p.m. There was still time to take in a movie somewhere, unless they were broke because of the ticket prices.

Foreman becomes the first fighter from around this area to win a world heavyweight championship since Max Baer of Sacramento wore the crown in 1934. I hope it's a long reign for George, but judging from the past three decades, it won't be too long.

A LATE NOTE — Tim Cullen, Oakland A's reserve second baseman who announced his retirement from baseball yesterday, has a little unfinished business in Novato Thursday. Cullen will be guest speaker at the Lu Sutton elementary school Father-Son night at 7:30 in the school auditorium. Cullen, a star at University of Santa Clara before his professional baseball career, will bring a film of the 1972 World Series with him. A's owner Charlie O. Finley gave all 25 members of the A's team a personal copy of the film.



POWER PUNCHING — Joe Frazier's knees buckled after George Foreman (background) landed a hard left in the second round, sending Frazier to the canvas for the last time in the heavyweight title fight in Kingston, Jamaica last night. Foreman was declared the new heavyweight champion after flooring Frazier six times.

A Visit To Dressing Room Of Sad Frazier

By MILTON RICHMAN

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — The two of them, Joe Frazier and Yank Durham, his manager, were alone now.

They had come all the way together to the very top of the mountain, and now they were back where they started, at the bottom.

Joe Frazier fingered his lower lip tenderly, the lip in which eight sutures had been taken only a short time ago by Dr. Stewart Gray, and looked over at his manager.

Yank Durham didn't say anything, but Joe Frazier could sense the question in his manager's mind.

"I didn't see it," said the beaten ex-champion, talking of course about that sledgehammer right uppercut of George Foreman's, that terribly devastating blow which preluded the first of six humiliating knockdowns and ultimately resulted in the crowning of a new world heavyweight champion at 1:35 of the second round here Monday night.

"Don't worry about it," Yank Durham tried to comfort his fighter.

This time it was Joe Frazier's turn not to reply.

"They'll give us a return," said Durham. "I'm pretty sure they will."

Joe Frazier had peeled off his soaked boxing trunks by this time and was beginning to put on his white street clothes. Yank Durham decided to leave him alone for a few minutes, told him he'd be back shortly, walked out the door and into another room further down the main corridor inside the National Stadium amphiteater.

"There's no return," Durham told a newsman who had asked. "We hope they'll be nice enough to give us another contract. If they don't then we'll have to start all over again just like any of those other guys."

"Did you tell that to Joe?" someone asked Durham.

"No," he snapped, impatiently. "I'm telling it to you. I'm confident they're gonna give us a rematch. Of course, I could be wrong."

"Did you tell somebody you thought Joe should quit now?"

WEST TABBED TONIGHT

Abdul-Jabbar, Barry To Miss NBA All-Star Game In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two starters were knocked out of the West lineup today for the 23rd National Basketball Association All star game— Milwaukee's Kareem AbdulJabbar and Rick Barry of the Golden State Warriors—but the West remained a slight favorite for the classic contest.

The game will be played on the Chicago Bulls' court in the Chicago Stadium tonight before a crowd expected to exceed 18,000 and will be televised nationally over ABC, Channel 7, beginning at 6 p.m. PST.

Barry and Abdul-Jabbar, named to the starting West lineup by vote of media personnel in every city in the league, were replaced on Los Angeles Lakers' Coach Bill Sharman's roster by Connie Hawkins of the Phoenix Suns and Bob Love of the Bulls.

Barry had to be scratched from the lineup because of a severely sprained ankle suffered in Sunday's game against Milwaukee, and Abdul-Jabbar was replaced for "personal reasons."

A spokesman for AbdulJabbar and the Bucks said that security measures would be taken to protect both the player and his family. The action was believed to be the aftermath of a shootout in Washington last week in a home purchased by Abdul-Jabbar and later turned over to the Muslim sect of which he is a member.

There was no indication whom Sharman would start at center in place of Jabbar, but he could choose between his own Wilt Chamberlain, expected to be selected, Detroit's Bob Lanier or Nate Thurmond of the Golden State team. Sidney Wicks of Portland will move up to replace Barry.

Other West starters will be Jerry West of the Lakers, Nate Archibald, the league leader in scoring and assists from Kansas City-Omaha, and Spencer Haywood of Seattle.

The East starting lineup and roster were unchanged with Walt Frazier and Dave DeBusschere of New York, Dave Cowens and John Havlicek of Boston and Pete Maravich of Atlanta scheduled to open for Coach Tom Heinsohn of the Celtics.

The East team has won 14 and lost eight in previous All Star games, while Sharman has a 1-1 record and Heinsohn 0-1 in previous appearances. Sharman won a 112-110 decision over Heinsohn a year ago when West hit a jumper with two seconds to play for a win for the West.

The West will be trying for its third straight victory in the series.

A's Sign Campaneris; Cullen Quits

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — The Oakland A's have another key performer in the fold today, but the baseball world champions lost a reserve infielder to the bulls and bears.

Shortstop Bert Campaneris yesterday returned a signed contract and received a "substantial raise," according to a team spokesman.

Campaneris led the league in stolen bases for the sixth time in eight years when he swiped 52 bases. He led American League shortstops in total chances and was second in fielding percentage and double plays.

Others, including outfielder Reggie Jackson and second baseman Dick Green, reportedly have agreed with owner Charles O. Finley on terms.

But the A's lost a player yesterday when reserve infielder Tim Cullen, 30, announced he was retiring to devote full time to his job with a stock brokerage firm in this area.

The 30-year-old Cullen was one of five men manager Dick Williams shuffled at second base. He hit .261 in 72 games while alternating with Green, Ted Kubiak, Dal Maxvill and Larry Brown.

Cullen spent most of his six years in the majors with the Washington Senators and was signed by the A's last spring as a free agent.

Marin Cagers Host Cosumnes

By a stroke of luck unforeseen at schedule-making time, College of Marin's basketball game tonight against Cosumnes River Junior College of Sacramento will provide good preparation for Saturday's crucial contest.

The Tars meet the non-league opponent at 8 o'clock in Kentfield, then rest for three days before hosting West Valley of Campbell in a key Camino Norte Conference encounter.

Marin, 16-2 overall and ranked No. 2 in the state, leads the conference by a full game at 4-0 over West Valley, which was 15-2 and ranked No. 3 until upset by Skyline of San Bruno Saturday.

"Cosumnes runs an offense similar to West Valley's," said Tar coach John Panagakis. "It's called a 'passing game,' where they use a five-man pattern and everybody is continually in motion. There's a lot of passing and screening away from the ball. They also press, which we could use some work against."

Marin defeated Cosumnes last year, 72-62. The visitors lost most of the players off that team, Panagakis said, but retained guard Carl Roper, who scored 19 points in that meeting.

The Tar players are just reaching the end of their final exam period. Normally, a non-league game is not scheduled at this time, but the Cosumnes games was switched from the week of Dec. 24 to fill this time slot, Panagakis said.

The Tars have a series of aches and pains, but not enough to keep anybody out of the lineup, the coach added. Forward Joe Casteel has a sore back, guard Len Smith a sore leg, guard Joe DeMaestri "took a couple of spills" in Saturday's 43-32 victory over De Anza College in Cupertino, and center John Crozier is suffering from Osgood's-Schlatter's "disease," an ailment resulting from rapid growth which affects the knees.

Unitas, Tilleman Peddled

Combined AP & UPI

The pro football travel business picked up yesterday with Johnny Unitas bound for San Diego, Mike Tilleman heading for Atlanta and John Hadl apparently waitlisted on a flight to somewhere in National Football League country.

Unitas, Baltimore's 17-year super quarterback but victim of a youth movement last season, was sent packing from the Colts to the San Diego Chargers for what Baltimore general manager Joe Thomas called "future considerations." He declined to elaborate.

Then, the Houston Oilers sent disgruntled defensive tackle Mike Tilleman to Atlanta for the Falcons' first choice in next week's NFL draft.

Unitas, who has completed more passes for more yardage and more touchdowns than any other passer in NFL history but is closing in on his 40th birthday, had insisted since he was benched in favor of youthful Marty Domres after five 1973 games that he would not return to the Colts. Still, he wasn't ecstatic about a trip to San Diego.

"Just because I've been traded doesn't mean I'll be going to the West Coast," he said. "For one thing, I don't know if it's legal. I'll just have to sit down and look at things and then talk with the San Diego people."

The reference about the legality of the deal apparently concerned a 10-year $30,000-a-year personal services contract with the Colts, which is to begin when Unitas quits playing.

Hadl, San Diego's long-time quarterback, asked to be traded the day after the 1972 season. Coach Harland Svare said there was "a difference of philosophy" between the quarterback and Bob Schnelker, the team's offensive coach.

Informed that the Chargers had acquired Unitas, Hadl said, "Well, I'm leaving."

The only question apparently is where is he going?

FISH AND GAME

Good Weekend For Sturgeon Fishermen

By AL GIDDINGS

"How sweet it is!" That's the way most of the San Pablo Bay sturgeon fishing day in San Pablo Bay in a long time. On Friday, I gave it a try for about an hour just south of the Richmond Bridge.

I guess I fished an hour before landing and about a 60-pounder. I used up about four ghost shrimp out of the 20 I had taken along. When I arrived back at the Loch Lomond dock, Amos Horsely, the caretaker of the gas pumps, hailed me down to check the catch.

After this, as I was leaving, I offered him the 16 ghost shrimp I had left. These he took, immediately planning a trip for Saturday. Well, Amos took his wife, Gladys, and a friend, Pete Jones.

All they caught were three sturgeon — 130, 66, and 35 pounds. The 130-pounder contained about 25 pounds of roe. Now you can't beat that, and I couldn't be happier. Amos is always a most helpful fellow at the harbor.

ONE THING — The fresh water from the delta runoff has put the fish in the bay but has moved the grass shrimp out. By noon Sunday, just about all the dealers were out of shrimp bait. This happened a few years ago, so the sturgeon moved to the south bay where the shrimp had moved.

The brant hunters, though there were just a few, connected with at least nine birds that I know of. Word has it that a flock of about 500 birds showed up in the Tomales Bay area the other day.

I HOPE YOU were all watching television's Channel 3 Sunday evening at 6 to see Al Jr. on the historic dive on the Andrea Doria. He was part of a team of Italian divers making a television special.

A jackrabbit hunt at Grizzly Island Wildlife Area 10 miles southeast of Fairfield, is scheduled for next Saturday and Sunday, the Department of Fish and Game announced this week.

THE HUNTS ARE PART of a DFG effort to assure maximum use of such publicly owned areas consistent with their overall conservation purposes. Jackrabbit populations are high, and the surplus rabbits should be harvested in order to make room for the annual reproduction, the DFG said.

No reservations or fees are required for the hunt which will be conducted on a first-come, first-served basis. Hunters will be required to check in and out at the wildlife area checking station. No more than 400 hunters will be permitted on the area at one time.

The checking station will open at 6 a.m. on both days and shooting will be allowed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. Shotguns and bows and arrows may be used but no rifle or shotgun-rifle combinations will be allowed.

Hunters may bring dogs but must keep them under reaosnable control.

EACH HUNTER under 16 years of age must be accompanied by an adult 18 years of age or older.

No cottontail rabbits may be taken during this hunt. There is no limit on jackrabbits. All hunters must have a valid 1972-73 hunting license.

Stafford Reservoir on the Novato-Point Reyes Station highway is scheduled to be stocked with catchable-size trout this week.

was another question tossed at Durham.

The question made him frown, and the frown wrinkled his ordinarily happy features.

"I said if he feels like quitting, he can quit; if he feels like fighting, he can fight," Durham came right back. "Until I see something in him that would make me say 'I think you should give it up,' I see no reason why Joe Frazier should. The doctors examined him a little while ago. They said he's physically fine."

One newsman was more persistent than some of the others. He kept asking Yank Durham exactly why he thought Joe Frazier had lost.

"Why? . . . Why? . . . Why?" Durham said, showing exasperation. "Why did he lose? I'll tell you why. He lost because he got hit, that's why. Why did Ellis lose to Joe? why did Quarry lose? Why did Clay lose? They all lost for the same reason Joe lost out there tonight. They got hit, that's all."

A few minutes later, Durham went back into the room where Frazier was getting dressed. The formerchamp shook his hand silently. Joe Frazier looked at his friend and said simply:

"I'm sorry. I tried."

PREP OF WEEK

Drake's Center Channell: A Model Of Consistency

By LEW CODDINGTON

Watching John Channell play basketball is something like watching the closing scene in Walt Disney's production of Davy Crockett — when Crockett was standing on the parapet at the Alamo, totally surrounded by enemy uniforms, battling away.

Often enveloped underneath the backboard, Channell has been a consistent scorer and rebounder all season long for Drake High School. Last week was an example — he got 19 points and 17 rebounds in a victory over San Marin Tuesday, 18 points and 19 rebounds in a loss to Novato Friday, and was named Independent-Journal Prep of the Week.

"If we have an indispensable man, he is it," says Drake coach Pete Hayward. "We can't afford to take him out."

The Pirates are smaller than most teams, and Channel is smaller than a number of Marin County Athletic League centers at 6-foot-4.

"I'm used to it by now," he says. "I like the position, though I realize I'd have to play forward in college."

Channell hasn't decided on college yet, although he is leaning toward College of Marin. "I'd like to stay here, get a job, make some money and then go on to a four-year school," he said.

He also is undecided about what he would major in at college. "I like working with my hands," he says. "I've taken wood and metal shop and ceramics. I'm also in a beginning photography class at school — I might get a couple of shots in the yearbook."

His chief diversion, other than "going out," is riding either his Honda 350 motorcycle or the Honda 450 belonging to his older brother, George.

Although Channell has been playing basketball "for a really long time," he was not always a star. "If you talked to my eighth-grade coach, he would say I was uncoordinated — kind of a clod."

Channell skipped basketball in the ninth grade, played junior varsity in the 10th and varsity last year, but says he didn't become really proficient until this season. "Coach Hayward worked with some of us last summer, like Greg Shaw and Dan Trimble, helping me get my shot down — correct food forward, elbow straight, and all that."

"He worked really hard," says Hayward. "He's an inner competitor. He comes as close to using all the natural ability he has as anybody I know."

Channel prefers the running style of play implemented by Hayward this year over the disciplined style used by coach Bob Fitzhenry last season. "As a small team, we have to run, to be quicker than the opposition," he says.

Usually the Pirates succeed, as they remain in the thick of the frantic MCAL race with a 3-2 record prior to today's games. And much of the success can be attributed to Channell, who in Hayward's words, "is in there battling people by himself, and when the game ends, he's just as strong as when it started."

"If we have an indispensable man, he is it," says his coach. "We can't afford to take him out."

ABA STATISTICS

Colonels' Gilmore Is A 3-Way Leader

NEW YORK (UPI) — Basketball, it has been suggested by some who have apparently not watched the American Basketball Association's Kentucky Colonels, is a five-man game. But with Kentucky, it's Artis Gilmore going up and Artis Gilmore coming down and, come to think of it, maybe that's not a bad way to play.

Gilmore, the 7-foot bearded pivotman of the Colonels, is leading the ABA in three categories — rebounding, two-point field goal percentage and blocked shots—and is 10th in another—scoring.

Gilmore's intimidating presence under the backboards is the primary reason why Kentucky is leading the league in team defense, giving up a scanty 108.8 points per game. He averages 19.1 rebounds per game, has a .562 shooting percentage and averages 3.6 blocked shots per game.

Julius Erving continues to lead the league in scoring for Virginia. Dr. J is racing along at a 31.1 point clip. Indiana's George McGinnis is second at 28.9 points per game.

Seals Vs. Islanders In New York

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — The California Golden Seals, after finishing strong against the Boston Bruins, try to prove tonight that the New York Islanders really are the worst team in the National Hockey League.

The Islanders, last in the East, have the worst NHL record, with just five victories in 47 games. But they have beaten the Seals, last in the West, in two of the three games between the clubs.

The Seals lost 5-2 at Boston Sunday. Stan Gilbertson and Hilliard Graves scored California goals in the final period while goalie Gilles Meloche shut out the strong Bruins.

The Seals will be missing left wingers Joey Johnston and Gary Croteau, who have a broken jaw and injured right knee tendons respectively.

Their loss has necessitated wholesale line switches for the Seals. Gilbertson has been teamed with center Walt McKechnie and right wing Craig Patrick and responded Sunday with a goal the first time they played as a unit.

California faces a busy schedule of nine games in the next 13 days. The next home game is Friday night against St. Louis.

Hicklin Dinner In San Rafael

A testimonial dinner for Harry Hicklin, who retired last month after 15 years as trainer for athletic teams at College of Marin, will be held Tuesday, Feb. 6 at Dominic's Restaurant, 507 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael.

The dinner is open to the public at a cost of $5 per person. An additional $5 may be contributed toward a gift for Hicklin. Reservations can be made by telephoning either the restaurant or College of Marin athletic director Harry Pieper, and payment can be made at the door.

The Block "M" Club, an organization of letter-winners at the college, is organizing the dinner, which will start at 7:30 p.m. after cocktails at 6:30 p.m.

Hicklin will retire to Oroville, where he owns a mobile home. His successor as Tars' trainer is Bob Overmyer, 56, a civilian structural superintendent for the civil engineering squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base until his retirement last January after almost 31 years of federal service.

A resident of Novato, Overmyer has long been active in Little League, Pony League, Colt League and Babe Ruth baseball there, and has been president of the Novato High Booster Club.

He was chosen from among 35 applicants, according to Pieper.

means the Oilers will have two first-round choices in the NFL draft — their own No. 1 over-all pick and Atlanta's, which is No. 14.

Tilleman, a 280-pound, seven-year veteran from Montana, was the Oilers' leading tackler last season although he played out his option after contract squabbles.

"Tilly was unhappy here," said General Manager John Breen, "but he's been unhappy wherever he's been. After two years, he sees the light and greener pastures. He's happy now. In fact, he's already in Atlanta."

Meanwhile, Los Angeles Rams' owner Caroll Rosenbloom said yesterday he expects to ecide on a head coach for the Rams this week and that the position of present coach Tommy Prothro has weakened.

"Tommy isn't as much in the picture this week as he was last week," Rosenbloom said.

"Before the week is out we'll have a decision," he said, "because we've exhausted all the possibilities." The Rams were 6-7-1 last season.

The Reasons Behind Giants' Poor Season

Strikeouts are a joy to pitchers, a worrisome thing to batters. When a batter goes down swinging, particularly with teammates on base, he feels momentarily frustrated.

Strikeouts that stifle potential rallies not only are individually frustrating but can begin to affect an entire ball club. A successful club can't have three or four batters in the lineup who strike out 100 or more times a season.

There were several reasons why the Giants finished fifth in the National League West last season. First, Willie McCovey was put out of action in the fourth game with a broken arm. Second, Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell had their worst seasons ever, winning only 16 games between them instead of winning 20 games each as expected of them.

BUT OVERLOOKED was the fact that four Giants, on whom the team depended for a robust batting attack, did an awful lot of whiffing. Two of them struck out more than 100 times. Dave Kingman fanned 140 times, Bobby Bonds 137. Garry Maddox whiffed 97 times, Chris Speier 92.

"Don't hold strikeouts against anyone," said Hank Sauer, batting coach of the Giants. "I had my share of them when I was playing."

BUT SAUER READILY acknowledges that the Giants must do something about their strikeouts this year and he promises they will.

"You must remember," said Sauer, "that we have a young but very talented group of players who haven't been in baseball very long. They're not only going to be all right this year but great."

Sauer then analyzed the strikeout situation man-by-man.

"Bonds led the league in strikeouts when he first came up several years ago," said Sauer. "Ever since he has been trimming them each season. I really believe Bobby would have gotten under 100 last year if he hadn't felt that it was up to him, as the team's young oldtimer, to take up the slack created by loss of McCovey's bat. Bobby just tried too hard last season.

"SPEIER'S 92 strikeouts are acceptable. I think 90 strikeouts are acceptable over a season but I know Chris will be aiming at 80 or lower this year. And he'll be successful because I've never seen anyone work harder for success than Speier. He began trimming his strikeouts when he flattened an upright bat. He stayed with it and conquered it.

"Maddox is a cinch to cut his strikeouts. His only problem last year was inexperience. He doesn't stride too far and he has a good short, flat swing."

Sauer summed up Kingman's strikeouts in one word "uppercutting."

"We got to cure Dave's uppercutting of the ball," said Sauer. "He has a tendency to collapse his back leg. That's what got him into the uppercutting. And it caused him to take his head off the ball.

"KINGMAN ALWAYS will have a certain amount of bending of his back leg because he's so tall. But collapsing it to the point where he is off balance is something we must stop.

"Dave's bat speed is so swift that he'll still hit homers even with a shorter swing. He's going from a 34 to 36 ounce bat this year and that will have a natural tendency in producing a shorter swing. I'd never suggest to him, or any batter, to slow down his swing. Bat speed is very desirable — and Dave has it."

Rogers New Grid Coach In San Jose

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Darryl Rogers first did not want to leave his position as head football coach at Fresno State, but said he reconsidered under persuasion of San Jose State President John H. Bunzel.

Last Friday, he declined to take over as head coach of the Spartans because "I didn't want to leave Fresno," but Monday he changed his mind and agreed to a multi-year contract at undisclosed terms to lead the Spartans in place of Dewey King, who resigned under pressure earlier this month.

"I didn't know I'd take the job until 8 o'clock this morning," said the 38-year-old Rogers after touring the San Jose campus and finally giving in to Bunzel's entreaties.

Said the pleased president "I refused to take 'no' for an answer. This the man we wanted for the job."

Rogers, who had a 43-33-1 record in seven years at Fresno State, said he would bring defensive line coach Bob Padilla and defensive backfield coach Jim Colbert with him to San Jose.

Rogers was a record-setting wide receiver at Fresno State who played "very seldom" for Los Angeles and Denver in two years as a pro.

"I hope to bring to San Jose State a class of football that the community will be proud of. I am very honored," Rogers said.

Overtime Surge Lifts Tetons West To Win

Bubba Brody scored eight of his 13 points in the second overtime period to give the Tetons West Turkeys a 69-61 victory over McGillicuddy Construction in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball game yesterday.

Bob Heany scored 31 points for the winners and Joe Dunlop 19 for the losers. In other games, Ghilotti Brothers, defeated First American Title, 65-46, and Lisa's Gang beat Harvey Wallbanger by forfeit.

Spitz Selected Athlete Of Year

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — Mark Spitz buried his image as an Olympic choker under a wave of gold medals at the Munich Games and today was a landslide winner as 1972 Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year.

The mustachioed Californian polled 405 votes from a national panel of sports newsmen. Golfer Jack Nicklaus was runnerup with 62 and baseball pitcher Steve Carlton received 61.

Johnny Bench and Dick Allen, baseball sluggers from the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago White Sox, respectively, tied for fourth with 20 votes.

Spitz, a flop at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, churned to an unprecedented seven golds. He established a world record on every journey to the winner's platform.

Golf

MORINO, Calif. — Pat McDonald of China Lake, Calif., holds a slim one-stroke margin over three other golfers going into today's second round of the $25,000 Western Tournament Golf Association event at the Qual Country Club.

McDonald braved 40 mile-per-hour winds yesterday and carded a 34-38—72 in the first round of the 36-hole event. The winds were so strong that a 10-foot uphill putt by Mike Davis lipped the cup and was blown back 30 feet off the green.

At 73 were Ray Leach, Novato, 39-34; Steve Veriato, Bryan, Tex., 34-39; Doug Campbell, Tacoma, Wash., 35-38.

NEW YORK — Bruce Crampton, winner of two consecutive tournaments on the pro golf circuit, has taken over the lead in the Professional Golfers Association money earnings race.

Crampton has earned $60,030 on the tour so far this year.

Football

WASHINGTON — John McKay of Southern California has been named college football's "Coach of the Year" by the Washington Touchdown Club. McKay's Trojans also were selected as the college team of 1972 by the Touchdown Club.

Allison, runnerup to Richard Petty in last year's point championship, has 335.5 points to Ray Elder's 332.25.

Baseball

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies yesterday signed outfielder Willie Montanez to a 1973 contract.

The club said Montanez signed the pact in his native Puerto Rico, bringing to 14 the number of players signed for the coming season.

Montanez last season batted .247 with 13 home runs and 64 runs batted in.

Boxing

NEW YORK — The manager for heavyweight contender Ron Lyle said today that he has "no intentions of fighting Muhammad Ali" despite the former champion's claim of seeking a fight with Lyle, after he fights British champion Joe Bugner.

"We have an agreement to fight Jerry Quarry on Feb. 9," said Bill Daniels, Lyle's principle handler. "We have no intention of fighting Ali. After Quarry, we want George Foreman. Let Ali fight all the bums he wants but right now the only man who can stand up to Foreman and hit, is Ron Lyle."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

The Short Term Bond Recommended

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Is it true that the high yielding bonds may soon become eligible for redemption? I am interested in short-term (4 to 5 years) AA bonds. — L.M.

A. Many of the high coupon bonds issued during 1970, when interest rates were peaking, carried five-year call protection. Thus these debt securities are approaching the end of their redemption - protected period. However, if interest rates continue their currently rising trend and are again at a peak in the mid-70s, corporations would have no incentive to redeem those high coupon bonds issued in 1970.

Several debt securities are available which fit your criteria including: Beneficial Corp. 8½s of 1976, Household Finance 9s of 1976, Sears, Roebuck 8½s of 1976 and Union Oil of California 8¼s of 1976. All four are trading at premiums to yield around 8 per cent currently but only 6.5 per cent maturity.

Q. In 1968 I purchased 500 shares of Georgia Medical Equipment at $2 a share — total cost $1,000. In order to establish a tax loss for 1972, I asked my broker to sell the shares. He informed me that there was no market whatsoever for the shares and that the stock was considered worthless. My question is how and for what year can I take this loss? — G.W.

A. If this coproration has in fact filed bankruptcy and forfeited its charter, you may claim a tax loss only for that year in which the charter was forfeited. Since this forfeiture may have taken place several years ago you would, in that case, have to file an amended return for that year. In order to determine whether the charter was rescinded, and in what year, you should write to the secretary of the state in which the company is or was incorporated.

On the other hand, should you find that no forfeiture has taken place you will be in a more tenuous tax position. However, you may sell your shares for a nominal amount at "action" in order to establish an actual loss.

Market Is Sidetracked By Cost-Of-Living Index

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economic worries continued to outweigh prospects for peace as prices declined in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors seemed concerned about the cost-of-living index rising to its highest level in 25 years, and the dollar coming under pressure on European markets. These developments carried more influence with buyers than brightening prospects for a peace accord in Vietnam, analysts said.

Westvaco Corp. led the actives, off 2½ at 24 on 187,000 shares.

Prices were lower in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Houston Oil & Minerals led the Amex actives, off 1⅞ 35½ on 73,300 shares.

Big Board glamors were mixed. Corning Glass gained 4, but Walt Disney lost 3⅛; Wrigley 1¾ and Polaroid 1⅛.

Electronics and computers were mostly lower. Burroughs declined 2⅛, Control Data, 2.

Oils were mixed. Phillips lost 1¼, Superior Oil1. Natomas gained 1⅜ and Mountain Fuel Supply 1.

Airlines and motors were mixed. Delta and United lost 1⅛ each. General Motors slipped the same amount.

Rails, steels, chemicals and aircrafts were mixed. Chesapeake & Ohio lost 1½.

OUTLIVES LIFE INSURANCE

Cyprien Alcetegaray, 92, of 1053 Third Street in Novato literally outlived his own life insurance. Here he is receiving the full $3,029.98 value of his two New York Life policies from Novato agent Dan Richard (right) and San Rafael general manager Lester L. Kuhns (left.) Policyowners reaching age 96 or, as in Alcetegaray's case, the equivalent in extra premiums paid, are offered the value of their policies, Richard explained. Alcetegaray bought the policies in 1928. He retired from his San Rafael laundry business in 1947.

Nixon May Announce Vietnam Cease-Fire Tonight

DAILY Independent Journal Est. 1861
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
VOL. 112 | $2.50 A MONTH BY CARRIER | 15c PER COPY | SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1973 | Telephone 454-3020 | NO. 260

Meetings In Paris Concluded Quickly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will address the nation on radio and television tonight, probably to announce a Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, in making the announcement early this afternoon of the broadcast, did not say specifically that Nixon would speak on a cease-fire. But all signs pointed to it.

Ziegler said the speech at 7 p.m. PST was designed "to report on the status of the Vietnam negotiations."

The speech will follow a meeting by Nixon with Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his chief Vietnam negotiator who was due back in Washington at 5:45 p.m. EST after a three-hour, 45-minute meeting in Paris today with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

The Paris meeting broke up amid warm smiles and waves from both Kissinger and Tho.

Kissinger had been expected to remain in Paris for several days. His quick return suggested that the final session of the long, difficult negotiations went smoothly.

Ziegler said that prior to Nixon's address, he will meet at 8:30 p.m. EST with his Cabinet and at 9 p.m. with a bipartisan group of congressional leaders.

The latter were Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania; Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield; Speaker Carl Albert, House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts.

Ziegler also announced there would be a larger bipartisan congressional leadership meeting at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Ziegler declined to say how long the speech would be or to expand in any way on his terse announcement.

If as expected Nixon announces tonight an agreement has been reached, it will come almost four years to the day from the first peace talks in Paris. It was on Jan. 26, 1969, that American, North Vietnamese, South Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators first gathered at the Hotel Majestic in Paris to try to end the long, bloody war.

Details of the cease-fire agreement, not immediately made public, were expected to closely parallel the nine-point accord that both sides nearly agreed on in October. That called for the return of all U.S. prisoners of war and the withdrawal of all U.S. troops within 60 days.

A cease-fire would take place within 24 hours of the formal signing, and an international supervisory team would go into Vietnam to police the ceasefire.

The accord established a National Council of Reconciliation made up of representatives from the Saigon and Hanoi governments, plus neutralists to supervise elections which would determine the political future of Vietnam.

The October accord also provided that all sides respect the sovereignty of Cambodia and Laos, measures which officials said then would lead to a cease-fire in those countries.

All U.S. and South Korean troops would be withdrawn. There was no specific language for removal of North Vietnamese troops in the South, but various reports have said an understanding existed on that point.

Both the White House and North Vietnam announced in advance of today's Kissinger-Tho meeting that it would be for the purpose of completing the draft of the cease-fire accord. The meeting ended with both sides shaking hands warmly, their faces wreathed in smiles.

There were rumors in Saigon and Paris that Nixon would announce the end of the war in a radio and television speech tonight but there was no confirmation from the White House. President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam also was expected to address his nation at about the same time.

Neither delegation would make any comment on the outcome of the meeting, but in the past, when snags have hit the negotiations, the two sides have held further sessions in efforts to resolve them. Today the meeting ended in a state of rosiness and there was no announcement of further talks.

The Hanoi delegation announced that Tho will give a news conference Wednesday. It said the event would take place at 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EST) at the International Conference Center at Kleber Avenue in downtown Paris —site of today's meeting between Tho and Kissinger.

The announcement came less than three hours after Kissinger flew to Washington following his three-hour-45-minute Vietnam peace meeting with Tho, after which the two men emerged smiling and shaking hands. A news conference by Tho is not common, but has happened in the past.

The delegation would not give any details of Tho's subject, nor comment on today's meeting.

The initialing of the agreement was given as the reason for Kissinger's unexpected return to Washington today. The paper said Kissinger was bringing with him the initialed agreement and that it will be checked over by Nixon and Secretary of State William Rogers. If the pact meets with their approval, Rogers will go to Paris to formally sign the agreement. Both the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong Foreign Ministers already were in Paris and the French Government has prepared the old Kleber Avenue Majestic Hotel for a possible signing ceremony.

WIFE AND DAUGHTER — Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson and her daughter, Lynda, stood at the head of the casket containing the body of former President Lyndon B. Johnson this morning. The body will lie in state at the Lyndon B. Johnson Library in Austin, Tex., until tomorrow, when it will be taken to Washington for state services. Country Saddened By Johnson Death

Heart Attack Fells Former President

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The people who knew Lyndon B. Johnson best — his family, friends and neighbors from the Texas hill country — filed by his body in the marbled Great Hall of the LBJ Library today to honor and mourn the 36th U.S. President.

Johnson, whose pursuit of the Vietnam War divided a nation to which he had pledged a "Great Society," died Monday of a heart attack. He was 64.

The tall Texan who described the White House as the "lonely acres" was a man who loved and needed people. And they came to him today to pay their final respects.

His body will lie in state in a gray metal casket until 8 a.m. tomorrow CST at the top of the stairs in the stately Great Hall of the $18.6 million library in front of a black marble pylon.

President Nixon proclaimed Thursday as a national day of mourning for Johnson.

Nixon issued an executive order requiring closure of all federal agencies, except for those involved with the national security, on Thursday — the day of the Johnson funeral.

The President directed that flags be displayed at half staff for 30 days.

Smartly uniformed members of the 5th Army's "Hell on Wheels" Division stood by.

Johnson's widow, Lady Bird, 60, her two daughters and her four grandchildren, accompanied the body in a motorcade from the Weed-Corley Funeral Home to the library. They met solemnly by the catafalque before the public lying in state.

"I had just about the toughest assignment I've ever had," said Tom Johnson, an aide to the former president but no relation, who helped prepare the body for the ceremony, including dressing his former boss in a business suit. "I've helped him put on his coat a lot of times, but this time was the toughest."

Johnson was stricken during an afternoon nap Monday at his LBJ Ranch 65 miles from Austin. Secret service agents rushed to help him.

"They found the former President Johnson on the floor next to his bed. He was not moving," said Tom Johnson. "He was lying on his back. An agent said he appeared dead. He was dark blue in color. They administered oxygen and mouth to mouth resuscitation ... "

While Johnson's body lay in state, President Nixon's chief negotiator, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, was enroute to Washington from Paris, where he conferred with North Vietnamese officials in what could be the last meeting before a cease-fire is announced.

Johnson escalated the war into a major conflict during his presidency, and it forced him out of office in 1968. In his final days in the White House, Johnson said sadly: "Peace has eluded me."

On the black marble pylon rising above the catafalque were these words:

"I have followed the personal philosophy that I am a free man, an American, a public servant and a member of my party—in that order, always and only.

"The Great Society asks not how much, but how good; not only how to create wealth but how to use it; not only how fast we are going, but where we are headed. It proposes as the first test for a nation: The quality of its people."

Mrs. Charles Beckham of Smithville, Tex., was the first person in line during the morning to file past the casket. She took her four children out of school and drove 50 miles north.

"I respect President Johnson," Mrs. Beckham said. "I was about to lose my only child and he helped bring my husband home from the military."

A jetliner provided by Nixon will fly Johnson's body to Washington Wednesday. The casket will be taken to the Capitol, where the body will lie in state in the rotunda until Thursday, followed by funeral services at the National City Christian Church.

The body then will be flown back to Texas for a final ceremony and burial at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in the family cemetery on the banks of the Pedernales River, a quartermile from the LBJ Ranch.

"These plans represent the wishes of the family," Tom Johnson said. Of Mrs. Johnson, he said, "I would describe her condition as very sturdy. She is holding up very well."

Johnson's death came 27 days after that of Harry S. Truman, the nation's 33rd President.

Doctors said two of the three major vessels taking blood to Johnson's heart had become

Johnson Lauded By State Leaders

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan and former Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown today joined California political leaders of both parties in paying homage to Lyndon B. Johnson.

"He always placed the interests of the nation, as he saw them, first," Reagan said. "As president and leader of his party, President Johnson believed that America must honor its commitments as the leading nation of the free world."

Brown, California chairman of Johnson's 1964 campaign and now a Beverly Hills attorney, said he "regarded President Johnson as one of our greatest presidents.

"Unfortunately his great works in civil rights and human rights were overshadowed by the Vietnam War," Brown said.

Brown was California governor when Johnson was president and placed his name in nomination for the presidency at the 1964 Democratic National Convention. Brown was one of those mentioned that year for the vice presidential nod that ultimately went to Hubert Humphrey.

Brown said Johnson's "determination to pass legislation for the good of the people was not matched by anyone. He had a laundry list of things he wanted to get done, and most of them he did.

"But the average person didn't realize that he was passing those bills for the little people," Brown said. "He was a far more sensitive and humane man than ever given credit for."

Reagan also praised the manner in which Johnson "took over when the whole country was on edge" following the

Living Cost Rise; Statistics Given

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living of Americans rose 3.4 per cent during 1972, the government reported today. December prices increased by 0.3 per cent to wind up the year.

On behalf of the White House, Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the December figures showed that "substantial progress has been made in lowering inflation and conditions have improved for reaching reasonable price stabilization."

However, the Bureau of Labor Statistics which released the monthly report noted the December consumer price index did not reflect a sharp surge in wholesale food prices for the month —the greatest in a quarter of a century.

They can be expected to show up in higher grocery store costs for January, the BLS said.

The December increase for consumers was paced by higher prices for eggs and fresh vegetables along with rises in rent, property taxes, insurance and general repairs.

Stein said a 3.2 per cent annual rate of increase for the final quarter of 1972 "was only a little above the target." He also said that the "restraint of food price increases will be a major objective for 1973."

The BLS report suggested that consumers already were paying higher supermarket prices for food as a result of the big jump in wholesale food prices in December, and that these will show up in the January index.

The BLS said direct comparisons between wholesale and retail food prices are not always meaningful.

"Since the prices for food are collected at different times of the month for the two indexes, there is generally a time lag between wholesale price index changes and their reflection at the consumer level and not all price change at wholesale is always passed on to the consumer," the BLS said.

During the first 14 months of President Nixon's Phase II economic controls — from November, 1971, through last month — the CPI also went up at a 3.4 per cent annual rate, down from the 3.8 per cent rate in 1971 before the Aug. 15 wage-price freeze.

But food prices went up at an annual rate of 5 per cent in Phase II through December, the same rate as in 1971 prior to the freeze. The index for commodities other than food increased only 2.5 per cent in Phase II compared to 2.9 per cent in 1971 before the freeze. For services it went up at a 3.6 per cent rate in Phase II, compared to a 4.5 per cent annual rate in 1971 before the freeze.

The BLS reported that average weekly earnings of factory workers gained ground in relation to the rise of the cost of living in 1972. Average weekly earnings went up 6.2 per cent — almost double the 34 per cent price rise.

The average worker got a 2.7 per cent increase in the purchasing power of his weekly earnings, the report said.

The BLS said prices for new cars increased 0.4 per cent in December, reflecting price increases on 1973 model cars approved by the Price Commission in early December. But used car prices went down 0.9 per cent.

Supervisors Request State Welfare Help

Marin County Supervisors, confronted with the possibility of spending its $1.1 million revenue sharing allocation to ease welfare cuts, urged the state today to help out.

Betty L. Presley, county director of public social services, told supervisors that changes in federal welfare regulations may end up costing Marin between $66,000 and $823,000 this year.

The problem is caused by Title III of the federal revenue-sharing bill which puts a $2.5 billion ceiling on what the federal government will spend on welfare nationwide.

California's share of the total will be about $245 million — some $28 million less than expected. That deficit will have to be made up by the state and counties.

Depending on how the state hands out the $245 million, Marin's share of the $28 million deficit will range between $66,000 and $823,000, to be covered by local funds (revenue sharing) or a cut in social service programs.

If the money is distributed on the basis of county population, Marin will lose only about $66,000 as its proportionate share of the $28 million deficit.

On the other hand, if it is distributed on the basis of the welfare case load in each county, Marin, with a low case load, will lose about $823,000, Miss Presley said.

Supervisors unanimously urged state officials to distribute the money on the basis of population, though chairman Arnold M. Baptiste questioned the move as possibly reducing the allocation to poor people elsewhere in the state.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere responded that the board had to look out for the best interests of Marin.

Voting Light In Marinwood Bond Election

Voting was light this morning in the Marinwood open space bond election, with only 253 residents casting ballots by 11 a.m.

A total of 2,334 registered voters is eligible to cast ballots in the election, according to the Marin County Elections Department.

Polls at the community center, Miller Creek School and Mary Silveira School will remain open until 8 p.m. today. By 11 a.m. today, 115 residents had cast ballots at the community center, 48 at Miller Creek School and 90 at Mary Silveira School, according to precinct officials.

The $600,000 bond issue election is aimed at preserving 350 acres of undeveloped land — most of it in the community's southwestern corner — as open space.

Water Is Back To Tasting And Smelling Good

Marin Municipal Water district water is tasting and smelling good again today, a spokesman for the agency said today.

For the past several days users in Southern Marin and the Ross Valley have complained of an unpleasant taste and odor caused by chemical reaction to debris washed into the district's reservoirs during recent storms.

But B. G. Grant, district publicist, said the district has solved the problem by diluting the offending water from its Bon Tempe treatment plant with water from its San Geronimo plant and modifying treatment.

Grant warned that the metallic flavor and aroma may reoccur if storms wash more material into the district's lakes.

Plane Crash Injuries Fatal To Onassis Son

ATHENS (UPI) — Alexandros Onassis, only son and heir of shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis, 23, died today from multiple head injuries he received during a plane crash yesterday, a spokesman at the accident hospital KAT said.

"The death of Mr. Onassis occurred at 18:55 11:55 a.m. EST. There is nothing else to add," the spokesman said.

Earlier a spokesman has said that at 4 p.m. 9 a.m. EST, the young man's heart had started beating irregularly.

Onassis never gained consciousness when the light plane he was piloting crashed minutes after takeoff over the Athens airport runway. An American and a Canadian pilot with him were seriously injured too.

Doctors declared Onassis "clinically dead" hours before his heart stopped beating. Two blood clots were removed from his brain.

The young man's mother, the former Tina Idvanos, and his father and stepmother, the former Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, who spent the morning around his bedside, were seen leaving the hospital.

Bond Vote For Public Safety Set

Residents of Fairfax will vote April 17 on a $300,000 bond issue for new city public safety facilities, the town council formally decided last night. (See another town council story, page 16.)

The bonds would acquire land to construct a new fire house at the present site at Bolinas Avenue and Park Road and remodel fire department headquarters in city hall to provide for expanded police facilities.

The vote was 4-1, with Mayor pro-tem E. Ross Parkerson dissenting.

At a recent council meeting, Parkerson had argued that construction of a new firehouse at the Bolinas-Park site would encroach on nearby Peri Park, and offered an alternate site at 85 Bolinas Road.

Although Egger sided with the majority, he repeated his support of Parkerson's remarks. He said, nevertheless, that he believed voters should be given the opportunity to weigh the plan.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

A NATO Compromise

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) allies agreed today on a compromise reply to the surprise Soviet demand for changes in exploratory talks on East-West troop reductions.

A NATO spokesman said agreement on the reply was reached at the fourth NATO council meeting in five days. Formal approval from NATO capitals is expected by tonight, he said, with the reply going off tonight or tomorrow to Russia and other Warsaw pact countries.

NATO sources said the allies reply might agree to Soviet demands that the talks open in Vienna, instead of Geneva, as originally planned. But they said NATO balked at the Kremlin suggestion that the talks be expanded from the 12 nations which have troops in Central Europe, to include all "interested" countries — including neutrals.

Land To Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States agreed today to return portions of 10 military installations with a total area of 5,663 acres to Japan over a three-year period ending January 1976.

The agreement was signed at a meeting of the consultative committee that supervises operation of the U.S.-Japan military security treaty.

Most of the property concerned is in the Tokyo area. "American military capabilities in Japan remain unchanged," a U.S. official said. "We would like to believe there will be some increase in efficiency."

The consolidations will mean a reduction of the authorized strength of the U.S. air force in Japan by 2,100 men from the present level of 8,400.

Ask Rule Delay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bacon processors have asked the government for a delay in enforcement of a new rule requiring the use of "show-and-tell" packages.

The regulation, scheduled to take effect Feb. 17, requires that when bacon is sold in standard "window-type" packages, the window must be big enough to show the consumer at least 70 per cent of one entire slice. The idea behind the rule is that the buyer will be able to tell how much of the bacon is fat and how much is lean.

Older types of packages provided a view of only a thin sliver of each slice, and sometimes made the bacon seem leaner than it actually was.

New Demo Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats, in a major congressional seniority system reform, have voted to require each committee chairman to stand for election by their 243-member caucus.

The Democrats approved the new system in a 204-9 vote yesterday in a closed door caucus.

They also approved a provision that 20 per cent of those present at a caucus could request and receive a secret ballot vote on each chairman. This rule was tested on the first two men named to succeed themselves by virtue of seniority.

Equal Rights

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Legislation was introduced in the Nevada Senate yesterday to ratify the Federal Equal Rights Amendment for women, and one of the sponsors predicted a vigorous fight over the measure.

"This could be as controversial as last session's abortion bill in terms of controversy," said Sen. Richard Bryan, D-Las Vegas, who cosponsored the measure with Sen. Thomas R. C. Wilson, D-Reno.

"I haven't polled other lawmakers but I think it will bring on a fight," said Bryan. "The results could be close."

Relatives Of Jet Crash Victims Pour Into Area

LAGOS (UPI) — Bodies of Moslem pilgrims lay strewn along the runway and screaming relatives fought army troops and police in attempts to reach dead kinsmen.

Off the runway, broken and burned, rested the hulk of a chartered Boeing 707 that crashed Monday at the Kano airport, 520 miles north of Lagos, in the worst disaster of its kind on record.

Aviation officials said 180 persons of the 202 persons aboard the plane, chartered by Nigerian Airways from the Jordanian national Alia Airlines, died when the plane touched down on gravel 40 feet off the runway, veered left into a ditch, lost a wheel, went into a skid and burst into flames.

The worst previous crash on record, last Oct. 13, involved a Soviet Aeroflot jetliner near the Moscow airport. In that crash, 176 persons died.

The crash Monday occurred as the jetliner was returning from a 2,100-mile flight taking pilgrims to Mecca. Officials said scores of planes make the trip every year to ferry the Nigerian faithful to the spiritual center of Islam.

Officials said 22 persons, including the pilot and five other crewmembers, survived the crash. The crew was placed under guard at a Kano hospital to protect them.

The dead, many of them killed as they jumped or were thrown from the skidding, burning aircraft, were strewn along the runway. Later, police and troops gathered the bodies and covered them with blankets while wailing relatives watched.

Some of the survivors, officials said, escaped death by jumping from the emergency door in the plane's tail section, the only part of the aircraft not destroyed by fire.

Officials said the Kano control tower warned the pilot just before the crash of fog and poor visibility.

The cause of the crash was not officially announced and Transport Commissioner Russell Dikko left Lagos immediately to lead an investigation into the cause.

Authorities sealed off the Kano airport to prevent disturbing evidence.

Other pilgrim flights were diverted to Lagos.

Strikes By Teachers Continuing

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A marathon bargaining session between representatives of the Chicago Teachers Union, the school board and Mayor Richard J. Daley broke off without a settlement today.

Strikes also continued today in Philadelphia, St. Louis, Mo., and Superior, Wis.

A closed session between Daley and representatives of both sides of the Chicago teachers' dispute ended at 6:40 a.m. EST after nearly eight hours with no settlement being reached. No time or date for future negotiations was set.

"It's a sad day for the city of Chicago and the school children when the two sides, so close, couldn't resolve this problem," Daley said after the negotiations ended.

The union and the school board reportedly reached agreement on two of four major contract issues in the marathon session—a 2.5 per cent pay raise for teachers retroactive to Jan. 1 and expansion of minimum class size provisions to all elementary schools. The issues of a shorter school year and more duty-free preparation time for teachers remained unsettled.

All of St. Louis' high schools were closed today as the teachers' strike entered its second day, but about 130 elementary schools were expected to be kept open.

St. Louis teachers defied a court order barring the walkout when they struck Monday. An injunction was later issued in St. Louis Circuit Court prohibiting picketing by the teachers.

The strike by 13,000 Philadelphia teachers dragged into its third week and union lawyer Leonard Sagot said Monday that the school board's "indifference" and the "solidarity" of the teachers could prolong the strike well into the spring.

Dollar Takes Plunge On European Markets

LONDON (UPI) — The Swiss National Bank today suspended its support for the dollar, sending the value of the dollar plummeting on Europe's foreign exchange markets..

In Bern the Swiss National Bank refused to buy dollars to keep their value from plunging against the powerful Swiss franc. The bank said the move was prompted by a "huge" influx of dollars into Switzerland Monday.

The bank said the Swiss franc will be free to seek its own level against the dollar, thus joining the Italian lira, which was allowed Saturday to "float" free of restricted exchange rates against the American currency.

Restricted exchange rates mean that when private speculators are unwilling to pay a minimum amount of foreign currency for the dollar, national banks step in to keep the price of the dollar at its minimum.

In heavy early morning trading, the dollar dropped to 43.90 Belgian francs in Brussels in unrestricted, commercial exchange dealings, compared with Monday's closing rate of 44.245 francs.

In what West German bankers described as "hectic" exchange dealing, the dollar dipped to 3.1750 marks in commercial trading, against the Monday's closing quotation of 3.1930 marks.

At one point in London the dollar dipped to 2.3620 to the pound, against Monday's 2.3575 closing rate—an effective 9 per cent devaluation since the so-called December, 1971, Smithsonian Agreement in Washington which fixed new international exchanges rates.

In Paris the dollar dropped to 5.05 francs on the free money market compared with Monday's 5.09 closing rate. French bankers attributed the drop to the Swiss refusal to support the dollar.

"It appears to be another European speculative attack on the dollar," a French banking source said.

In Rome Italian bankers said the decision to float the lira was taken to stem the flow of capital from the strike-ridden country and not to undermine the dollar. But Swiss bankers said the move failed to prevent a flood of hundreds of millions of dollars to Switzerland Monday.

In Paris, deputies of the Committee of 20 on reform of the world's monetary system began three days of talks today on the role of reserve assets and converibility of currencies.

But a spokesman said it was unlikely they would discuss the floating of the Swiss franc.

The Committee of 20 consists of the world's chief financial and trading powers. It includes representatives from both developing and industrial nations.

Man, 29, Kills Five, Then Himself In Topeka

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — A 29-year-old man went beserk last night, storming through a dingy riverfront neighborhood killing his boarding house landlady and four other persons with shotgun blasts. Police said they may never know why he did it.

The gunman became the sixth victim of the melee when he broke into a home, sat down on a couch, turned the 16-gauge shotgun to his head and pulled the trigger.

The victims included the 55-year-old landlady, her daughter and an elderly man thought to be another boarder in the home where the gunman lived. Several houses down the street, a woman watching television and a middle-aged man were killed.

The body of the last man was found four hours after the incident by a neighborhood woman who was sorting through clothes in the closet of the house. Police said the victim had apparently tried to hide in the closet, but was spotted and shot as he crouched beneath the clothes.

"He tried to hide," said Detective Leonard Ashworth. "He just didn't hide good enough."

Police said all the victims were black, including the gunman, identified as Ronald G. Jordan, believed originally from Denver.

One woman was wounded at the second home, but she was in serious condition and under intensive care at a Topeka hospital. A hospital spokesman said her condition had "stabilized nicely" eraly today.

"We're having a hard time tracking down anyone who saw this thing happen," said Lt. Milton Johnson. "Most of them (witnesses) are dead, and the woman who survived is in intensive care.

"Even if she lives, it's hard to say if we can determine a motive or not. We're still working on it. You always hope for witnesses, but you never know."

Police said the killings were the worst mass murder in Kansas in at least three decades. The last sensational case was the murders of four members of the Herbert Clutter family in the late 1950s, chronicled by author Truman Capote in the book, "In Cold Blood."

Early reports indicated that Jordan, who police described as having a small criminal ecord primarily for "strong arm robbery," indiscriminately knocked on doors in the neighborhood and shot whomever appeared. Jordan apparently knew all of the victims he killed.

The bizarre attacks occurred in a mostly black neighborhood across the Kansas River from the Topeka business district. The one and two-story frame homes, located in the shadows of a river viaduct, were within sight of the dome of the Kansas Capitol.

The injured witness was identified as Darlene McCray, 40.

The dead were Mrs. Jessie Mae Avery, 55, the landlady; Pearl Avery, 31, her daughter, and Oscar Maddox, 63. Two doors away was Lucille Cowans, 52, and Herbert Gatewood, described as in his early 40s. Gatewood by ducking onto the closet apparently was the only person who tried to escape Jordan.

U.S. Planes Out In Force in Saigon Aid

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. jets flew their heaviest strikes in five months today in support of South Vietnamese forces while North Vietnam accused the allies of "stepping up the war and terror in South Vietnam."

The jets, U.S. military authorities said, flew 374 one-plane strikes in South Vietnam. This was one fewer than the 375 sorties flown Aug. 22.

B52 bombers, authorities said, flew about another 27 missions of three planes each.

Meanwhile, North Vietnam's official Vietnam News Agency quoted the Communist newspaper Nhan Dan as calling for the "checking of the hands of the war maniacs, who are stepping up the war and terror in South Vietnam."

"The Saigon army, with the support of U.S. air and naval forces, have made one nibbling attack after another on the liberated zone in the past few months."

In North Vietnamese terminology, "liberated zone" refers to Communist-held territory in South Vietnam, particularly territory overrun since last year's Easter Offensive.

With a cease-fire reportedly fast approaching, South Vietnam's second city, Da Nang, went on alert today as part of a reported nationwide move to thwart any Communist territorial grab ahead of a truce. Security guards at the big allied air base put on helmets and flak jackets.

A "grey" alert was on for the 5,000 American servicemen in the Da Nang area, most of them stationed on the base. No traveling in town was permitted except on business, UPI Correspondent Alan Dawson reported.

Dawson said there were unconfirmed reports that Da Nang, a city of 472,000, might be subjected to a 24-hour "practice" curfew in preparation for a cease-fire.

There have been widespread reports, so far without any official announcements, that most South Vietnamese cities will go on round-the-clock curfew for the first few days of any cease-fire, the better for government forces to stop any infiltration of Communist troops into government-held territory.

One sign that a cease-fire was not imminent was that although fighting has stepped up this week there has as yet been no all-out surge by both sides. The theory is that they will try to seize as much territory as possible just before a cease-fire takes effect so there will be no time for counterattacks.

In six clashes Monday around Quang, South Vietnamese paratroops reported killing 64 North Vietnamese soldiers at a cost of three killed and five wounded.

In the Saigon area a Viet Cong unit tried to infiltrate a hamlet 16 miles from the capital Monday night. Government militiamen intercepted the Communists and killed one of them. One militiaman also died in the skirmish, military sources said.

Praise, Outcries To Ruling On Abortions

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A Supreme Court decision that allows abortions on demand in early stages of pregnancy is being applauded by women's rights advocates but criticized by Roman Catholic churchmen as a "tragedy" and "catastrophe" for the nation.

By a 7-2 vote, the Supreme Court Monday struck down state laws that prohibit abortions during the first three months of a pregnancy. That decision, the court ruled, is up to the woman and her physician.

During the second three months, or until a fetus has reached a stage of "viability" —when it could be born and live—the state may regulate but not forbid an abortion. The decision allows states to regulate the conditions of abortion, such as who may perform them and what kinds of facilities should be required.

After this "viability" stage—reached at 6 or 7 months—a state may forbid abortions except "when it is necessary to preserve the health or life or the mother."

The majority ruling, by Justice Harry A. Blackmun, held that rights of personal property under the 14th Amemdment are "broad enough to encompass a woman's decision whether or not to terminate her pregnancy."

The decision will sharply alter the application of antiabortion laws of 46 states. It held unconstitutional—as applied—a Texas law limiting abortions to cases where the mother's life was at stake and a Georgia law allowing three grounds for abortion, one of them cases of rape. Twenty-nine other states have laws similar to Texas' and 15 others have laws similar to Georgia's.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said, "This is an historic and giant step toward the recognition of the rights of women to control their own bodies and to have abortions by choice under the constitutional right to privacy."

She said the "next step" must be enactment of a national law prohibiting any restriction on abortion at any time.

Wilma Scott Heidi, president of the National Organization of Women (NOW), said most of the decision was "good" but that it should have given the woman the right to decide rather than her doctor. She said the decision should not have allowed states to limit abortion practitioners to doctors, adding "We think paraprofessionals can do it."

Cardinal John Krol of Philadelphia, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, said the decision "is an unspeakable tragedy for this nation."

"It is hard to think of any decision in the 200 years of our history which has had more disastrous implications for our stability as a civilized society ... The child in the womb has the right to life it already possesses, and this is a right no court has authority to deny," Cardinal Krol said.

Cardinal Patrick O'Boyle of Washington, D.C., called the decision a "catastrophe for America." He said the Supreme Court had apparently "embraced a policy of death" and had written "another Dred Scott Decision." In the 1857 Dred Scott case, the court held that a Black slave was not a "person" having constitutional rights. In Monday's case, O'Boyle said, the court held that an unborn child is not such a person.

Groups In Marin Split On Decision

Two Marin groups were critical today, although for markedly different reasons, of the U.S. Supreme Court decision nullifying state laws against abortions in early pregnancy.

The Marin Chapter of the National Organization of Women, a pro-abortion group, contends the ruling still imposes heavy state interference on the right of a woman to control her own reproductive life in the time beyond three months.

A Now spokesman questioned the constitutionality of such interference by the state in a person's life and called for repeal of all legal restrictions of abortion. Termination, the group said, should be regulated only by the same business and professional code provisions that cover other medical procedures to insure safety, cleanliness and competence in performance of such procedures.

Anti-abortion forces, represented by the Marin Chapter of Voice for the Unborn, contended that the decision placed "cheap" regard on human life.

"The decision for life and death should not be in the hands of one individual, whether they be a doctor or a mother," said president Marie DePizzol of San Rafael.

"This is a black day for American justice," she said. "I think the American people expected more from the Supreme Court than to regard human life so cheaply."

The group plans to increase efforts in education on abortion and in instituting new court cases on behalf of the unborn child, she said.

Homeowner Unit Elects Officers

Herbert B. Marsh of 23 Capilano Drive, retired vice president of North American Reassurance Co., has been elected president of the Marin Country Club Estates Homeowners Association in Novato for 1973.

Marsh, who served as a director during the past year, will succeed William R. Bills.

Robert G. Lyons was elected vice president; Marie Perry, secretary, and Esther Schimbor, treasurer.

James G. Bartley was named District 3 director and Col. Paul H. Dane as District 4 director.

Membership chairman Laurence Kett reported membership at a record 274 families.

Installation Set

Alfred Rivasplata will be installed as president of the North Marin Federation at the group's annual dinner dance at the Alvarado Inn, Ignacio, at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Records Act Compliance Is Sought

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring 25 state and local agencies to comply with the California Public Records Act was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William C. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The 1970 act by Bagley required public agencies to designate their public records and adopt procedures for their public release.

Despite the passage of two years, Bagley said, public agencies have done virtually nothing to comply with the act.

Until public agencies decide what records are public or confidential, "the average citizen is helpless to dislodge records of interest to him. Too often he encounters a resistant bureaucracy and just gives up," Bagley said.

The bill requires the agencies to formulate their public records regulations by July 1, 1974, and to furnish a copy of the regulations to any interested person.

Among the 25 specified agencies were the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, Golden Gate Bridge District and the new statewide Coast Commission.

Bagley said that the public records act was meaningless "unless we give it the teeth necessary to be a benefit to everyone."

Talks Begin

LONDON (UPI) — East German and British officials today began talks on the establishment of diplomatic relations. The talks were scheduled to last two days and are preliminary exchanges, which will be followed by further talks in London and East Berlin, officials said.

Welfare Cheat Given Four Months In Jail

A San Rafael mother of five, who defrauded Marin County of $4,438 in welfare payments, was ordered by a Marin Superior Court judge yesterday to spend four months in jail and repay the money.

After extensive arguments that 32-year-old Virgie Simmons should not be jailed because of the effect on her family, Judge E. Warren McGuire was unswayed.

"This is one of those violations in which everyone is concerned about the defendant," he said. Claiming aid recipients might be "quite willing" to trade a short jail term for illegal grants, McGuire said he was most concerned about deterring others.

"My concern is that people who are taking aid fraudulently are taking it from those who need it," he said.

Nevertheless, the judge made one concession. He told her she could serve the time on weekends or do five days a week with weekends off to keep her family together.

He also placed Mrs. Simmons, also known as Virgie Rubit, on probation for five years.

A Marin Superior Court jury convicted the San Rafael woman Dec. 20 after hearing evidence that her 1971 income exceeded $20,000, part of which went to buy an $8,400 Chrysler.

She was charged with welfare fraud last March after an investigation determined she had been overpaid more than $4,000 during a 14-month span ending last January.

Her known income was $205 a month from Social Security, $59 veterans' benefits because of a late husband who was in the Navy, $405 a month in welfare, support for three of her children from their fathers and her salary as a clerk at the San Rafael Post Office.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams said she grossly understated her income to receive unentitled aid, but was eligible for $1,400 during the 14 months.

Trio Arrested On Suspicion Of Burglary

San Rafael police arrested three men from New England on suspicion of burglary and conspiracy yesterday after a resident on Aqua Vista Drive reported seeing a man in a multicolored hat trying to break into her home.

Booked into Marin County Jail and held on $10,000 bail each to appear today in Marin Municipal Court were Francis David Beaulieu, 23, of Westerly, R.I.; John Woodrow Franklin, 25, of Hope Valley, R.I., and George Smith, 23, of North Stonington, Conn.

Officers said Virginia E. Buckley of 4 Aqua Vista Drive saw a man climb her backyard fence and pull a window open, then flee when he saw her watching, according to police. Police arrested the trio nearby.

Tribute Paid

Coordination On Water Is Sought

Faced with the possibility that home construction will outpace the ability to deliver water, the Novato City Council and North Marin County Water District board today sought coordination.

John O. Nelson, water district manager, said because of delivery problems, especially at times of peak use, the district would be hard pressed to meet the needs of subdivisions approved or about to be approved by the city.

Water district directors sounded out the city on the possibility of a slowdown on issuing building permits, but Councilman Fred F. Ruegg said it was the responsibility of the water district to deny hookups if there was a shortage.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said the city doesn't issue building permits unless water is available.

The district has a contract for 10,000 acre feet of Russian River water annually, but needs a new pipeline to deliver that amount, Nelson reported.

Nelson said he would have data on building and water supply ready by the Feb. 6 water board meeting. Then, he said, directors could determine whether there was a "condition of threatened supply" which could lead to a denial of hookups.

The council and the water board referred the water supply and building coordination problem to Nelson and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown and agreed to meet again in about 30 days.

The council will hold a closed meeting at 5 p.m. today with City Atty. Clark Palmer on pending litigation, according to Sartain.

Administrative Pay Hikes Are Announced

Trustees of the Mill Valley School District last night set administrative salaries for 1972-73, granting raises to administrators ranging from $600 to $2,00 a year.

The raises will be retroactive to July 1 of last year, according to Patsy Whie, district secretary.

The board gave Supt. James A. Collins, who plans a return to teaching soon, a $1,200 annual salary hike from $24,000 to $25,200, she said.

Receiving $20,000 raises were Dr. Delmo Della-Dora, Middle School principal, and Carrol D. Killingsworth, director of business services. The increase will bring both men's wages to $22,000 a year, Mrs. White said Betty Grimm, special administrator assistant, received a $600 hike, bringing her salary to $19,500.

The district's seven elementary school principals each received a $900-a-year raise, bringing their salary range from $1,8,600 to $19,800.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

MEETING — Set a special meeting for 7:45 p.m. Thursday in Old Mill School to consider appointment of two additional consultants to the district's advisory team on the selection of a Collins's replacement. Dr. James W. Guthrie, associate professor at the University of California School of Education at Berkeley, already has been named to the panel. To be considered for appointment at the meeting are Dr. Ralph Keller, director of placement services at Stanford University, and Dr. William Cowan, professor of educational administration at California State University, San Francisco.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Kyra Janssen as a temporary teacher for the fifth grade.

Nation Is Saddened By Johnson's Death

completely closed through the ravages of heart disease.

Johnson, as President, escalated what now has become the longest war in American history. He was stricken just days before an expected peace settlement that would end the war that divided the nation he wanted so much to unite and promote through far-reaching social programs..

"He was pacing himself to the point where he had two work days —one in the morning and one in the afternoon," said a family spokesman of the routine which Johnson followed to the end. "He would take his afternoon nap and then begin the second work session. He had just had lunch and retired for his nap."

Johnson called the ranch switchboard at 3:50 p.m. CST Monday asking for help. Two minutes later, Secret Service agents rushed into his room and found him on the floor beside his bed. He was pronounced dead 41 minutes later on arrival at San Antonio, where he was rushed by private airplane.

"I found a great deal of courage running through the family," said Tom Johnson today. "I found sturdiness and a great deal of compassion..."

Mrs. Johnson was notified of her husband's attack by two-way radio in her car a block from the LBJ Library in Austin, 60 miles from the ranch. She was flown by helicopter to San Antonio's Brooke Army Medical Center, arriving at the same time as the airplane bearing Johnson's body.

It was criticism of the Vietnam War that prompted Johnson to decide in 1968 to leave the White House instead of seeking a second full term. The conflict abroad marred his battle at home against poverty and prejudice through his "Great Society" programs.

Johnson was thrust into the presidency with the assassination of John F. Kennedy in a Dallas motorcade Nov. 22, 1963. He was elected to a full term the following year in a landslide over Sen. Barry M. Goldwater. It was the largest popular plurality vote in presidential history.

Johnson's body will lie in state at the LBJ Library from noon CST until 8 a.m. Wednesday, with a full military honor guard and various members of his former staff "at his side as they were in his years of public life," a family spokesman said.

Johnson's two daughters, Luci Nugent and Lynda Robb, rushed to the LBJ Ranch in the central Texas hill country where Johnson was reared to plan his funeral. The family cemetery is near his boyhood home on the ranch.

Mrs. Robb flew to Texas from Charlottesville, Va., where her husband Charles is a law student at the University of Virginia. Mrs. Nugent lives in Austin with her husband Pat.

An Army spokesman at Brooke said Johnson died of coronary thrombosis. It was his fourth heart attack.

"President Johnson had severe coronary artery disease with complete occlusion of two of the three major arterial supplies to the heart," a family spokesman quoted doctors as saying. "The third major artery was about 60 per cent occluded."

Johnson, a poor boy who worked on a road gang as a young man, became a millionaire and, as President, put the nation into the business of warring on poverty. His dream was a "Great Society" of prosperous Americans living in peace and justice.

"To President Johnson, the 'American dream' was not a catch phrase—it was a reality of his own life," said President Nixon, who succeeded Johnson in the White House. "He believed in America—in what America could mean to all of its citizens and what America could mean to the world."

Johnson suffered his first heart attack in 1955 when he was Senate majority leader. He was 47 and it took him six months to recover. He called it "as bad as a man can have and still recover." He suffered subsequent attacks in 1970 and last April.

Civl rights leaders said Johnson did more for blacks than any American president since Abraham Lincoln. Nevertheless, his administration was marked by Negro unrest and racial resentment in the ghettos of the nation's cities.

In addition, antiwar critics cried out against Johnson's escalation of the war in Indochina.

It was the war and his weakening health that led to Johnson's dramatic announcement March, 31, 1968, that he would not seek re-election. He said his withdrawal from presidential politics was a "desperate" attempt to show the North Vietnamese that the United States was willing to work out a peace settlement.

The war continued until his death. On the day Johnson died, Nixon's chief negotiator, Henry A. Kissinger, flew to Paris, possibly to initial a Vietnam peace pact before the week was out.

Johnson's failure to end the war was his biggest personal disappointment.

"My hopes have faded away, and my dreams have not been realized," he said after he left office. "I deeply regret it, but I was constantly trying, just as I tried on many other causes that have failed."

But Johnson's "Great Society" programs that were successful included the strongest Civil rights law since Reconstruction, Medicare — health care for the aged—and the War on Poverty.

"Lyndon Johnson did more to advance public support for education and civil justice than any president in American history," said Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who ran with LBJ's support against Nixon last November.

"With the exception of Lincoln, who freed the slaves, no single president contributed as much to the cause of racial equality as did Lyndon Johnson," said civil rights leaders Bayard Rustin and A. Phillip Randolph in a joint statement.

Johnson, 6-3 and 200 pounds, often bragged of his formula for success: "Hard work."

After his exit from public life, he retired on his LBJ Ranch in the tree-covered hillls of central Texas along the Pedernales River, were he and his wife Lady Bird tended to their cattle, made a few public appearances, and enjoyed their free time away from the pressures of politics. He was a millionaire several times over.

Johnson's last public speech was Dec. 12 when he addressed a symposium at the LBJ Library on the University of Texas campus to mark the public opening of his presidential papers on civil rights. Johnson made the 30-minute address against the wishes of his doctors. He spoke slowly, appeared tired and swallowed pills to ease his pain.

His last public appearance was Saturday when he attended an Arbor Day tree-planting ceremony near the LBJ Ranch with Lady Bird, who became an avid conservationist while First Lady.

East Bay Crash Fatal To Novatan

Dewey Staggs, 64, of Novato, was fatally injured in Oakland yesterday when his truck struck a freeway pillar after a collision with an auto, according to the Alameda County coroner's office.

Staggs's truck collided with a car at Cypress and West Grand avenues at 2:30 p.m., continued about 150 feet and hit the pillar, the coroner's office reported.

He was taken to Providence Hospital where he died at 4:30 p.m.

Staggs, operator of a Novato auto wrecking yard at 310 Deer Island Lane, lived at 27 Palm Lane.

He was a native of Texas and had lived in Novato 12 years.

Surviving are his wife, Opal, of Novato; four sons, Boyd Staggs and J. D. Judge Takes Stand At Magee Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A crippled judge described unemotionally yesterday the bloody shootout that left four men dead inside a van at Marin County courthouse in 1970.

And a rapt Ruchell Magee — the "other defendant" in the Angela Davis case — listened quietly for the first time at his eight-week-old murder trial.

Gary Thomas — crippled for life by a bullet from a lawman's gun — was an assistant district attorney at the time of the gun battle. He testified from a wheelchair that Magee held the shotgun that killed Judge Harold J. Haley in the back of the van.

After the shooting started, "I turned my head and looked at Judge Haley," Thomas said. "I saw his face, Then an instant later I saw his face slowly dissolve away — as if in slow motion."

Thomas — appointed later to the bench — said the sawed-off shotgun that killed Haley was held by Magee.

"Did he fire it?" asked prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr.

"All I know is it was in his hand and it went off," Thomas replied.

Magee is charged with killing Haley and with kidnaping the judge, Thomas and three women jurors in an abortive escape attempt. Magee was wounded and two convicts and a teen-age accomplice died.

Magee had been tossed out of court for outbursts during every previous session of the two-month trial. But he sat quietly through yesterday's testimony — never taking his eyes from Thomas.

Black revolutionary Angela Davis was accused of helping plot the escape and furnishing the guns. She was charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy, but an all-white jury found her innocent of all charges. Thomas also testified at her trial.

He told the jury yesterday that Magee shouted: "Let's kill 'em all now," before the shooting started. Convict James McCalin responded: "Let's cool it, keep your cool, everything's cool."

Slain Man Resided In Belvedere

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Police have identified a young man found shot to death yesterday as a resident of Belvedere, and not of Mill Valley.

Officers said Jeffrey Simon, 26, lived at 330 Bella Vista, although no listing was found for him at that address.

Simon, a bullet through his head, was found early yesterday in front of a home at 55 Fairmount Avenue.

A Hastings College of Law student, 23-year-old Robert Prudhomme, of 77 Fairmount Avenue, was arrested at his home on suspicion of murder after police acted on in police acted on information provided by neighbors.

Officers said they found a 1972 student body card from the College of Marin in Simon's pocket, as well as a card that showed him to be a current student at the University of Oklahoma.

College of Marin officials said they have no record that Simon was ever enrolled there, however.

Sanitary Board Vacancy Is Filled

Ture Dahlstrom has been appointed to the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board, replacing Cyril G. Hansen, who resigned because he is leaving the area.

Board president George F. Carney said Dahlstrom was chosen by district directors last night.

STATE

assassination of President Kennedy.

Political leaders in the state called the powerful Texan a skilled legislator and a dedicated American.

Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, a Republican who served in Congress when Johnson was president, said: "In the area of legislation to solve domestic problems, he certain has to be classed as one of our greatest presidents. Few others showed the concern for the poor and for minority groups that Lyndon Johnson showed during his presidency."

Former Assembly Speaker Jess Unruh, who was Johnson's 1964 Southern California campaign co-chairman and now is running for mayor of Los Angeles, said: "I remember President Johnson as a longtime friend and although I differed with him on the Vietnam War, I respected his opinion. He laid down his political life for it."

Referring to the recent death of former President Harry S Truman, Unruh added: "It makes one feel somewhat leaderless with no ex-presidents on the scene. I wish we would have had more time with both of them."

State Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, the first black man ever to serve in the California Senate, said: "His contribution to the cause of civil rights will be long remembered by Americans of all races and creeds."

State Senate Democratic Leader George Moscone of San Francisco said Johnson's record "on civil rights was unexcelled by any American president. Any disagreement that any of us had with his policies in Vietnam was overshadowed by his civil rights record."

Assembly Democratic Leader Jack R. Fenton of Montebello called Johnson "one of the finest congressional leaders and most effective chief executives this country has ever seen in action. Only history will demonstrate the import of his 'Great Society'."

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, a Democrat, said Johnson's "many achievements in office have been overshadowed because of the war he inherited and which tormented him as president."

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, also a Democrat, said the Johnson administration "will go down as one of the best on domestic programs. No administration had a stronger, more progressive record of social reform."

Airman Is Sentenced On Charge

An Air Force staff sergeant was ordered yesterday to serve 90 days in jail and pay a $302 fine on a charge of felony drunken driving.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Andrew Leonard Sarabyn of Hamilton Air Force Base on probation for four years and ordered him to seek treatment for alcoholism.

The judge also ordered Sarabyn to pay any judgment against him in a pending $250,000 civil suit filed by a San Rafael woman hurt when his car collided with hers near Novato Sept. 23.

Injured in the head-on collision on Highway 101, south of the city was 20-year-old Denise Lee Saling. She was hospitalized with what the hospital described as head injuries and multiple fractures.

Sarabyn, who reportedly started drinking heavily while stationed in Vietnam in 1967, pleaded no contest to the felony charge in November.

Volcano Erupts, Splitting Island

VESTMANNAEYJAR, Westman Island (UPI) — This tiny island practically burst in two early today when the slumbering Helgafjell volcano erupted, sending the 5,200 inhabitants fleeing in panic.

The volcano, which has been dormant since the Vikings landed on the island in 864, erupted sporadically during the night but then came to life shortly after midnight.

Reporter Tells Of LBJ Years

EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI Correspondent Helen Thomas covered the White House from the time Lyndon Johnson moved into it in 1963 until he left it in January, 1969. In this dispatch she gives her observations of the 36th President and incorporates some of those of her colleague, the late UPI Reporter Merriman Smith.

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "God knows the last thing I wanted was to become President in this way."

The words were those of Lyndon B. Johnson and were spoken in the grim late afternoon of Nov. 22, 1963, as Air Force One carried the new President back to Washington from Dallas. The corpse of John F. Kennedy was in the rear of the plane, surrounded by numbed assistants, and Kennedy's widow, Jacqueline, sat in a small bedroom nearby in white-faced shock, her husband's blood splattered on the hem of her pink suit.

To those who saw Lyndon Johnson at that hour, he was everything a leader should be under great emotional stress—calm, deliberate, considerate. To UPI Reporter Merriman Smith he was "as realistic as an ice pick."

At one point, Johnson stopped to talk to two pool reporters and swore a fiercely determined oath, punching a big right forefinger into one reporter's chest to make his point:

"... I'll tell you one thing now that I am Presidnt and with God's help, you're going to live long enough to write that I was the best President this country ever had ... because I'm going to try like hell—I'm going to try so hard that you'll be forced to write something like that!" Johnson said.

Only the perspective of history can make a judgement of Johnson as President. But when he left the White House five years and three months later, the war in Vietnam had become his albatross. The country was divided, his supporters were alienated, and he was lonely and isolated, a prisoner in his office.

Reporters who followed Johnson's tenure in the White House saw him as emotional, demanding, sensitive, insecure. He was always afraid he was not big enough for the job. He stood in awe of the office. Sometimes he would say in wonderment, "there have been only 36 of us."

He was also a man who needed people. He described the White House as the "lonely acres." Sometimes he would stroll to the gates and put his hands through to shake hands with awed spectators.

Memories of him tend to flood at a solemn time such as this.

—There was that afternoon on the lawn of Bethesda Naval Hospital when he pulled up his flappy sports shirt to show photographers the incision of his gall bladder operation. There was a public flap over this display, but he later told a reporter he did it to stop gossip that he had cancer.

—He was courageous. At the end of his wife's whistle stop tour through the South during the 1964 campaign, he met up with her in New Orleans and berated the crowd to stop saying: "Nigger, niggery, nigger."

—He was a brilliant political strategist who knew how to arm twist President Kennedy's domestic program through Congress when the country was unified in his grief. But he looked back in longing at his own days as Senate majority leader. "I never had a vote cast against me," he said.

In Johnson City, Tex., he resurrected his boyhood home as a national landmark and filled it with family memorabilia and nostalgia of his childhood days. Sometimes he would drive his Lincoln convertible to the site just to watch tourists going through the white frame cottage.

Sensitive as he was, Johnson was always determined to know what the country was saying. He had three news tickers installed in his oval office and he read newspapers avidly. He had his night reading and morning reading, but he rarely slept a night through. —Each escalation of the war was torment. Once when his daughter, Luci, returned to the White House from a date at midnight, she found her father distraught. He had ordered the bombing of the oil dumps at Haiphong. "Your daddy may have started World War III," he told her. Luci, a recent Roman Catholic convert, took her father to a nearby church where priests opened the doors at midnight for the President to kneel and pray.

He was a man besieged by protesters. "Hey, Hey LBJ, how many kids did you kill today?" were the angry chants heard when he and his family were in public.

He was constantly in touch with the 24-hour situation room in the White House, inquiring about the fliers—who had made it and who had not.

He liked to operate in total secrecy and spring surprises. He would cancel an appointment with reporters if the news broke before he could announce it. He never wanted to say when he was leaving Washington and when he was returning for fear that reporters would write that he had "canceled" a trip, starting rumors that a crisis had arisen.

He kept his sense of humor. "That will be one of the things ... to be sick on our own time," Johnson said of his retirement. "It is a burden when you think of being sick on 200 million people's time."

Johnson electrified the world with his announcement March 31, 1968, that he would not seek re-election. Later he invited reporters up to the family quarters where he had donned a high collared sports shirt and was spooning up chocolate pudding. Was it irrevocable, he was asked.

"Irrevocable," he said.

On the presidential jet going home to Texas after 38 years in public life, Johnson told two wire service reporters:

"I felt differently within four seconds after I heard the oath," when Richard M. Nixon was sworn in.

"I feel for him and know what he's going to be facing up to," he went on. "As for myself," said Johnson, "I don't have to be concerned about everything that happens now. The responsibility is somewhere else. It's a great relief. We're so thankful. So many things happened. We just hope good things will heppen to Mr. Nixon."

He had always lived to the optimum of his energy and ability. With his eyes always on history, he was confident that his policies and actions would be vindicated, if not now, then later.

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1973 with 342 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

American patriot John Hancock was born Jan. 23, 1737.

On this day in history:

In 1845, Congress ruled that all national elections shall take place on the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November.

In 1937, 27 Communists confessed they had conspired with Leon Trotsky to undermine the regime of Josef Stalin.

In 1948, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said he would not accept a presidential nomination from either party. He ran on the Republican ticket in 1952 and became the 34th U.S. president.

In 1969, a tornado killed 29 persons and left hundreds injured in Hazlehurst, Miss.

A thought for the day: American author James Fields said, "How sweet and gracious, even in common speech, is that fine sense which men call courtesy."

Planners Turn Down Novato Apartments

The Novato Planning Commission denied plans for 224 apartment units on San Marin Drive west of San Ramon Way last night because the density was too high.

Exmoor Land Co. had submitted plans for the apartments on 20 acres of land near San Marin High School.

In another matter, commissioners set a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Community House to review plans prepared by the late John Kenney for a community of 2,300 dwelling units on 700 acres, south of Highway 37 in the Black Point area.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

VALLEY OAKS — Approved a master plan by Kaehler-Timmer Development Co. for 88 single family homes on 19.9 acres of a 42.3 acre parcel, leaving the balance in open space on the south side of Olive Avenue opposite Rita Court.

APPEAL — Denied once more a request by International Concrete System Consultants Inc. for 83 apartment units on the east side of Diablo Avenue, south of Warner Creek. The commission previously had turned down the request but the firm appealed to the city council, which asked the commission t reconsider.

Administrative Pay Hikes Are Announced

Trustees of the Mill Valley School District last night set administrative salaries for 1972-73, granting raises to administrators ranging from $600 to $2,000 a year.

The raises will be retroactive to July 1 of last year, according to Patsy White, district secretary.

The board gave Supt. James A. Collins, who plans a return to teaching soon, a $1,200 annual salary hike from $24,000 to $25,200, she said.

Receiving $2,000 raises were Dr. Delmo Della-Dora, Middle School principal, and Carrol D. Killingsworth, director of business services. The increase will bring both men's wages to $22,000 a year, Mrs. White said.

Betty Grimm, special administrator assistant, received a $600 hike, bringing her salary to $19,500.

The district's seven elementary school principals each received a $900-a-year raise, bringing their salary range from $18,600 to $19,800.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

MEETING — Set a special meeting for 7:45 p.m. Thursday in Old Mill School to consider appointment of two additional consultants to the district's advisory team on the selection of Collins's replacement. Dr. James W. Guthrie, associate professor at the University of California School of Education at Berkeley, already has been named to the panel. To be considered for appointment at the meeting are Dr. Ralph Keller, director of placement services at Stanford University, and Dr. William Cowan, professor of educational administration at California State University, San Francisco.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Kyra Janssen as a temporary teacher for the fifth grade.

A Teacher Lottey Is Scheduled

The Kentfield School District board last night said it will hold a reduction-in-force lottery for teachers hired since Sept. 1, 1970.

The lottery will be held on Jan. 31 at 3:30 p.m. in the district office.

Reduced enrollment in the district's schools indicates that two out of 66 teachers may have to be laid off in the 1973-74 school year.

Interim Supt. Byron W. Mauzy said two board members whose terms expire this year — Richard B. Ellis and De Witt K. MacDonald Jr., — announced that they do not intend to seek reelection April 17.

The third trustee whose term expires, Gloria Riccardi, already has filed her candidacy.

The Kentfield School District board also:

SCREENING — Approved paying members of the screening committee for a new superintendent $75 each for screening applications, plus $50 for interviews; appointed Reginald Hammond, Fairfax School District superintendent, as chairman of the committee.

TEACHER — Hired Gloria Murray as a temporary sixth-grade teacher at Greenbrae School for the rest of the school year.

PROGRAM — Approved spending $450 from the research and development fund for Kent elementary school children to take part in the primary reading instruction.

GIFTED — Approved four members of the Academically Talented Task Force spending up o $100 to attend the annual conference of the California Association for the Gifted in San Francisco on Mar. 2 and 3.

OFFSET — Hired Debra Jahnke as a part-time temporary offset equipment operator in the district office, part of an experiment to see if all district printing can be centralized.

MEMORIAL — Heard from Mrs. Riccardi that a joint Parent-Teacher Association executive meeting had concurred in renaming Kent Junior High School in honor of the late Supt. Anthony G. Bacich. The faculty-inspired suggestion will be considered at a late board meeting.

WORKSHOP — Set a board policy workshop for Feb. 5 at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School.

Corte Madera Will Annex Development When Built

A 78-unit condominium development to be built on an island of county land in the middle of Corte Madera will be annexed to the town once it's constructed, the Corte Madera Board of Design heard last night.

A master plan for the eight-acre project was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission. The site is at 66 Tamal Vista Boulevard, opposite the Co-op Shopping Center. Developer is Johnny Ribiero of San Rafael.

Town zoning administrator William G. McBride said board members were told county officials required the developer to meet town standards.

The board approved the design of two park benches to be placed outside the Corte Madera Regional Library by the Corte Madera Woman's Improvement Club, and required that a fence to be constructed around a former car wash site at 5750 Paradise Drive by Big 4 Rents should feature six-foot trees at 15-foot intervals.

Rock Group Files $6 Million Suit

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — The rock group Three Dog Night has filed a $6 million lawsuit against a New York artists agency and brought a $3 million action against the same agency before the California Labor Commission, a spokesman for the group said today.

The action was filed in Superior Court against American Talent International Ltd., the spokesman said. The rock group alleged the agency falsely portrayed itself as representing Three Dog Night and wrongfully collected more than $132,000 in fees owed to the musicians. The agency represented them for only eight months, the musicians said.

Officers Chosen By Labor Council

The Marin County Labor Council has chosen officers for 1973.

Reelected were Charles Smith, president; Michael Pechina, vice president; Jerry Tuosto, recording secretary, and Charles Weers, secretary-treasurer.

William Schutt also has been elected to serve on the organizations board of directors, according to Weers.

One More Candidate Enters School Races

Only one new candidate has filed nomination papers since yesterday in the April 17 school board races in Marin, the county elections department reported today.

John D. Kassenbrock, a Novato dentist and former chairman of the city's parks and recreation commission, filed for one of three seats open on the Novato Unified School District board.

The 45-year-old Kassenbrock served for eight years on the commission, a post he left last month when he was not reappointed by the city council. He was chairman of the commission for two years.

He said he was running for a board seat because he wanted to be of continued service to the city. "With six children, I have a big stake in the board," he added.

Kassenbrock said he is a former president of a Southern California organization called MERCI, a group concerned with mentally and emotionally retarded children.

He is an eight-year resident of Novato and has dental offices on Grant Avenue. He lives with his wife, Mary Ann, at 35 Eames Court.

The terms of three trustees will expire in Novato on April 17, and none of the incumbents has yet filed for reelection. James E. Casassa of 11 Nina Drive and Thomas J. Cleary of 41 Taft Court have also filed papers.

Step Forward

HELSINKI (UPI) — Britain told preparatory talks for a European Security Conference today that a four-point Soviet agenda proposal presented on Monday was a "substantial step forward." British Ambassador Anthony Elliot was the first Western ambassador to comment directly on the Soviet proposal to the 34-nation preparatory talks.

Flood Victim Aid Will Be Discussed

The Novato Flood Control Zone Advisory Board will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Olive School to discuss relief and financial assistance available to flood victims.

Representatives of federal, state and local agencies will be present to provide information, according to Charles E. Murphy, Marin County flood control engineer.

Tanks Stolen

Acetylene and oxygen tanks valued at $400 were taken last Tuesday or Wednesday from a construction shed belonging to Withers and Wight Construction Contractors, sheriff's deputies said yesterday. The shed is located at 49 San Pablo Avenue in Santa Venetia.

CHANGED CIRCUMSTANCES — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson twice gained the presidency, the first time (right) aboard crowded Air Force One following the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas. Flanked by his wife, Lady Bird, and Jacqueline Kennedy, Johnson took the hastily arranged oath from Federal District Judge Sarah T. Hughes. A little more than a year later, in January 1965, he took the oath again on the Capitol steps as Mrs. Johnson watched intently. Two months earlier, he had swamped Arizona Sen. Barry M. Goldwater at the polls.

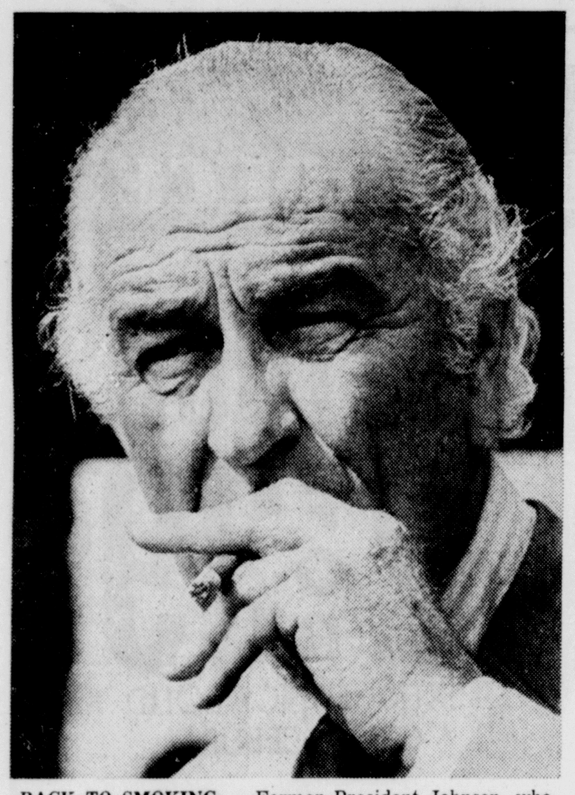
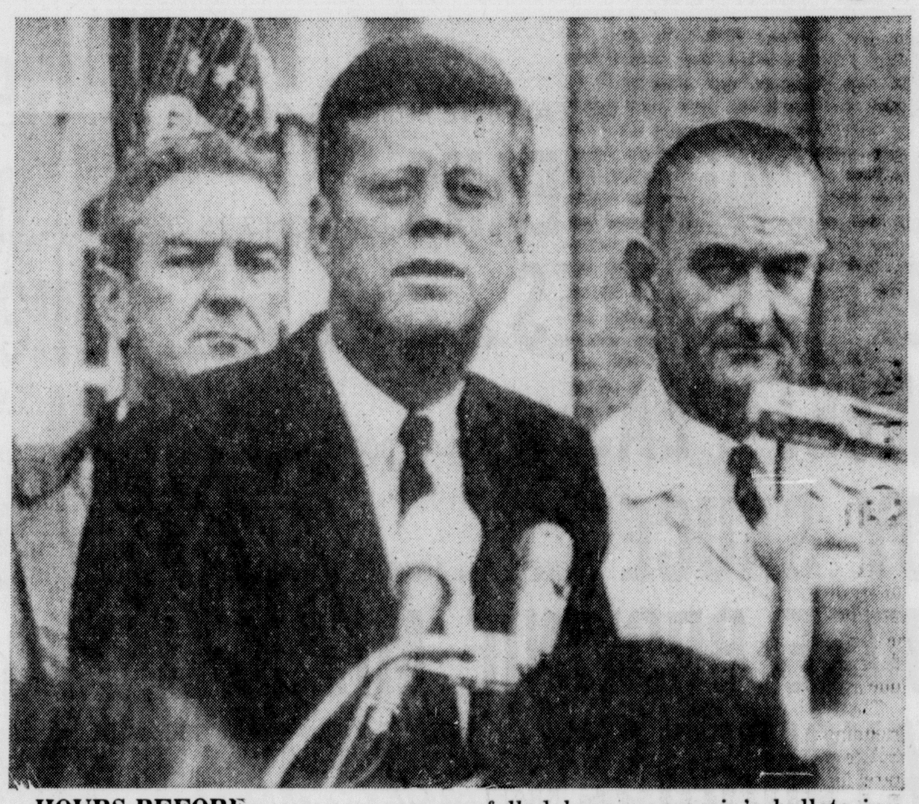
Lyndon B. Johnson: Moments In History



BACK TO SMOKING — Former President Johnson, who gave up smoking for several years on orders of his doctor, was caught by a photographer last April puffing on a cigar during informal opening of an exhibit of political cartoons at the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park in Stonewall, Tex.

JUST EIGHT DAYS AGO — Former President Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, leave the inauguration of Gov. Dolf Briscoe in Austin. The occasion last Tuesday was Johnson's last public appearance. He was stricken during an afternoon nap yesterday at the LBJ Ranch in central Texas.



HOURS BEFORE — Former President Johnson (right) listens as President Kennedy addresses a large crowd at Fort Worth, Tex., on Nov. 11, 1963. Hours later Kennedy was felled by an assassin's bullets in nearby Dallas and Johnson was sworn in as the nation's 36th chief executive. At Kennedy's left, John Connally, then governor of Texas.

PRESIDENTS CONFER — Shortly after undergoing abdominal and throat surgery in November 1966, former President Johnson met with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in his hospital suite in Bethesda, Md. The surgery, in part to correct difficulties arising from a gall bladder operation a year earlier, followed a Southeast Asian tour.

WITHIN A MONTH — The U.S. has lost its last two surviving presidents within a month. Former President Harry S. Truman is shown with then President Johnson receiving the nation's No. 1 Medicare card in ceremonies at Independence, Mo., in January 1966. Truman died Dec. 26. Johnson died yesterday.

Ridge Grading Rules Softened In Novato

The Novato City Council softened last night a hard-line general plan proposal to prohibit grading of ridges and knolls for development by voting to allow the practice if it is found not to be detrimental to the goals and policies of the city.

The vote was 4-1, with Councilman Fred F. Ruegg dissenting on grounds that he sees nothing wrong with the practice, known as "daylighting," in order to provide housing for people.

The strongest voice against such grading came from Councilman David Price Jones, who called it "a bad practice, period.

"My philosophy is that in a great majority of cases, we should leave the tops of scenic ridges and knolls alone," Jones said.

The debate, which came as the council resumed deliberations on a new community general plan, resulted in a compromise that expanded the daylighting issue from one to two proposed policy statements.

The first, introduced by Councilman George C. Quesada, allows the city to prohibit "excessive grading," particularly in canyon fills, side hill cuts and daylighting for development purposes.

Councilwoman Dorothy Young objected to the word "excessive" as ambiguous, but agreed to leave interpretation of the term up to the planning commission.

The second, initiated by Jones, stipulates that "the city shall not permit construction on scenic ridges and knolls unless appropriate findings can be made that to do so would promote and not be detrimental to the goals and policies of the city."

In relation to the development issue, the council voted that "the city may apply provisions such as lower density, larger setbacks or special design standards for any development adjoining unique land forms, creeks, marshes, the Petaluma River or San Pablo Bay."

Dealing with the proposed general plan's provisions for open space, the council voted 4-1 to approve and endorse the county's preliminary open space plan and acquisition program.

By an identical 4-1 vote, councilmen also approved a proposal that "the city give high priority to city acquisition of open space, since urban development as proposed by the countywide plan will cause intense development pressures on the acquisition of open space."

Ruegg cast the dissenting vote in both instances because "I believe the city has higher priorities than open space," he said.

The Novat City Council also:

HEIGHT — Referred back to the planning commission a general plan proposal to limit height of residential buildings to three stories for clarification on whether restrictions should be calculated by stories or by feet from ground level.

CONSERVATION — Unanimously approved a planning goal to recognize the environmental resources and enlighten the public of the advantages of conservation.

COLLEGES — Concurred with Marin Community College District policy to limit enrollment at Indian Valley Colleges to 5,000 students.

Leary Plans Challenge Of Courts

SANTA ANA (UPI) — Drug advocate Timothy Leary plans to challenge the authority of California courts to try him, on the grounds he was "hijacked" from Afghanistan by American agents.

Leary, 51, appeared in court Monday for the first time since he was returned to the United States Thursday in custody, 28 months after escaping from a California prison.

Leary told newsmen he had been "hijacked by a totalitarian government" from Kabul, where he was sighted by a U.S. narcotics agent.

California courts have no authority over Leary because he was "kidnaped from Afghanistan in violation of the law," said Leary's lawyer, George Chula.

Leary appeared for arraignment and requested permission to act as his own lawyer. Superior Court Judge James Turner denied the request, ruling it "premature," and continued the arraignment to Jan. 30.

Leary has been indicted here on 19 counts of conspiracy and smuggling as the alleged mastermind behind the "Brotherhood of Eternal Love," of which Leary was one of the founders.

Narcotics investigators described the brotherhood as a ring of drug dealers responsible for production of millions of LSD tablets and a smuggling operation that brought 1,000 pounds of hashish a month into the United States.

Leary also is liable to state and federal charges in connection with his escape, and completion of the origional 1-to-10 year marijuana possession term he was serving when he fled.

Commuters To Be Polled On Service

San Geronimo Valley commuters will be polled during the next two weeks on their views of an expanded bus service designed to minimize automobile use in the area.

The San Geronimo Valley Planning Committee will distribute postcards at 14 throughfares feeding Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between 7 and 9 a.m. Commuters are asked to fill in the cards and mail them within three days.

A recent survey revealed that 50 per cent of valley residents would use expanded bus service, according to Joachin Burkhardt, chairman of the transportation and transit subcommittee of the planning group.

Officer, Airman Of Month Named

Brandenburg, 33, has been in the Air Force for 10 years, all in police work, and plans a career in civilian law enforcement after he retires from the Air Force. He is majoring in administration of justice at Golden Gate University.

Karczmarczyk, 18, also plans a career in law enforcement after he leaves the Air Force. He is studying administration of justice at Indian Valley Colleges and is a member of the Hamilton Karate Club.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Are you a good detective? Then solve the "Case of the Insulted Artist," a make-believe drama starring famous people born today. Follow the clues and guess the answer.

Imagine you are a judge in Paris. Brought before you is Hollywood movie actor Randolph Scott, celebrating his 70th birthday as a tourist seeing the sights. But he stands accused of having slandered the great French artist Edouard Manet by calling him a "funny-looking hippie," while visiting the Louvre.

"Mon Dieu!" screamed the bearded man, wearing a yellow hat. "You have insulted me, monsieur."

"I was talking about the picture — not you!" answered Scott, who refused to apologize. A native-born Virginian, he knew the difference between being a gentleman and a coward.

Just as the two were ready to meet for a duel, two blue-uniformed gendarmes appeared and arrested them both. Thus the duel was avoided but both men were jailed.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart, 58, today, a witness to the affair, arrived in court with his friend, David Douglas Duncan, 57. "Your honor," said Justice Stewart. "In France will truth set a man free?" Assured that it would, the jurist won the case by asking cameraman Duncan to produce a photograph of Manet's self-portrait. Question: What did the picture reveal?

ANSWER

It showed the accuser was an imposter. True, he wore a beard, but he was not 141 years old, the artist's age today!

Homeowner Unit Picks New Officers

The Glenwood Homeowners Association in San Rafael has elected new officers for 1973.

Officers are Phil Hershwitzky, president; David Manuel, vice president; Robin Rudy, treasurer, and Edward Berger, secretary.

TAKES A LOOK

West opened the queen of hearts, holding the trick. South ruffed the next heart and looked around for a way to develop 12 tricks.

If he ruffed his losing diamond in dummy, he would wind up with a losing club in each hand. There was no chance of deceiving the enemy if he kept the king of hearts in dummy. The defender with the ace of hearts would see clearly that he had to hold on to that card for dear life, and he would allow the other defender to stop the clubs.

LOWLY DEUCE

The lowly deuce of diamonds was not as good a threat as the king of hearts, but it enjoyed the advantage of being concealed instead of staring the opponents in the face.

After ruffing the second heart, South got to dummy with a spade and ruffed the king of hearts. Then he ran four more rounds of trumps without bothering to ruff a diamond in dummy.

DISCARD CLUB

As the play went, dummy had one more trump than declarer after South had ruffed two hearts. When dummy led the last trump, South could discard a club from his hand.

The defenders assumed that South had no diamonds to ruff in dummy and that it was safe to throw away their diamonds and save their clubs. Since each defender saved only two diamonds, declarer eventually took the last three tricks with the ace, king and deuce of that suit.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You have no reason to believe that you are safer at two diamonds than your partner will be at one spade.

Prusser Seeking Treasurer's Post

Gordon Pusser, a Larkspur businessman, has announced his candidacy for reelection as Northern California treasurer of the Democratic State Central Committee.

He will seek reelection at the party's convention Saturday and Sunday in Sacramento.

A former treasurer and co-chairman of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee, Pusser took credit for broadening the base of the party's financial support. Traditionally funded through large donations from few contributors, the party has expanded its list of contributors from about 1,000 to over 50,000, Pusser said.

Wylie, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Walter O. Wylie of 20 Juanita Court, Novato, is a ninth grader at Sinaloa Junior High School, where he is an honor student and member of the band.

He has been a troop instructor and patrol leader for the leadership corps and has earned 21 merit badges, including four at the Marin Sierra Camp.

He has been in scouting six years, starting with Cub Pack 86 in Novato, then Troop 81 and starting last March with Troop 42.

Police Seek Kidnaper Of Toddler

MODESTO, Calif. (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies hunted today for a tall, skinny man with reddish brown hair in the kidnaping at knifepoint of an 11-month—old baby from a supermarket parking lot.

The description came from the child's mother, Mrs. Frances lauver, 22, who also said the kidnaper sounded "semi literate."

"We doubt robbery was the motive," said Sgt. Charles Curtis of the Stanislaus County sheriff's department. "The man apparently just wanted the child."

Mrs. Lauver said the kidnaper threatened her with a knife in the parking lot, forced his way into her station wagon and drove it to a peach orchard two miles away.

There he ordered the mother out of the car but refused to let her take her son, Thomas Michael Lauver jr., saying: "No, I'm taking him with me."

Before driving off, the kidnaper told Mrs. Lauver to give him her address and promised to return the child if she did not report the incident.

Mrs. Lauver wrote the address with a lipstick on the back of a grocery cash register slip and the man left with the young son.

Mrs. Lauver, nearly hysterical, ran screaming to a nearby inn from where deputies were called.

Within 20 minutes of receiving the call, the station wagon was found parked just three blocks from the grocery lot where the kidnaper first appeared but there was no trace of him or the child.

Mrs. Lauver said the abductor was between 25 and 30 years old and had several days growth of beard.

In hopes that the boy would be returned, deputies withheld news of the kidnaping from Saturday until Monday.

Builder Loses Appeal To Tiburon Council

The Tiburon City Council dealt another setback last night to a builder planning 56 townhouses and an inclined railway to serve the units at the Red Hill slide area.

The council turned down unanimously an appeal by Greystone Builders of planning commission rejection of its proposal.

Besides the railway, the plans also call for a recreation building, swimming pool and 150-car garage on 4.7 steeply sloped acres, which the builder has promised to stabilize.

In rejecting the appeal, the council sent the builder back to the planning commission, and asked that panel to consider reducing density in the area.

"My vote on this project in the future will be affected by whether we have enough R-3 (multiple dwelling) projects already in the city," said Mayor Albert H. Sennett.

The council also said that if the project is ever approved, the builder must meet strong conditions from the city engineer on how to stabilize the slide.

Councilman Branwell D. Fanning suggested that the builder buy insurance for the city to cover any possibility that the townhouses would slide down the hill.

But Fanning said it would be advantageous to the city to have the slide stabilized. "If they don't stop the mass from sliding, someone is going to have to grapple with it eventually or someday Belvedere Lagoon is going to be filled in in one swoosh," he said.

Leonard Cahn, representing the developer, protested the new turn. He said that he had worked extensively with the city staff to reduce massiveness of the project.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

HILARITA — Postponed until Feb. 14 a special meeting to review plans for the moderate income housing development known as Hilarita. The council will decide whether plans modified by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development are close enough to precise plans already approved by the city.

NUISANCE — Declared a nuisance a pool equipment shed in the yard of Richard Miller at Seven Corte Las Casas and ordered it removed in 30 days.

MORATORIUM — Set Feb. 12 to discuss a request that the county ban more developments in unincorporated areas of the Tiburon peninsula until new master plans are approved for these areas.

HACIENDA DRIVE — Asked staff to begin acquiring title to the lower portion of Hacienda Drive so the city can begin repairing the street.

PUBLIC LANES — Adopted a procedure for acquiring the right-of-way on lanes and paths now lying on private land that have been used as public walkways for several years.

TENNIS COURTS — Decided to go ahead with building two tennis courts at Del Mar school and asked the staff to set up a joint powers agreement with Reed Union School District.

LANDMARKS — Asked the planning commission to review a proposed ordinance for setting up city landmarks.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to consider filling two planning commission vacancies, but took no action.

Woman Killed By Avalanche

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) — An avalanche roared down a mountainside near this winter playground Monday, killing the wife of a resort owner.

Authorities identified the victim as Mrs. Anne Janss, 54, wife of William C. Janss, owner of Sun Valley Co., Inc.

Three other skiers were swept nearly a half mile down the slope but were uninjured.

Stolen Auto Found Stripped

An automobile belonging to Asst. Marin County Counsel Richard V. Godino was found partially stripped in a Marin City parking lot Saturday, sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

The car, a 1956 Chevrolet station wagon was found at 9:40 a.m. parked at 84 Cole Drive. Two rear wheels and the spare tire, valued at $100, were missing, deputies said.

Godino reported that he last saw the car last Tuesday parked near his home on Tennessee Valley Road in Tamalpais Valley.

End To War Requested By Council

Although reports of peace in Vietnam seemed stronger than ever, the Tiburon City Council decided there was still enough reason last night to ask Congress to end the war.

The council voted unanimously for a peace resolution proposed by Councilman M. Carlisle Becker.

Becker said his measure might be anticlimactic, but he believed it was still necessary because war in Southeast Asia could escalate at any time.

Several times Councilmen Branwell D. Fanning and Allan N. Littman tried to modify or table Becker's motion. The only successful major amendment was one praising President Nixon and Henry Kissinger for their efforts at peace talks.

Fanning labeled as "a bunch of baloney" clauses in the resolution which said that the war had "led to disorder in government, commerce and moral behavior" and had aroused the "disapproval of other nations."

"If we hadn't had so many idiotic resolutions like this five years ago, the war would hve been over by now," he said.

Littman called the resolution a political move. "We have so many things to do within our own domain that a resolution on the eve of the signing smacks too much of partisan politics," he said.

But Mayor Albert H. Sennett disagreed. "It doesn't criticize any administration or any elected officials," he said.

For the ultimate vote, the council managed to unite to adopt the resolution.

Hunger Striker Is Out Of Jail

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI) — Glenn Pontier, 26, of Clifton, N.J., who staged a hunger strike with Rev. Philip Berrigan and nine other inmates last August, was released from the Danbury Federal Prison Monday.

Pontier completed a one-year sentence for evasion of the Selective Service law imposed after he refused an option to work rather than enter the military service.

Watergate Bail Reduction Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The trial judge brusquely refused today to reduce bail for four men of seven accused who pleaded guilty in the Watergate bugging case. All four are now in jail.

Federal Judge John J. Sirica stressed their admission of participating in "clandestine activities" in rejecting the request to lower the $100,000 bail for each of the four men, all from the Miami area.

Daniel E. Schultz, newly hired attorney for the four, urged the reduction on grounds his clients had pressing personal problems necessitating their release.

Sirica declared: "Each of these four defendants is fluent in Spanish and one or more of them apparently has ties in foreign countries. Each of them has experience in clandestine operations, including the use of aliases ...

"The court fails to see why these defendants should receive better treatment than their codefendant, Mr. Howard Hunt ... and the court sees no reason to make an invidious distinction here."

Hunt, a former White House consultant, pleaded guilty separately from the Miami four. The latter, who are being held for sentencing at the end of the trial, were Bernard L. Barker, Frank A. Sturgis, Virgilio Gonzalez and Eugenio R. Martinez.

Sirica said: "While it is true that the defendants did not violate their bail conditions, it must be realized that the temptation to flee now would be much greater than before. They are facing massive fines and long jail sentences. They have had a taste in the past week of life in jail and I'm sure they didn't find it pleasant."

They admitted they had participated in the break-in and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate apartment complex on June 17.

That left only two men on trial—James W. McCord Jr., former security chief for the committee to re-elect President Nixon, and G. Gordon Liddy, one-time finance counsel to the Nixon campaign. They are charged with conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping at the headquarters.

Hunt is free on bond.

Lawyers for McCord and Liddy spent much of Monday trying to discredit testimony by the star prosecution witness, ex-FBI agent Alfred C. Baldwin III. Baldwin testified he thought his political espionage work for President Nixon's re-election campaign — eavesdropping on some 200 Democratic phone calls—was legal.

Baldwin said he had been asked by McCord to do the monitoring from a motel room across the street from Democratic headquarters and felt that was within the law.

McCord's lawyer, Gerald Alch of Boston, tried to show McCord was seeking to prevent violence to Nixon and other Republicans.

"Isn't it a fact," Alch asked Baldwin, "that McCord never told you why he was monitoring the Democratic phones?"

"The specific reason I never knew," Baldwin replied, "but if you knew Mr. McCord, he made references to what he wanted ..."

Alch: "Did he ever say the monitoring was because of (antiwar) demonstrations?"

Baldwin: "He never said it was and he never said it wasn't."

Alch: "That's my point."

Airlines Name Change Slated

LONDON (UPI) — The British Airways Board said today the name British Airways will replace the names British Overseas Airways Corporation (BOAC) and British European Airways (BEA) in the future.

The board said in a report that the two airlines will operate separately but expenditure will be cut by promoting them jointly. The old names will be discontinued when British Airways is sufficiently established, it said.

BEA operates on European and domestic routes and BOAC flies to destinations outside Europe.

Boxing License Law Challenged

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Secretary of State C. Delores Tucker Monday asked the Pennsylvania attorney general's office for an opinion on the constitutionality of a 1955 state law which denies boxing and wrestling licenses to women.

Mrs. Tucker told Attorney GEenral Israel Packel that despite the 1971 equal rights amendment to the state constitution, the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission has turned down requests from women for licenses to become professional boxers and wrestlers.

"It is my strong opinion that the enforcement of that section of the Athletic Code clearly violates the constitution, and I request an official attorney general's opinion on the matter," Mrs. Tucker said.

Bufano Mosaics Placed On Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three huge mosaics that Beniamino Bufano created for $15,000 and a gold pass for cafeteria meals went on sale Monday—with an asking price of $300,000.

The artist finished the mosaics on a Powell Street cafeteria wall in 1950 for the late David Moar, a benefactor and president of Fosters Lunch Systems Ltd. now Henry Solomon, retired Fosters president and consultant to the firm, says they will have to be sold because in six years a bank that owns the building plans to tear it down and replace it.

Trustees Mum On Talks About Hawkins' Contract

The Tamalpais High School District board, reported to be considering firing Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, emerged from a closed session last night, announced another private gathering tomorrow evening with Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, then went home.

None of the trustees would comment on the private session to discuss Hawkins' contract, although the subject appeared on the agenda.

Tomorrow's closed meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at Redwood High School, followed by an open meeting at 8:30 p.m. in the school faculty lounge.

Dozens of people stayed until nearly 11 o'clock last night to hear the results of the latest round in the board's tussle with the $33,000-a-year administrator. They heard nothing.

A majority of the board is rumored to favor asking for Hawkins' resignation, but he is said to have asked for $50,000 to buy up the remaining three years on his contract.

Trustees also refused to say if tomorrow's meeting is likely to produce results.

School Board Views $11 Million Budget

The Tamalpais High School District board got its first look last night at the shape of a possible 1973-74 budget that called for expenses totaling $11,468,864, up from the current $10,902,863.

The spending program would require a tax rate hike of from 4.5 to 11.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, according to staff estimates.

The forecast budget, said district business manager Frank A. Cassou, would need a tax rate of either $2.18 or $2.25 per $100. This year's district rate is $2.135.

Cassou explained that the varying rate predictions are based on revenue provisions of the state's new tax shift — school finance legislation.

If district assessed valuation increases by 6 per cent this year, then the rate would be $2.18, said Cassou. If it increases by only 2 per cent, then the $2.25 rate would be applied.

The forecast budget is only a "general estimate," trustees were told, and a new budget planning group will begin deliberations on Feb. 1.

Income was projected on maximum revenue entitled the district under provisions of the new state legislation, and the district's 6.6 cent permitted override wasn't included. No provision was made in the forecast for any salary increases that may be granted to employees.

The board merely received the forecast budget, scheduling discussion for Feb. 5. According to Cassou, the estimates will undergo "more extensive refinement" during the next three months before the district's preliminary budget is prepared for review by the board in May.

Tamalpais High School District board also:

ADULT SCHOOL — Heard a report on adult education in the district by Asst. Supt. Robert D. Torrey and put the subject over to its March 5 meeting.

ALTERNATIVE — Heard a report on Drake's "School-Within-A-School" by educational leader Thomas M. Lorch and teacher Rudolph R. Genetti, which indicated there are 125 students in 20 to 25 "tribes," and that Drake plans to continue the school next year with no requests for special funding.

SCHEDULE — Heard that Drake's new daily schedule to start in the fall is expected to give students more flexibility and chances to take more classes. It will operate on a 10-day schedule, and days will be divided into six periods or three long periods on alternate days. Lorch said the system currently is in use in a Palo Alto High School where it has proved popular.

SALARIES — Heard 1973-74 salary proposals by the Tamalpais District Teachers Association, presented by Truman Whorton. Members are requesting 5.5 per cent salary raises, automatic cost of living increases, bonuses for advanced degrees, income protection insurance, orthodontic coverage on dental insurance to pay 50 per cent of expenses up to $1,000; more credit for previous teaching experience and compensation for unused sick leave. The requests now will be negotiated.

BUY MARIN — Decided to abandon the idea of having a policy giving preference to Marin businesses in district purchases because it would cost too much to administer and because the new state tax shift law will reallocate sales tax out of the district.

LEAVE — Granted a year's unpaid leave to Redwood English teacher James L. Pierce, effective Feb. 1, to set up a new program to credential teachers at the University of California. Pierce's request wasn't acted on at two previous meetings, and trustees had voiced concern that he had taught for only one semester since returning from a similar year's leave. Trustees Robert W. Corlett, Bette Wallace and David D. Ring voted to grant the leave, with Frank L. Miller and Jerrold M. Ladar dissenting.

CONFERENCES — Approved attendance at conferences for 26 employees.

TRANSFERS — Approved budget transfers, mostly from the special reserve to pay for repairing the Drake shop building roof.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to a special meeting tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the Redwood High School faculty lounge, preceded by a closed session at 7:30 p.m.

'Tampering' In Corona Case Is Hit

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — The district attorney who prosecuted Juan V. Corona for the biggest mass murder in U.S. history said Monday that he has "seen no evidence of any jury tampering."

Sutter County Dist. Atty. G. Dave Teja discounted defense attorney Richard Hawk's charge that a sheriff's matron had talked to one juror about the verdict the evening before the panel found Corona guilty of 25 counts of murder.

"He's made a lot of charges that he couldn't back up," said Teja.

Hawk said Mrs. Naomi Underwood, 63, a widow who held out for four days for an innocent verdict before voting guilty, told him the matron offered information about Corona "that will ease your conscience if you have qualms about the way you voted." Mrs. Underwood later called the talk a "confidential chat."

Teja, who returned here to prepare for a hearing next Monday on Hawk's motion for a new trial, also doubted if Mrs. Underwood's change of heart concerning the verdict would mean much. He said appellate courts have generally had "a policy against a juror impeaching the verdict of a jury."

Jury foreman Ernest Phillips said Monday that Mrs. Underwood, who announced during the weekend that she had changed her mind and would now vote innocent, "is apparently very confused about what constitutes a guilty verdict." He noted she "voted guilty pretty near 55 times" last Thursday as the jury's decision was returned in court.

Corona, 38, a Yuba City, Calif., farm labor contractor, was convicted of slaying 25 drifters and burying them in shallow graves along the Feather River in 1971.

Police Are Called To Demonstration

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police were summoned Monday to rout a peaceful demonstration outside the Soviet consular mission.

About 100 persons marched around the Russian quarters to protest the Kremlin's controversial education tax on emigrants.

Singer Is Injured In Cycle Accident

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richard Carpenter, 25, pianist and singer with The Carpenters, broke his right leg and suffered fractures in both wrists in a motorcycle accident.

A spokesman said Carpenter was wearing a cast from foot to knee, but was expected to be recovered in time for his next concert appearance Feb. 11. Carpenter was involved in a collision Sunday in a motorcycle riding park near Diamond Bar in eastern Los Angeles County.

Lily's Like An Angel To Children Of Iran

LILY ARJOMAND is responsible for ushering in the "age of the child" in Iran. With help from her childhood friend, Iran's Empress Farah, she has set up the Institute for the Intellectual Development of Children and Young Adults, which has built more than 80 libraries in Iran, conducts art and music classes and provides books, films and theater for children.

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

TEHRAN, Iran — Iran's Empress Farah once was an unroyal little girl who had a chum named Lily.

The two girls became fast friends at the Jeanne d'Arc School in Tehran. Then Farah went to France to study architecture, and Lily left for the United States to learn library science. But they remained friends.

Today, after lots of other events Farah is the Queen of Persia, and Lily is Lily Arjomand, who has ushered in the "age of the child" to Iran.

THE TWO women are in cahoots to do everything they can think of for the children of Iran — libraries, art and music classes, better books, children's films and theater. With 80 per cent of the population under 20 and an illiteracy rate of about 80 per cent, the children need all the help they can get.

Mrs. Arjomand has bypassed government bureaucracy and set up the Institute for the Intellectual Development of Children and Young Adults directly under the office of the Empress.

"Lily is one of the few people with whom the Empress can kick off her shoes and giggle," one institute worker said.

What "kicking off their shoes" has accomplished is phenomenal and hardly typical of organizations in most developing countries. The institute is chock-full of highly motivated workers — about 500 of them, all Iranians save one. Organization is pyramidal, with Mrs. Arjomand on top. She still catalogs all books and even approves or disapproves the furniture design in the new libraries.

But the "pyramid" doesn't seem to dampen enthusiasm. Indeed, it's endemic to Iran's society — with the Shah at the top. Also, there's plenty of money for the institute because of the royal endorsement and perpetual proof that the money is well spent.

MRS. ARJOMAND'S fund-raising tactics are distinctive, but probably not atypical of Iran, where who-you-know matters. At a party she'll materialize, say, at the elbow of the president of the Iran National Bus Company. "We need a bus," she'll chirp.

"But I just gave you a bus."

"I know. . . but this one's for a mobile theater."

She gets the bus.

The institute began, humbly, about eight years ago with one library in south Tehran. Mrs. Arjomand, at the Empress's urging, set it up with a budget of $20,000. The budget's now $3 million a year.

Then, when she found a dearth of good children's books written in Farsi, she began to publish some herself. To date, the institute has published 40 original children's books, winning international prizes for some; and children's libraries are dotted all over Iran — more than 80 of them. The institute's permanent architect says he now draws up plans for libraries five at a time.

Architecturally, the libraries are some of the most exciting buildings in the country.

"Lily has a real 'thing' about keeping them spotless," an institute worker said. "She hires men just to polish things. It's such a surprise sometimes — you're walking in a dirty, crummy part of town and all of a sudden this immaculate, warm building looms up."

NOTHING IS too good for the children. A whole "think-tank" department in the institute is devoted to developing new projects and pinpointing the neediest areas in the country.

The latest idea was the organizing of choruses. Just before that the children's theater was launched. Often, one thing leads to another. For instance, Mrs. Arjomand's search for good children's films to use in the libraries resulted in the Tehran International Children's Film Festival, now seven years old.

Almost from the beginning the institute has been reaching out to children in rural areas. At first books were sent in saddlebags on donkeys to the nomadic Kashquai tribe around Shiraz. Jeeps have since nudged out the donkeys.

1973 The Christian Science Publishing Society

TWO IRANIAN boys browse through children's books made available to them by Lily Arjomand's Institute for the Intellectual Development of Children and Young Adults. In Iran 80 per cent of the population is under 20, and the illiteracy rate is also about 80 per cent.

Little Jim Club Changes Format For Fund Raising

Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital has revamped its fund raising format and taken the fund raising burden off of women.

For the past 20 years the club has conducted one of the most successful annual charity fund raising drives in the Bay Area by selecting contestants for queen of the annual Mardi Gras Ball. The queen has been the woman raising the largest sum of money.

This year fund raising efforts are being assumed by 16 men, professional, business and civic leaders, including two Marin men, architect Leo A. Daly III of Belvedere and restaurant owner Roland Gotti of Kentfield.

This year's ball will be held March 3 at the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco, and the king and queen will be the guests judged to be wearing the best costumes.

All past queens will be honored at a luncheon on Feb. 14.

The format was changed out of a desire to do something different for the anniversary year, according to Mrs. W. H. Klarquist of San Francisco.

Pearls Gaining New Importance

Pearls are terribly important in fashion right now. For the past year, trend-setting designers here and in Europe have been moving toward softer, more feminine-looking clothes.

Clothes in such collections were accessorized only with cultured pearls.

Cultured Pearls Personal Jewels

Cultured pearls are believed the most personal jewelry a woman can own.

Subtle differences in color between necklaces can make them either exquisitely flattering to a particular woman, or merely just pretty.

Chemical Agent

Bleaches are chemical agents used to whiten any material.

Sleepy Hollow Guild Installs Mrs. Torre

Sleepy Hollow Guild of Sunny Hills has installed new officers. Mrs. Donald W. Torre of San Anselmo is president and Mmes. Albert Giusto, vice president; Edward Boero, treasurer; Halsey Lyon, recording secretary; and William Cuneo, corresponding secretary.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

When Definitions Are The Same Why Are Some Words Obscene?

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:
Can anyone tell me why the four-letter word "rape" is allowed in newspapers and on the air, but if you use that other four-letter word, you're liable to get bleeped for obscene language unless you watch where you say it.

And how come anyone can use the word "prostitute" but the five-letter description is-pretty chancy? And you can be illegitimate, but it's still b— in a lot of magazines. Well, anyway, a few.

All this doesn't make sense. Not that I want to run around yelling forbidden four-letter words, but — WHY?

DEAR WHY:
No, it doesn't make sense — that's why we're rapidly reaching a point where no word will be "obscene." Which is a shame because I think everyone needs to shock and be shocked occasionally, and certain semi-forbidden words are necessary so that we can retain this sense of shock. If they become as commonplace as "Oh darn!" well, what would we do for an encore? — HELEN

WHY:
The words you can't write in a family newspaper have one thing in common: they're all good ol' Anglo-Saxon terms now transformed into down-grading slang. Maybe it's how they're used (to show contempt, hate, or whatever) more than what they say that keeps them out of certain media. — SUE

P.S. Strange how those words published in a newspaper would jump up and hit you in the face, but you scarcely notice them in today's books, or when used by people who say them naturally as part of their conversation. Perhaps it isn't what they are, but where they appear that carries the shock appeal. — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:
My girlfriend and I had an argument. I said I'd like to pose for a nude calendar if there was money in it, and she said if I did, she'd drop me. This is weird because she is a model and has posed with more exposed than those calendar guys ever showed. I mentioned that and she says "My pictures are art, yours would be a kind of dirty joke."

Since when is the male body a "joke" while the female body is "art"? — JOHN

DEAR JOHN:
Maybe your girlfriend just doesn't want you to be a pinup in the girls' locker room. — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR RAP:
My boyfriend's hair is rapidly thinning. His father is bald, and his attitude is, "If God meant me to go bald, that's the way it will be."

I know it's partly hereditary, but I see no reason why he shouldn't seek help in one of those men's grooming salons.

DEAR L.:
If there was any sure cure for baldness, would so many men be bald? Don't talk your boyfriend into treatments that probably won't produce anything but a flatter wallet. — HELEN

DEAR L.A.G.:
The right styling can make thin hair look heavier: men's grooming salons are good at this. But the only ways to fight baldness are with transplants or hairpieces. — SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel —or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

A Salute To Senior Citizens

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the average worker passes the age of 65, he usually is not as efficient as a younger man, is injured more often and is absent from work for longer periods — right or wrong?

Wrong, reports the Institute of Life Insurance. A survey by the New York State Division of Human Rights concludes that workers over 65 perform their jobs "about equal to and sometimes better than younger workers."

The older workers also have fewer on-the-job accidents and are less often absent from work because of illness.

UNICEF Drive Nets $7,563

A total of $7,563.25 was collected during the Trick or Treat for UNICEF drive held in Marin County last Halloween, according to Mrs. Harold Kling of Corte Madera, drive chairman.

The total is an increase of $564 over the 1971 drive.

WHAT'S UNDER the kilt? A tired old table top, that's what. But this bold plaid by Bates is a perky idea for sparking table conversation. Called Piper's Pride, it has companion drapery panels in a nice variety of colors.

Bathtub Reward Boosts Fourth-Grader Interest

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Reward a child for good performance by permitting him to sit in a bathtub? Whoever heard of anything more ridiculous?

But that's exactly what a Windcrest Elementary School teacher is doing in her fourth-grade class. It's true the bathtub is an unusual one, and it's not every teacher who would dream of having one in her classroom. Yet it is working and it is never empty.

Miss Kathy Kenagy spotted the old-fashioned footed model in a junkyard; got her father to help her lug it to school, scrub it, decorate it with decals and furnish it with pillows. Set in a quiet corner, it is an entrancing attraction for the children.

"Those who earn the privilege are allowed to sit in it to catch up on their reading," Miss Kenagy said. "I can't say discipline and learning have improved since it's been in the room, but student interest and happiness have gone up.

"They can't stand seeing an empty tub just sitting there; we have to keep it filled with someone."

Sensitivity Test Used By Dentists

Dentists sometimes test a patient for "sensitivity" following completion of dental therapy with a jet stream of cold water or air. Should the patient visibly react, and some have been known to almost jump with pain, the dentist may suspect dental hypersensitivity.

More than three-quarters of the patients suffering from hypersensitive teeth included in the study described in the New York Journal of Dentistry obtained relief through normal care of teeth at home by substituting a specially formulated toothpaste for the one they had been using.

Table Setting Is Routine And Often Unattractive

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by
General Features Corp.

Every table setting is a bit of a challenge, if we accept it as such. Considering the fact that we tackle the assignment at least twice a day, most of us should be veritable whizzes at whipping up interesting place settings.

But what's the truth? Don't we usually slap things down in pretty (not so pretty) routine ways? Taking the same old dishes out of the cupboard or dishwasher and putting them right back on the table?

Let's make a pact, each of us — man, woman, child — will reach into the cupboard once each day and try to pull out something unusual or unique to embellish the table. So what if we don't have six of every item? More's the surprise, with each member of the family examining his individual arrangement.

MY CUPBOARD might reveal some tin plates purchased in Mexico for 25 cents apiece. They have scalloped edges and make good service plates. I might use them under some Japanese imports — lacquered paper plates shaped like chrysanthemums. The gold-and-silver look might be fun.

Glassware is my nemesis, since I'm clumsy at the sink. If I entertain eight guests, I have to mix wine glasses. There are five stemmed pink goblets, six clear crystal ones and two or three of several other styles. Everyone at the table could probably have a pair of unmatched glasses.

Place-setting liberation could include flatware, too. It's more interesting to have three patterns of flatware than one. Better to have a sharp knife than one that merely matches, right?

We fall into the same patterns with place mats and table covers. Perhaps there's a three-yard scrap of velvet in the fabric drawer or chest? Wouldn't it be delightful to surprise the clan with a candle-lit, velvety table setting for their next budget session with meat loaf? Or how about a patchwork job made from scraps of felt left over from stitchery projects? (That's one for me: I have at least three dozen 12-inch squares of felt in rainbow colors tucked away.)

Gingham and plaid fabrics are nifty as table covers. Right now many department stores are getting ready for a country-look promotion in table and bed linens, and the new gingham and plaid designs are freshly colored and beruffled.

THE TABLE cover shown today is a ready-made one by Bates, but it proves the point about unusual fabrics making fashion news for mealtimes. For their new line, Bates has created Piper's Pride, a bold plaid that recalls the pride of the regiment and the intrigue of the Scottish kilt. Bates has created ready-to-hand draperies of the same fabric and both come in blue-red, green-blue, orange-teak and gold-olive color combinations. The table covers may be purchased in 72-inch or 90-inch rounds.

No Fairfax Action On Building Permit

The Fairfax Town Council failed to act last night on an appeal by Councilman Frank J. Egger of issuance of a building permit for a home at 100 Tamalpais Road. (See another story, page 1.)

Egger, blaming City Administrator Robert E. Crowe for the problem, said similar action in the future should mean the dismissal of Crowe.

Egger claimed that Crowe signed a building permit for the single-family home, being built by Raymond Zerbe, even though a variance was needed because of a setback problem. The variance, with the house nearing completion, was granted Dec. 28.

Egger later appealed.

The councilman said he realized that the house was now about 75 per cent complete and that the town could not very well ask that it be torn down.

Mayor Albert E. Gately said the judgment error was made by city building inspector Dale Hostrup, no longer employed by the town. Hostrup had given Zerbe his verbal approval of setback encroachment before the building permit was issued by Crowe, Gately said.

Gately said that the site was subject to slides and was "one of the most unbuildable sites in town."

The Fairfax Town Council Also:

ABAG — Voted to rejoin the Association of Bay Area Governments at a cost of $178 for the remainder of this fiscal year. It postponed naming a representative to ABAG until its Feb. 13 meeting.

ANNEXATION — Heard Parkerson suggest that the town consider annexing 190 acres between Rancho Tamarancho and the city limits west of Fairfax. There are 40 different property owners and approximately 100 residents. The council named Parkerson and colleague Robert R. Souza as a committee with town staff to contact residents on the proposed annexation.

JOBS — Adopted standards for assistant fire chief, fireman, police sergeant and police officer. The new standards bring the town more in line with other cities in Marin County, Crowe said.

SUBDIVISION — Approved revision of 13 lots in the Village West subdivision on Olema Road which had been approved on March 30. The changes were made to save trees on the lots, according to Ben C. Albritton, town engineer.

OVERLAY — Received a bill for $4,147 for the town's share in overlay of Olema Drive from McLellan Co. of San Anselmo. The council had agreed to pay up to $2,500 and voted to send the contractor that amount and no more.

CARS — Approved a plan by Crowe to turn the city administrator's car over to the police department, turn back a leased car and pay the administrator $100 per month for use of his own car. This will save the town $600 annually, he said.

BRINKS — Refused a suggestion that the town limit the number of drinks at the Jan. 31 meeting of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen, a session which the town will host at Deer Park Villa. Gately said the plan was unfeasible, but hoped that host councilmen would set a good example by not drinking too much.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Feb. 13 in memory of President Lyndon B. Johnson and voted that if President Richard M. Nixon called for a national day of mourning, Fairfax town offices would close.

A 'Drastic' Reduction In Oil Spill

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Coast Guard reported Monday night a "drastic decrease" in the volume of an oil spill that polluted an arm of San Francisco Bay and killed nearly 300 water fowl.

A spokesman said the remaining oil from the vandal-caused spill was floating in patches in the Oakland estuary, but that the body of water would remain closed for continuing cleanup.

The spokesman said it was estimated that 171,000 gallons of the salvage oil had left the tanks of Port Petroleum Co., that 120,000 gallons had entered the estuary and 62,000 gallons had so far been recovered.

About 400 men and 70 vessels continued the effort to collect the remaining oil from marina inlets and under piers. The Coast Guard said the cleanup would continue well into next week.

The salvage oil —petroleum that had already been used in cars and other equipment — was released by unknown vandals who opened tank spigots early last Friday.

Alfred Neumeyer, Art Historian, Succumbs

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. Alfred Neumeyer, 72, an internationally known art historian, scholar, teacher, author and lecturer died a "sudden and unexpected" death, it was announced Monday.

Neumeyer, who taught students and collected awards and degrees from around the world, succumbed at his Oakland home Sunday.

Born in Munich, Neumeyer served as director of press office of government museums of Berlin and studied at the German Institute of Art History in Florence and the institute of Art History in Rome.

In 1935 he moved to the United States and joined the faculty of Mills College in Oakland. He served as director of Mills' art gallery from 1936 to 1961, during which he procured many rare works for the college's permanent collection.

He was named professor emeritus at Mills' after his retirement in 1966 and has since been actively involved teaching special courses at Mills and nearby University of California in Berkeley and St. Mary's of Moraga.

He authored several publications including a well-received interpretative book called "Search for Meaning in Modern Art." It was published in Germany in 1961 and in 1964 was sold in paperback in the United States.

In the U.S., Neumeyer studied under a Guggenheim Fellowship and two Fulbright fellowships and in 1961 was elected to director of the College Art Association of America.

He leaves his wife, Eva Maria and one son, Peter, of Stoney Brook, N.Y.

PUC Is Accused Of Stalling On Moving Probe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti Monday accused the Public Utilities Commission of stalling in its investigation into alleged underestimating practices by moving firms.

Moretti said the Legislature asked the PUC as early as 1963 for regulations to prevent some moving firms from deliberately underestimating moving costs to attract a customer and then billing him much higher than the estimate.

"I'm appalled that in all these years there's still no ban on deliberate underestimating practices," the Van Nuys Democrat said in a letter to PUC President Vernon L. Sturgeon.

Marin City Group To Eye Services

A special meeting of the Marin City Homeowners Improvement Association will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Manzanita Center "to discuss grievances concerning the community and the Marin City Community Services District."

Jesse E. Berry, vice president of the association, said members are concerned that the district constitutes "taxation without representation." Members claim that "80 per cent of the district's large budget goes for salaries and nothing for programs," said Berry.

Ecological Reforms Are Adopted By Sierra Club

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Directors of the Sierra Club have adopted a series of proposals for far-reaching economic reforms as part of the club's campaign for national energy conservation.

The program would:

Do away with oil depletion allowances and other economic subsidies to energy industries.

Revamp the public utility rate structures to assure that energy is priced at its full cost.

Impose taxes on the extraction of all non-renewable energy resources such as oil and coal.

End fuel import quota systems, replacing then, if necessary for national policy, with a tariff system.

Levy a pollution tax on industry.

The directors of the conservationist organization want the new "energy" taxes to be spent on government research and development of "less wasteful and environmentally damaging ways of producing and using energy."

Production Of 'Caligula' Is Announced

An acting group, which hopes to set up a permanent Marin County theater company, will product Albert Camus' "Caligula" in a run from Feb. 1 to March 2 at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

The Renegade Acting Ensemble, including several Marin actors with experience in local and New York productions, will present the play on Wednesdays through Fridays at 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 7:30 p.m. Donations will benefit the Mount Carmel Booster Club, an athletic program for children.

John Garber, director of recreation in Mill Valley, will play Caligula, while Will Marchetti, who has worked with the Marin Shakespeare Festival, directs the play.

New Estimates Hike Public Flood Damage

New surveys of storm and flood damage to public highways and other facilities in Marin County today boosted the public property damage total to at least $811,910.

The figures were still incomplete, however.

Frank E. Kirby, county coordinator of emergency services, said the greatest change from figures reported yesterday in the Independent-Journal was due to arrival of state experts' estimates on damage done to Shoreline Highway — $335,000.

A first estimate of private property damage in Novato was $140,000, according to William Ward Jr., regional disaster director for the state Office of Emergency Services.

Ward said that state highway engineers who checked the Novato area for damage to roads and public works found no significant damage.

Elsewhere in Marin, county and state roads — exclusive of Shoreline Highway — suffered a total of $376,600 in damage, Ward said, revising upward the county's earlier figures by $75,000.

Meanwhile, officials of the National Flood Insurance program in San Francisco were processing 22 Marin County claims for flood and mud damage, mostly from Marin County.

Standard homeowner policies do not cover such damage, but property owners in Novato and other parts of Marin have been able to buy special coverage for such losses for the past year. About 230 Marin residents did so, according to Edgar H. Lion Jr., insurance official in San Francisco.

109 London Flu Deaths Last Week

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The London flu epidemic took the lives of at least 109 persons in California last week, the third consecutive week the death toll has risen, it was announced Monday.

The figure, gathered from 11 major cities, compared to 99 for the week ending Jan. 12 and 57 for the week ending Jan. 5.

"The epidemic is apparently moving into Southern California in force after having peaked in the San Francisco Bay area during the last two weeks," said Vince Vandre, spokesman for the state Department of Public Health.

Vandre said that the Hayward School District reported 17,400 of its 24,700 students were absent last week. That compared to 9,185 for the previous week.

He stated the flu is hitting the elderly and chronically ill persons the hardest.

Vandre said an epidemic is considered to exist once the number of deaths exceeds 65 each week.

Here is a breakdown of the combined flu and penumonia deaths during the epidemic last week in the 11 cities:

Los Angeles, 19; San Francisco, 14; Fresno, 11; San Diego, 11; Oakland, 9; San Jose, 13; Glendale, 2; Berkeley, 5; Long Beach, 7; Pasadena, 2, and Sacramento 16.

Student's Survival Explained

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (UPI) — A 21-year-old Sonoma State College student fell 200 feet over a snow-covered slope and survived eight days of storms and freezing temperatures before being rescued.

Robert A. Baxter of Santa Rosa said he survived by "rationing myself four dates every other day and sucking on chunks of ice."

Baxter, hospitalized in good condition today, said he had just about given up hope when three hikers heard him calling for help Sunday and alerted park rangers.

The student was wearing a light windbreaker, corduroy jeans and cowboy boots when he tumbled down the mountain while hiking along John Muir Trail near Nevada Falls on Jan. 14.

"There were some days when the storms prevented me from shouting," Baxter said.

Sausalito's Downtown Area To Be Studied

A $278,475 project to improve Sausalito's downtown business area will be presented to the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The proposal, by architect Donald K. Olsen, includes widening of sidewalks, landscaping and purchase of street furniture, according to City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr.

The city has proposed that the improvement project be financed by an assessment district composed of merchants and property owners in an area from Princess Street to north of Bay Street.

St. Cyr said 64 per cent of the property owners in that area of Bridgeway have signed a petition calling for the district.

Planners Deny A Request To Abandon Street

A request that the City of Mill Valley abandon Winwood Lane, a short street located between West Blithedale Avenue and Winwood Place, was denied last night by the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

Peter Haywood, a resident of the area, had asked that the street be designated for bicycle and pedestrian use only, according to Carol Defenderfer, planning secretary.

She said the commission decided there was "no compelling reason" for the city to abandon the street.

In other business, the commission reelected Ivan S. Poutiatine as chairman and Richard N. Jessup as vice chairman.

Astronauts Pay Visit To Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The last Apollo astronauts visited Capitol Hill Monday. The entire Senate was absent, and in the House the space explorers spoke to only about one-third of the members and to galleries that were half full.

It was the traditional tribute given American spacemen. The Apollo 17 commander, Eugene Cernan, noted the end of the Apollo moon program in his remarks and spoke of the gains of the American trips to the moon.

In the House, the astronauts received a standing ovation when they entered. Cernan was accompanied by the other Apollo 17 crewmen, Roland Evans and geologist Jack Schmitt.

Returning astronauts in the past received the tribute of a joint session of Congress. Monday, however, the Senate was not in session and the House presented the tribute alone.

Princess Rapped For Fox Hunting

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne has come under attack again for going fox hunting. But this time she has company—her boyfriend and a member of the council of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruely to Animals.

The princess, 22, and Lt. Mark Phillips, 24, went fox hunting during the weekend. Riding with them were other members of the equestrian team that won an Olympic gold medal at Munich, including Richard Meade, a member of the council of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Report On Water Need On Agenda

A consulting firm's recommendation on the amount of future water supply to be needed by the Marin Municipal Water District will be presented to the district board at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the agency office in Corte Madera.

The firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield, Clair A. Hill and Associates, also will present a definite estimate of the district's annual net safe yield. (Net safe yield is the amount of water the district can expect from its reservoirs, year in and year out).

At the board's last meeting, Director Jack R. Felson said he could not vote for the proposed North Marin intertie, which will bring 4,000 acre feet of water to the county annually, until he knew what the net safe yield was.

The intertie is stalled because the board deadlocked last time over approving a new contract for water through the pipeline.

In other business, the board will call for an election to fill the seat vacated by the resignation of Director Eugene A. Miller and will hear proposals for an environmental impact study on fluoridation.

Stickers Will Label Homes With Invalids

Brightly colored little stickers that may save lives will be placed on doors and windows of Marinwood homes beginning early next month, Marinwood Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield said yesterday.

The stickers are designed to enable firemen to identify quickly any home which houses invalids, nonwalking patients, persons with chronic heart or respiratory diseases, or other disabilities that might require speedy use of oxygen or resuscitator equipment.

Bonfield explained that his department is getting "more and more rescuscitator calls," sometimes from persons too agitated to remember to give the address number where help is needed. "As long as we know the street, we have a good chance of getting to the victim if he has one of our fluorescent stickers" readily visible on the front of the house, Bonfield said.

Marinwood residents may obtain the stickers by registering at the fire station between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Feb. 5 through 11. Firemen will attach the stickers to the homes to make sure they will be in uniform, visible positions.

A committee of citizens and firemen also is considering providing a second type of sticker so that parents may indicate bedrooms where youngsters sleep. This would help firemen to rescue children who might not be able to escape from burning houses by themselves, Bonfield said.

Shortage Of Fuel Looms For Buses

A 25 per cent cutback in Golden Gate Transit bus service has been threatened by a shortage of diesel fuel.

The system's maintenance superintendent, J. Brooks Rice, predicted there was "very little" chance of the cutback, but acknowledged he had been warned 10 days ago by SheH Oil Co. that the shortage could be severe enough to force rationing through May.

Rice stressed that the Golden Gate Bridge District's contract for the fuel supplied by Shell did not allow the company to ration its supply. The contract, however, can be canceled by either the district or Shell on 90 days' notice.

Rice said supplemental fuel could be bought from other suppliers, but at a "much greater cost." The district pays Shell 11.77 cents a gallon.

Shell's letter said it hoped to supply its customers the same amount of diesel fuel they got during the first five months last year, when the district bought 430,500 gallons for its San Rafael bus base.

This year, however, it needs 100,000 more gallons because the fleet has grown from 155 to 188 buses and service has been expanded, Rice reported. The threatened rationing also would affect the district's smaller bus bases in Novato and Santa Rosa.

A spokesman for Shell offered to check into the matter, but was unable to get further information.

The shortage, a nationwide problem, resulted from extreme cold which skyrocketed use of natural gas for heating. Industry was forced to switch to fuel oil, thus creating the shortage.

Ross Man Is Arrested On Burglary Probe

Tiburon police arrested a Ross man yesterday on suspicion of burglary after he turned himself in when he heard police were looking for him.

Tod William Ringen, 21, of 50 Laurel Grove Avenue, Ross, was released from Marin County Jail after posting $1,000 bail, and is to appear Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

Officers said they traced property stolen from John J. Rigazio of 2227 Centro East to a person who said he purchased the property from Ringen. Investigators said Rigazio's apartment was burglarized twice in recent weeks, and belongings worth $740 were stolen.

Haig Is Selected For Peace Award

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., recently appointed Army vice chief of staff, was to receive the Golden Slipper Club's "Quaker City Award" today for his role in the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Haig, 48, a former top assistant to President Nixon and Dr. Henry Kissinger, was cited by the club as "a Philadelphian who has distinguished himself in service to his country." The Golden Slipper Club is a philanthropic organization comprised of about 1,000 Philadelphia business and professional men.

Townhouse Development Unresolved

A controversial townhouse development near San Anselmo was considered without resolve again yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission, which set another hearing for Feb. 5.

The project, which has been pending since last summer, proposes 44 townhouse condominiums on a 15-acre site at the end of Sacramento Avenue near Sorich Ranch Park.

The commission, shy three members yesterday postponed a decision in the face of a deadlock after two and a half hours discussion.

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo, who joined Commissioner Rebecca Watkins in supporting the project, moved the postponement after failing to persuade Commissioners John F. West and William Long to drop their opposition. Four votes are needed for approval.

(Commissioners Jack G. Nixon, George B. Leonard and Kenneth T. Stevens were absent yesterday.)

The county planning department had recommended denial of the master plan and related zoning requested by Max D. Schenk. The department's recommendation was based on a contention the site lacks adequate fire protection.

E. Ross Parkerson, a county planner, said it would take county fire units 12 minutes to reach the site from the Wood-acre firehouse.

While San Anselmo's fire department is just minutes away, he continued, the city is not interested in contracting its services to unincorporated areas.

His statements were supported by Charles R. Leitzell, city engineer for San Anselmo, who said "if they want city services, it's up to them to annex and pay city taxes."

San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi challenged the planning department's recommendation, noting a letter from County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli in which he said he could see no problem.

Bianchi added that special construction and smoke detection equipment would reduce fire hazards within the development.

The attorney added that San Anselmo's interest in annexing the property was simply to keep it from being developed.

A parade of nearby residents joined Leitzell in urging annexation and complained of traffic, sewage and drainage problems that would worsen if development were permitted.

Church, School Proposal Rejected

The Marin County Planning Commission flatly rejected yesterday a proposal to build a church and private elementary school on a wooded knoll overlooking Marinwood.

Commission rejection came swiftly on a 4-0 vote with three members absent, and was greeted with general approval from about 20 Marinwood residents who had turned out in protest.

The proposal, submitted by Valley Baptist Church, envisioned a new church and private elementary school for 240 students on a forested hill adjacent to Highway 101 north of its intersection with St. Vincent Drive.

It sparked controversy within the community when proposed last year, with several local groups and organizations filing letters of protest with the county.

"I don't appreciate being the enemy of the community... being cast as the heavy," Rev. Warren Conrad told the commission, adding his intent was to serve the community.

Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo summed up the commission's position in turning down the proposal, saying, "it's the kind of use that calls for approval from the community. I don't think it's absolutely necessary on this site."

She and the other commissioners said they would prefer to see the land used for residential development which would save wooded portions of the knoll.

Commissioners Rebecca Watkin and William Long noted extensive grading would be required for the private school and questioned the appearance from the highway.

Commissioner John F. West, who served as chairman yesterday, joined the others in voting denial, saying the site is too far removed from transit routes for such development.

The commission's action came before audience members were given a chance to speak.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

BLACK POINT — Recommended rezoning of industrial lands near the Petaluma River at Black Point to single-family residential use. The lands are located along the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way near Highway 37. The board of supervisors will consider the rezoning next month.

HIGHLANDS — Approved unanimously changes in the Highlands housing project master plan reducing the number of dwellings from 140 approved earlier to 109. The project, proposed for a hill overlooking the Reedlands subdivision has been protested by the City of Tiburon.

DIVISION — Approved unanimously division into four lots of a 20-acre site at the end of Mulberry Terrace in Marinwood. The site is owned by Paul T. Scheiner. The Marinwood Community Services District protested the action, saying it would increase the value of the property being considered for open space acquisition by the community.

REZONING — Postponed to Feb. 5 a hearing on a request from John S. Burd to rezone his two-acre site at Inverness to single-family residential use, allowing seven homes. The commission said the housing was too dense but delayed action pending further study of what zoning should be approved.

CASA MADERA — Approved a master plan for the Casa Madera apartment development near Corte Madera. Plans call for 78 units on the eight-acre site on Tamal Vista Boulevard opposite the Co-op Shopping Center.

NICK'S COVE — Postponed to Feb. 5 a hearing on a master plan proposing a 1,000-square-foot addition to Nick's Cove Seafood Restaurant north of Marshall. Questions remain unresolved over sewage.

Suspect In Stabbing In Petaluma Sought

A 21-year-old identified as a possible Marinite was named as a possible assailant yesterday in the Saturday stabbing of former world's wristwrestling champion Jim Dolcini which nearly led to a riot in Petaluma.

Southern Sonoma Municipal Court Judge Alexander J. McMahon issued a warrant for John Charles Batts, 21, charging assault with a deadly weapon.

Batts, who is believed to live in central Marin, is wanted in connection with the brawl at the Hideaway Bar.

Police said Dolcini, 22, was stabbed four times while trying to break up a fight. Scores of police were called in to quell an angry mob of more than 150 which tried to attack the assailant of the popular Dolcini.

Dolcini was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital after undergoing surgery for his wounds.

Police said Batts is a member of an unidentified motorcycle group from San Rafael. He is described as five feet, seven inches tall, 160 pounds with brown hair and eyes.

An all points bulletin has been issued for his arrest.

Man Arrested In Probe Of Armed Robbery

A man, said by police to be a regular customer of the Barrel House tavern in San Rafael, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of a $1,600 armed robbery at the establishment last week.

Frank Dewey Haygood, 48, of no known address, was taken from Sacramento County Jail, where he was being held for San Rafael authorities, and booked into Marin County Jail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said a well-dressed man with a silk stocking pulled over his face burst into the tavern at about 6 a.m. Jan. 15, waved a pearl-handled revolver and took about $1,600 from a cash box before fleeing on foot. Tavern owner Perry Hugh Stewart recognized the voice of the thief as resembling that of a regular customer, accoridng to police.

Party For Demise Of Bank Fizzles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bank failures don't produce the nostalgia that Ron Zimmerman had expected when he declared an anniversary wake for the defunct San Francisco National Bank.

Yesterday was the eighth anniversary of the bank's demise and Zimmerman, who manages a tavern, had offered drinks in exchange for its practically worthless stock certificates.

But nobody showed up.

"I guess nobody wants to own up that they were taken," said Zimmerman who admits he lost a substantial sum on the stock which dropped in value from $90 a share to 10 cents after the liquidation.

On the wall of the tavern is a framed picture of former Marinite Don Carlos Silverthorne, 91, bank founder, who served a jail sentence for fraud and embezzlement.

Controls Sought Over FBI Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., today introduced legislation that would require Senate confirmation every four years of the FBI director.

"In this era of sophisticated law enforcement techniques and public sensitivity to the criminal problems in this country, it is imperative that the Senate have the opportunity to question and explore the directions of such a powerful organization as the FBI at least every four years," Byrd said.

Special Tragedy In Johnson's Death

There was special tragedy in Lyndon B. Johnson's death yesterday afternoon.

At the very time that the United States' only living ex-President suffered his fatal heart attack, it was disclosed in Saigon that a cease-fire agreement ending the Vietnam war is scheduled to be signed Saturday.

IT WAS U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, and President Johnson's escalation of it, that clouded the "Great Society" which he dreamed of establishing as a lasting monument to his years in the White House.

It was the rising tide of protest over that involvement that led — at least in large part — to his decision not to seek a second elective term.

And that war escalation, that protest and that decision resulted in putting a Republican in the White House in 1968.

THE TROUBLE in Southeast Asia dogged the life of the onetime school teacher from Stonewall, Tex., from the time that an assassin's bullet took the life of President John F. Kennedy and made Johnson president, with 11 months and 12 days left of his predecessor's term.

The United States then had some 16,000 "advisers" with the South Vietnamese army. The new President said he had no intention of increasing that number.

Campaigning for election a few months later, President Johnson declared that he was against "sending American boys to fight a war that Asian boys should fight." But on Aug. 7, 1964, in the midst of the election campaign, he won from Congress a resolution empowering him to take "whatever steps necessary" in reprisal for a reported attack on two American destroyers by North Vietnamese gunboats in the Bay of Tonkin.

That was the beginning. Within a month after President Johnson took the oath of office for his full term in January, 1965, U. S. troops were landing in Vietnam. By the time he left office four years later, more than half a million of them were there.

IT REMAINED for Richard M. Nixon to reduce the involvement, withdraw American land forces, and at last — on the very eve of Lyndon Johnson's death — reach agreement with North Vietnam on terms of a cease-fire.

But there was another special irony in the story. It was in response to an invitation by President Johnson that the late Ho Chi Minh agreed to peace negotiations in Paris — those negotiations so long stalled, so long unproductive, but the face-to-face meetings which at last made possible winding down the war.

And so Lyndon Johnson, whose success as President was so blemished by the war in Vietnam, could in his last hours reflect that at least he had put the machinery into motion for ending it.

As time passes, the tall Texan from the banks of the Pedernales will be remembered for many other things. For now, grief at his passing must mingle with relief over the imminent end of a war in which he played so controversial a role.

Feeble Vote Getter Holds Power Equal To Governor's

By EARL G. WATERS

Ronald Reagan is governor by virtue of having received the votes of 3,439,664 Californians in 1970. In that same election Robert Moretti garnered the grand total of 40,747 votes to win re-election to the Assembly.

It is this wide difference which dramatically points up the untenable system of organization whereby Moretti, as speaker of the Assembly, wields power nearly equal to that of the governor.

As a vote getter Moretti isn't in the same league with Reagan. In fact he is hardly in the same ballpark with his fellow legislators. Of the 120 members elected to the Legislature, only 19 others received fewer than 50,000 votes.

In the Assembly, where Moretti rules the roost, his puny 40,000 votes pale beside the 137,275 received by Assemblyman Robert E. Badham. Yet, in winning, Badham defeated a fellow who pulled 78,861 votes — or nearly twice as many as Moretti.

Many others polled in excess of 100,000 to win their seats in the Legislature. The average vote received by winners was over 81,000.

BUT THE ASSEMBLY operates under a system wherein it elects one of its 80 members speaker. Whoever can muster the votes of 41 assemblymen gets the gavel.

It wouldn't be bad if that's all he got. But with the symbol of authority goes great actual power.

It is the exclusive right of the speaker to name all the committee chairmen and designate the committee members. It is also his sole prerogative to assign proposed legislation to committees.

Armed with this muscle, the speaker exercises as much control over legislation as does the governor. Neither can assure passage of any bill but both can effectively block any measure they choose to oppose. In the case of the governor, however, the Legislature has the right to override a veto.

But woe to the assemblyman who dares to oppose the speaker! He not only can be removed from a committee chairmanship, he can be removed from the committee. Worse, his legislation can be throttled. His ability to represent his district, already severely limited by such a system, can be completely stymied.

WIELDING THIS POWER, a person once elected speaker can entrench himself. He does this not only by favoring supporters with committee appointments and support of their legislation but by collecting campaign funds for their re-election.

As Moretti blatantly acknowledged in an interview over KNBC, the lobbyists have the "message." They know the power held by the speaker.

In its reorganization for the new two-year sessions, much has been said about improvements. As long as one man, holding office with fewer than 50,000 votes, can dominate the representatives of 119 other legislative districts, there can be no real improvements.

What is the answer? The Senate found it long ago. There a committee, elected by the Senate, appoints all other committees and assigns the bills. There is no one-man ruler.

Until the Assembly divests the speaker of his vast powers, the people of the state are without truly representative government.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Chamber Of Commerce Patronizes Outsiders

Since the home-owning taxpayers of San Anselmo regularly subsidize our chamber of commerce to the tune of $3,000 each year, we are concerned that when a chamber of commerce dinner is given, it is arranged for outside city limits. This year, it will be held in Fairfax. Of course this means not only the revenue goes elsewhere but also any sales tax benefits.

Can we not ask our chamber of commerce, a group especially dedicating to servicing San Anselmo, to arrange such affairs inside San Anselmo and thus return some benefits to the taxpayers and businessmen of this town?

City Servants Helped Flood-Stranded Woman

For the help I received on Jan. 16 when many streets were flooded, I would particularly like to give my thanks and appreciation to three gentlemen who helped me in a great time of need: Mr. Ernest Tanzi, chief mechanic for the City of San Rafael, Mr. Bill McEachern and Police Officer Art Meyers.

Being stranded in my car in a flooded area, they brought me to safety and worked on my car for over an hour until I could get it started and be on my way.

I am very thankful that we have such men working in our city government who show such concern for the safety and well-being of its citizens. I am indebted to them for their help.

Novato City Council Supported President

On Jan. 20 you made incorrect inference to the Novato City Council's approach to "Peace Day" actions by including them with some in the county who protested at the same time President Nixon was delivering his inaugural address in Washington.

Correct information is that on Jan. 18 the Novato City Council voted 5-0 to declare Inauguration Day and the city's 13th birthday as "Peace Day" in Novato as "a day of support for the President in his efforts to achieve peace." The council at the same time approved wiring this resolution to the President, Congressman Mailliard, and California's two U. S. senators.

This kind of reporting misrepresents the truth, and is not the quality of which you can be capable.

All Should Reprint Reporter's Notebook

Frank Farrara's article Jan. 16 under the "I-J Reporter's Notebook" is worthy of the front page, and should be copied by every editor of every American newspaper, substituting their own landmarks and local cover.

I'm sure that anyone who reads it would mimic the TV commercial and say with sincerity, "Thanks, I really needed that!"

Good thinking Frank.

Lawyer Takes Issue With Sentence Criticism

I am writing this letter in answer to your editorial regarding the case of the People vs. Lundgren, wherein which you chastised the system of justice and the Honorable John A. O'Kane for the decision that was rendered in the case. Unfortunately, your editorial is based upon an uninvestigated, unsophiscated view of the law and the facts regarding the case.

It may be of some interest to you that the reason enunciated for the decision was that the prosecution failed in its burden of proof, to prove the necessary elements of its charges levied against Mr. Lundgren. It may also be of interest to you that the proof shown at the preliminary hearing, upon which the court made its decision, indicated that the deceased Dr. Sydow was under the influence of an intoxicating beverage so that he could not safely operate a motor vehicle. The level of blood alcohol according to the coroner of the City and County of San Francisco was above that which the law provides a driver is under the influence.

Unfortunately, that level where you sought to editorialize a situation wherein which you did not have the benefit of viewing the transcript of the preliminary hearing, nor did you have the benefit of hearing the proceedings involved in this case. To those of us that did have these benefits, it would be exceedlingly clear that Mr. Lundgren, as well as the People of the State of California achieved a full and fair hearing.

It is interesting to note that in the same editorial column you chastised the court, through the Honorable John A. O'Kane, whatever you sought to also chastise a court in the Los Angeles area for the restriction of the freedom of the press. "Free Press" also means an enlightened and responsible press.

A responsible and enlightened press would never editorialize something that it did not have the total facts or background in which to base its judgment.

CHARLES M. DRESOW

San Francisco.

(Attorney Dresow seems to be confused. The editorial did not raise the point of fair trial. Lundgren pleaded guilty to drunken driving in an accident in which a man was killed. The penalty assessed by Judge O'Kane was that provided for drunken driving in which no accident is involved or there is only property damage. — Editor.)

The British Broadcasting Corp. is having a tough time finding enough items for its "Happy News" program, which is only five minutes long.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Mexico Undergoing Period Of Perhaps Historic Change

MEXICO CITY — Should anyone north of the border be taking notice, this happens to be a moment of historic change. The Latin America of the guerrilla, the romantic revolutionary, is all but gone.

Fidel Castro is no longer exporting his failed revolution. The belief here is that Washington and Havana are privately drawing together, not only over the hijacking issue but in a broader context that could lead eventually to at least a limited renewal of relations.

Che Guevara's attempt to foment a revolution in Bolivia came to a pitiful end. He was the last hero of the romantic revolution, with the posters showing his dark, handsome face on Paris kiosks and in Tokyo Socialist halls. The campesinos, the depressed peasantry, simply did not respond to his call to rise up against the oppressors.

THE EXPERIMENT going forward here in Mexico is designed to achieve a new social and economic base. President Luis Echeverria Alvarez in the first two years of his six-year term has introduced a whole series of reforms from taxation to improved land use and an assault on the pollution which is so visible in this smog-ridden city.

The eager young men Echeverria has drawn into his government, such as 32-year-old Fausto Zapata, undersecretary of the presidency, like to think a parallel exists with the New Deal of Franklin D. Roosevelt. If the vast gulf between the poor — more than 55 per cent tied to the land —and the very rich can be narrowed, a healthy democratic society can take root.This will be a model not only in Latin America but for the Third World for which President Echeverria is a highly articulate spokesman.

Time is all-important. Given 10 years of steady progress, the transition can take place. But if the dead weight of the past frustrates the reforms, the future is dark indeed. The military dictatorships in Brazil and Argentina, with their periodic outbursts of terrorism, are a portent.

ECHEVERRIA, who looks like an earnest professor of sociology, talks of the urgent need to prevent a second colonialism. This will come if foreign investors are allowed to take over the Mexican economy. His program, therefore, calls for 51 per cent Mexican ownership in foreign corporations, with large areas restricted entirely to domestic operation.

A broader and a deeper concern is with the plight of the Third World — Latin America, Asia, Africa — as the supplier of raw materials for the developed world of the United States, western Europe, Japan, the Soviet Union. Prices for those materials tend to move steadily down while, with inflation in the industrialized nations, the price of manufactured goods exported to the Third World goes steadily up.

This, the president says with intense conviction, makes slaves of those who perforce sell on a depressed market the raw stuff that fuels the machines of the advanced nations. One answer is for the United Nations to set a scale of investment which the developed nations would put into the underdeveloped world. This would establish a balance between the two halves that seem increasingly to go their separate ways. How it would be enforced is another matter, since in the developed world faith in the United Nations falls far short of Echeverria's passionate conviction.

Labor-intensive projects in the pattern of the New Deal are part of the president's domestic program so that badly needed foreign exchange does not go for expensive imported machines. As part of the aid furnished Nicaragua to rebuild the ruined capital of Managua, Echeverria is sending teams to demonstrate the labor-intensive technique.

THE SHADOW of the giant to the north is omnipresent whether as a negative or a positive force. Long gone is the enthusiasm of the Allianza Par Progressa. Except for technical assistance, Mexico is no longer a recipient of American aid.

But the power of the United States is not alone in productivity, in the bounty of a mechanized agriculture, in a huge military establishment. It is also the power of example. If with restraints on wages and prices removed there is increased inflation, the result as reflected in Latin America will be serious. If with Nixon economics American cities continue to deteriorate, the example will not be lost on those who oppose the Echeverria reforms. This is part of the equation when the door seems open for constructive change.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

Returning Congress Reminded Of Giant Of Bygone Years

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is back in Washington along with bookstore displays of a new volume serving as a reminder of the often-heard remark that there are no giants in the House and Senate any more.

The new book, "Mr. Republican," is the most detailed biography yet written of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, one of the dominant Republicans in the national government for a decade before his death almost 20 years ago. The author is James T. Patterson, Brown University historian, who neither sanctifies nor condemns his subject.

READERS WHO HAVE missed or forgotten some details of 20th Century history will find that not only Taft wanted Herbert Hoover — still nonpartisan at the time —to be elected President in 1920. Patterson has a quotation from Franklin D. Roosevelt, who also said Hoover would make a good president. Roosevelt lost the vice presidency as the 1920 Democratic nominee and evicted Hoover from the White House 12 years later.

The young Taft, a Hoover aide on foreign relief agencies during and after World War I, worked against his own party organization in Ohio to seek the 1920 nomination for Hoover. The GOP nomination and election was won by an Ohioan, Warren G. Harding.

Those unfamiliar with Taft's earlier years can learn that he declined to spend a year as law clerk to Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court and chose to go directly into private law practice in Cincinnati without even a token salary.

And they can wonder with the author whether the views of Taft, later the chief voice of political conservatism, would have been influenced by the views of a liberal justice who wrote that "the life of the law has not been logic, it has been experience."

TAFT MADE THREE bids for the Republican presidential nomination, the major ones in 1948 and 1952, when his authoriship of the Taft-Hartley labor law was a political burden. Observers who watched that law germinate might suggest that it reflected Taft's legalistic approach, remote from the human experiences of the men in mines and mills.

They also might suggest that any flaws in the law could be blamed on noncooperation by the labor movement and the Truman administration, who felt that if given enough rope Taft would hang himself. He outmaneuvered them and steered a bill to passage over President Harry S Truman's veto.

Although Taft was the hero of Republican conservatives, it is oversimplification to attach that label to him. He was a budget-balancer and a man eager to avoid the risk of war at the expense of a Nazi conquest of Western Europe — two characteristics regarded as essential to conservatism as it was then known.

DESPITE HIS FAILURE to win the presidency, once held by his father, Taft was a giant in the Senate to his admirers and his critics. In a kind of division of power, he concentrated on domestic issues and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan on foreign policy, and both overshadowed other Republicans in Congress.

They died in the early 1950s when Lyndon B. Johnson was emerging as one of the most skillful leaders in Senate history before moving to the vice presidency and presidency. Other powerful figures who have passed from the Capitol scene since Taft were Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senators Walter F. George, D-Ga., Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was acquiring power as Democratic whip under the less aggressive Mike Mansfield before he became vice president. Now back in the Senate, he swings as much weight as anyone outside the leadership.

This city now is watching to see if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy will seek to become a mover and shaker.

Need Little Improvement Loan? See Your Friendly Navy Lender

WASHINGTON — The United States Navy has just loaned $54 million to the Grumman Aircraft Co. The Navy has defended its role as banker on the grounds that the money was not really a loan but rather an advance on F-14 airplanes which Grumman says it cannot deliver.

When my friend Morris Stans (no relation to the former secretary of commerce) heard that the Navy had gone into the banking business, he immediately rushed down to the Pentagon.

He said to a Wave at the desk, "I'd like to see someone about a loan."

THE WAVE ASKED Morris to be seated and then started to make some telephone calls. Finally she said, "Go to the third floor to BuNav BOC and ask for Commander Smiley."

"What does BuNav BOC stand for?" Morris asked.

"Bureau of Navy for Bailing Out Contractors," the Wave replied.

Stans went to the third floor office of Commander Smiley, who was talking on the phone. "Yes, sir. We can loan Litton Industries $100 million at 5.5 per cent. No, sir, there are no collateral requirements. Your name on the note is good enough for us. Yes, sir, Mr. Ash, the check will be in the mail tomorrow morning."

COMMANDER SMILEY Turned to Morris. "What can I do for you?"

"I'd like to borrow $500 to make some improvements on my house."

"I'm sorry, the Navy doesn't make loans for home improvements," Commander Smiley said.

"But the house is on the water," Morris said, "on Cape Cod."

"Well why didn't you say so?" Commander Smiley asked, taking out a form. "First I must ask if you've applied for this loan from a commercial bank."

"I applied to seven banks. They all turned me down. They suggested I see the Navy because they said you'll loan money to people that no bank would touch."

"THAT'S OUR BUSINESS," Commander Smiley said. "Our motto in the Navy is, 'Impossible loans are our business.'"

"I thought it was, 'Don't give up the ship.'"

"Times have changed," Smiley said. "Now would these improvements on your house benefit the Navy in any way?"

"Well, I want to repair my dock for my sailboat, but the Navy would be free to use the facilities to tie up an aircraft carrier or something in case of war."

"We very well might," Commander Smiley said, filling out the form. "How do you propose to repay the loan?"

"Ten dollars a week," Morris replied.

"That seems fair," Smiley said. "I must tell you under the 'Truth in Lending Navy Act' that we will have to charge you 6 per cent interest."

"BUT I JUST heard you tell Litton Industries you would only charge them 5.5 per cent," Stans protested.

"That's because Litton owes us so much money. Now if you wanted to make a loan of, say, more than $20 million we could give you a more favorable rate as well."

"No, I'll stick with the $500."

"Very good. Just sign here. This booklet is your payment schedule. Just make your checks payable to the Department of Defense."

"Thank you very much. The Navy won't be sorry they trusted me."

"I'm sure we won't," Smiley said, shaking Stans' hand. "On your way out pick up a new toaster or a coffeepot or an electric blanket in the lobby."

"Free?" Morris asked.

"Of course. Why do you think Grumman Aircraft came to us instead of Bank of America? They know we give out the best premiums in the country."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BONNIE BARD

Petaluma Development Board Proves System Is Workable

Much like members of a jury, Petaluma's development allotment board members heaved a sigh of relief when voting was completed on proposed building projects.

The 16 board members heard hours of "sales pitches" by developers and lugged home pounds of reports to read in what spare time they had. Some were upset with the large amount of time the board work took, but most tackled the assignment with spirit.

THIS WAS THE FIRST board to carry out city policy of keeping residential growth to 500 units per year. Some mistakes were made along the way, but it is expected the process will be more streamlined in the future.

Members for the most part were uninitiated to the planning process. They brought with them common sense which made up for any lack of expertise, and spent hours pouring over reports to become more knowledgeable.

The system used to rate developments would have brought cheers from professional planners and made great sense to them, but to the laymen the intricate point system only brought confusion. It is hoped that by next year a simpler method can be found.

Simplification will not only benefit board members, but the developers as well, since some were short-changed on the original voting because of misunderstandings.

PETALUMA'S UNIQUE growth control plan continues to win awards and draw national attention. Even members of the board —d despite their lay status — have been interviewed and consulted on the system.

Legal tests may still be ahead, but as the plan progresses through the first test period, officials seem even more confident it will succeed.

Firm Draws Fine For False Ads

NEW YORK (UPI) — The manufacturer of Geritol was fined $812,000 Monday for false advertising.

The firm was cited for claiming that Geritol was effective against tiredness symptoms in 11 separate television commercials shown on 100 occasions.

The fine—$456,000 against J.B. Williams Co. and $356,000 against its wholly-owned advertising subsidiary, Parkson Advertising Agency Inc. — is believed to be the highest ever for violating Federal Trade Commission regulations against false advertising.

Policies On Park To Be Reviewed

The San Anselmo City Council will review uses and policies governing Robson-Harrington Park when it meets at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The council also will consider proposals by Councilman Martin G. Blinder for a bimonthly newsletter and an aerial survey of the city.

The council will discuss an agreement with the San Anselmo School District for joint financing of tennis courts at Red Hill School.

Appeal On Duplexes Will Be Presented

The Fairfax Planning Commission will consider city Councilman Frank J. Egger's appeal of design review board approval of two duplexes on Bolinas Road when it meets at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The commission also will consider modifications in a precise development plan for 68 townhouse units being built by Gentry Development Co. on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Ferry, Bus Matters Face Board

A new contract with consultants to detail plans for the Larkspur ferry terminal will be considered by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors at 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The building and operating committee, meeting in toll plaza offices, also will review plans for the San Rafael bus base on Jacoby Street.

The insurance committee will meet at 9 a.m. Thursday to renew expiring policies. The joint finance-auditing and rules, policy and industrial relations committee will meet at 10 a.m. to consider changes in auditing procedures.

The full board will meet at 10 a.m. on Friday, and has scheduled a public hearing at 11 a.m. on the district's application for a federal loan to buy the abandoned railroad right-of-way through Mill Valley. The hearing was postponed last month to give time to convince the City of Mill Valley to reverse its opposition, but a district spokesman said it probably will have to be postponed again because no agreement has been reached with the city.

Purse Snatchers Find Judge Tough

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A judge sentenced two purse snatchers to two-year-to-life prison terms Monday, declaring the crime "one of the most cowardly and unprincipled offenses I can think of."

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Harold V. Hove warned that similar offenders would be dealt with harshly in his court as he sent I.V. Johnson, 28, and Lawrence Allen, 26, both of Oakland, to state prison.

"The idea of preying on unprotected women—big people like you—appalls me," said Hove.

Johnson had four prior felony convictions and Allen had one.

School Heads Oppose X-Ray Program End

The Marin Association of School Administrators has decided to protest elimination by the Marin County Board of Supervisors of the county's minifilm X-ray program.

Association president Ralph Giovanniello said the group — which is actually school district superintendents — strongly opposes scrapping the program, and has asked him to write to supervisors.

"This is really passing the cost off to the taxpayers, we feel," said Giovanniello, "since the school districts will have to pay for their employees. Costs will go up from $2 under the minifilm program to around $20. School district taxpayers will have to pay the increased cost."

The association also has decided to observe a uniform school calendar for the 1973-74 school year. Districts in Marin will start the 1973-74 school year on Tuesday, Sept. 11, and end on Friday, June 14, 1974.

Between those dates schedules may vary, said Giovanniello, but high school districts will attempt to coordinate holidays with their elementary feeder schools.

Autopsy Results Still Awaited

Robert Pack of Kentfield was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital last Wednesday after collapsing in a San Anselmo drug store. He was 50.

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported Friday that Pack was found dead in the washroom of the drug store after apparently suffering a heart attack.

Actually, autopsy results are still pending on Pack, who died while en route to the hospital, according to relatives.

Bush To Speak

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican State Chairman Putnam Livermore today announced new GOP national chairman George Bush, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will be the keynote speaker at the party's state convention Feb. 2-3 in Sacramento.

Woman General Eyes Promotion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Brig. Gen. Jeanne M. Holm, the director of Women in the Air Force, is expected to become the first woman to hold the rank of major general in the U.S. armed forces.

Outgoing Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Monday the White House is expected to announce her nomination for promotion to two-star rank later this week.

Miss Holm, 51, of Portland, Ore., has been in the armed services since 1942 when she joined the Army as a private. She has been the WAF director since 1965.

Quake Reported In New Hebrides

BERKELEY (UPI) — An earthquake was reported Monday night in the New Hebrides Islands in the South Pacific.

University of California seismologists said the temblor registered 6.3 on the Richter Scale and was "moderately strong."

The quake occurred at 9:02 p.m. PST, and its epicenter was about 6,000 miles southwest of here.

Most important officers appointed by the President, such as Cabinet members, and Supreme Court Justices, must have approval of the Senate before taking office. This "advice and consent" power of the Senate applies to many other Presidential appointments, such as high military officers, head customs officials, and members of such important agencies as the Atomic Energy Commission, the Federal Reserve Board, and the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Senate also has power to approve or reject treaties.

NOTICE OF HEARING ON ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT SEWER PLANT EXPANSION, PUMP STATION, AND TRANSMISSION AND COLLECTION FACILITIES ASSESSMENT DISTRICT SAN RAFAEL SANITATION DISTRICT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on January 17, 1973, an Environmental Impact Report was filed with the Board of Directors of the San Rafael Sanitation District in conjunction with the proposed acquisition and construction by the District of the following:

a) The construction of all off-tract sanitary sewage transmission facilities necessary to transmit sewage from the area of the proposed assessment district to the existing sewage treatment plant of the San Rafael Sanitation District of Marin County, located at the intersection of the northerly extension of Biscayne Drive and Pt. San Pedro Road, including sanitary sewage pump station, force main, gravity sewer, modification of existing pump station, and all necessary connections;

b) The construction of all facilities and improvements necessary to expand the capacity of said sewage treatment plant from approximately 500 residential connections to approximately 1600 residential connections;

c) The construction of a reclaimed water irrigation system, consisting of lake excavation, pump station, storm drain relocation, transmission mains and potable water and electric power facilities;

d) The acquisition of all lands and easements and the doing of all work auxiliary to any of the above and necessary to complete the same.

Reference is made to Resolution of Intention No. 247, adopted June 28, 1972, as amended, and the Engineer's Report filed pursuant thereto, for a more particular description of the proposed improvements.

A copy of said Environmental Impact Report may be obtained at the office of the District Administrator, City Hall, 5th and "D" Streets, San Rafael, California, or at the office of the District Engineer, Coleman, Selmi and Simpkins, 201 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Greenbrae, California. Anyone wishing to be heard or desiring to make any comments regarding the report or to make any additions thereto may do so at the hearing, and written comments regarding the report or for inclusion in the report may be submitted to the District Administrator at the above address at or prior to the time of the hearing.

The major environmental impacts expected as a result of the project are the possibility that the availability of additional capacity in the sewage treatment plant will or could induce growth. However, any growth which might materialize will be subject to the complete control of the City and County Planning Commission, the City Council, and the Board of Supervisors, all of whom have planning jurisdiction over the property subject to growth possibilities.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that Wednesday, February 7, 1973, at the hour of 5:00 o'clock P.M. in the regualr meeting place of said Board, City Hall, San Rafael, Californai, are hereby fixed as the time and place of said hearing.

1991	165,000
1992	170,000
1993	185,000

The bonds mature serially on July 1 of each year commencing in 1974.

Interest is payable for the first ten months on January 1, 1974, and thereafter interest is payable semi-annually on January 1 and July 1 of each year. Both principal and interest on the bonds are payable at the San Francisco main office of the Bank of America N.T. & S.A., paying agent of the City of San Rafael. The maximum interest rate is seven per cent (7%) per annum.

REDEMPTION PROVISIONS: Bonds maturing by their terms on or prior to July 1, 1983 are not subject to redemption prior to their fixed maturity dates. Bonds maturing by their terms on or after July 1, 1984 are subject to redemption prior to their fixed maturity dates, at the option of the city, as a whole or in part in inverse numerical order from higher to lower, on July 1, 1983, but not prior thereto, and on any interest payment date thereafter prior to their fixed maturity date or dates, at the principal amount thereof and accrued interest thereon to date of redemption, together with a premium equal to the sum of one-quarter of one per cent (¼ of 1%) of the principal amount of each bond so redeemed for each year or fraction thereof remaining between the date of redemption and the stated maturity date.

REGISTRATION: The bonds will be coupon bonds, and will be registrable only as to both principal and interest. The bonds are subject to de-registration and re-registration.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of Messrs. Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass & Anderson, Oakland, California, and Mudge Rose Guthrie & Alexander, New York, New York, attesting to the validity of the bonds will be supplied free of charge to the successful bidder for the bonds. A copy of the legal opinion, certified by the official in whose office the original is filed, will be printed on each bond without charge to the successful bidder.

SECURITY: The bonds are general obligations of the City of San Rafael, and the City has the power and is obligated to levy annual ad valorem taxes for payment of principal and interest on the bonds on all property within the City subject to taxation by the City (except certain personal property which is taxable at limited rates) without limitation as to rate or amount.

HIGHEST BID: Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates not exceeding seven per cent (7%) per annum in multiples of 1/8 or 1/20 of one per cent (1%). Each bidder must specify in his bid the amount and maturities of the bonds of each rate and all bonds maturing on the same date must bear interest at the same rate. No rate may be more than one and one-half per cent (1½%) higher than the lowest rate named in the bid. A zero rate cannot be named for all or any of the time from the date of the bond to its stated maturity and the premium, if any, must be paid in the funds specified for payment of the bonds as part of the purchase price. No bid for less than par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained. Unless all bids are rejected, the bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose proposal results in the lowest net interest cost to the issuer, and the net interest cost will be determined by deducting the amount of any premium paid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds from their date until their respective maturities.

RIGHT OF REJECTION: The City of San Rafael reserves the right at its discretion to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid. Any bid must be in strict conformity with this Official Notice Inviting Bids, and without any qualification.

PROMPT AWARD: The City of San Rafael will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than twenty-four (24) hours after expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals.

DELIVERY AND PAYMENT: Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the principal office of Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association in San Francisco, California, as soon as the bonds can be prepared, but not prior to the date of the bonds. Payment of the purchase price of the bonds must be made in funds immediately available to the City in San Francisco, California.

FORM OF BID: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds herein offered for sale. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, and endorsed, "Proposal for Bonds, San Rafael Open Space, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $15,000.00 drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the City of San Rafael to secure the City of San Rafael from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. Checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by mail upon the award of the bonds. Check of successful bidder will be credited upon the purchase price of the bonds, and no interest will be paid upon the deposit of any successful bidder. Check of the successful bidder will be forfeited to City if the bidder fails to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within the time provided for in this notice as liquidated damages.

TAX EXEMPT: In the opinion of bond counsel, the interest on the bonds is exempt from present federal income taxes and from State of California personal income taxes under existing statutes, regulations, and court decisions; and the bonds are exempt from all California taxes except inheritance, gift, and franchise taxes.

LEGALITY FOR INVESTMENT: It is believed that the bonds will constitute legal investments in California for all trust funds, and for the funds of all insurance companies, commercial and savings banks, trust companies, and state school funds. The bonds are eligible as security for deposits of public moneys in California.

NO-LITIGATION CERTIFICATE: The City of San Rafael will furnish to the successful bidder, at the time of delivery of the bonds, a no-litigation certificate, certifying that there is no controversy or litigation pending or threatened concerning the validity of the bonds.

Federal Controls On Land Use To Be Discussed

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Federal land use controls will be discussed by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif, at the annual league day meeting next Monday of the League of Women Voters of the Bay Area.

The meeting, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., will be at His Lordship's Restaurant at the Berkeley Marina.

Also on the program, open to the public, will be a discussion of the state's environmental controls by Jean Auer of the state Water Resources Control Board and Gladys Meade of the state Air Resources Board.

A film on the Bay Area regional transportation plan produced by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission also will be shown.

Change Proposed In State Voting

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene has introduced a bill designed to eliminate the "vexing problem" created at presidential elections because California polls close three hours later than they do in the East.

Under current laws, election results in the East are televised in California before many voters have been to the polls.

The bill (SB130) by the Sacramento Democrat would permit California polls to open one day earlier than in the rest of the nation and close at 5 p.m. on the traditional election day — three hours before the polls close now.

The measure's effect would be to keep California polls open almost two days. It would apply only to presidential elections.

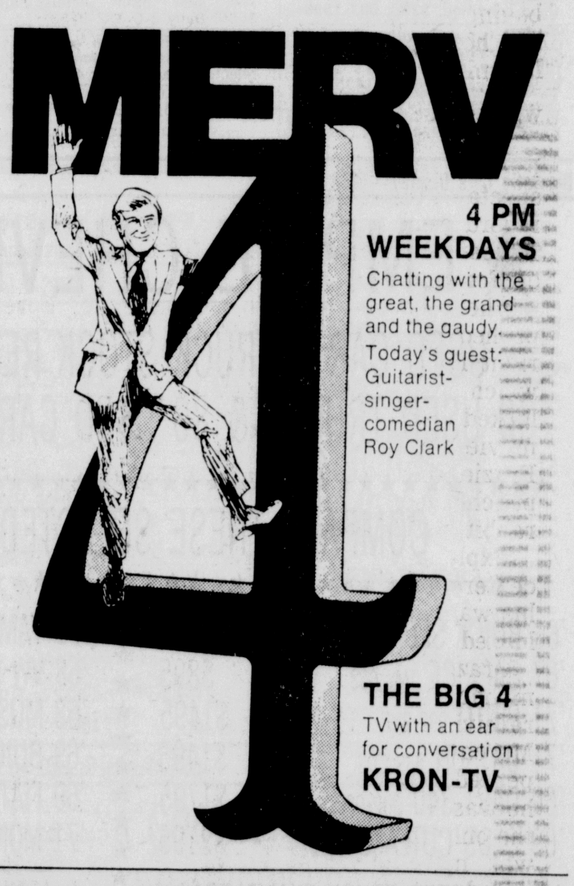
"By closing our polls early on election day," Greene said, "eastern results will be precluded from influencing our electorate."

Bill Would Delay Sales Tax Boost

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, has introduced a bill delaying for two years the imposition of a one-cent increase in the state sales tax because of a $1.1 billion budget surplus.

The measure (SB90) offered Monday was the latest entry into a growing controversy over how to dispose of the excess funds.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has said he wants to refund the money to taxpayers but hasn't arrived at a decision on what method should be used.



Champ Foreman Rules Boxing World

By GREG GALLO

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — George Foreman, the bull-strong Hayward, Calif., power puncher who loves America, is the new world heavyweight champion and the only question now is who he'll make his first defense against — Muhammad Ali or the man he wiped out here, Joe Frazier.

Unburdened by an return contract, the 24-year-old, unbeaten Foreman is perfectly free today to pick and choose. And he may do exactly that, announcing his choice at a news conference here today.

Frazier might not be there. He has an appointment with a neurologist. The former champion's head was pummeled severely by the 6-foot-3, 217 ½-pound Foreman until Referee Arthur Mercante mercifully stopped the contest at 1:35 of the second round.

FOREMAN

Foreman, who made headlines five years ago when he waved the American flag after winning the heavyweight gold medal at the Mexico City Olympic Games, made even a bigger name for himself at National Stadium Monday night when he knocked Frazier down six times to capture boxing's prize plum before 36,000 inperson fans and 100 million others who saw the fight on closed circuit TV transmitted via satellite world-wide.

"God gave me intelligence and I knew I would walk out of the ring as the new heavyweight champion," said Foreman, whose feet never touched the ground on the way to the dressing room as hundreds of jubilant Jamaicans carried their new hero on their shoulders.

Beaten boxer

Paul FitsRitzon, chairman of National Sports Limited, promoters of the fight, hinted that Foreman's first defense might be right back here.

"When Foreman signed the contract he said, 'If I win I'd like to make my first defense here," said FitsRitzon.

STUNNING UPSET

The shock of his stunning upset left Foreman practically speechless immediately after the scheduled 15-round fight and he wasn't able to indicate what might be ahead for him.

"I'd just like to consider what I've done before I think about anything else," he said. "Right now I'd just like to be grateful for what I've done."

Foreman did do a job on Frazier. Eight stitches were sewn into his lip which Foreman ripped with his cement-like fists. Frazier's head absorbed so many heavy blows that the chief physician of Jamaica's Boxing Board suggested that he see a neurologist.

GEORGE FOREMAN
New champion

"He seemed in fair enough condition," said Dr. Stuart Gray after examining the battered Frazier after the fight. "naturally, he's a little downhearted, and I feel in view of the type blows he took, he should check further."

TO DOCTOR

Frazier was to see Dr. John Hall in the morning to check and see if he had suffered any serious head damage.

A loser for the first time in 30 pro fights, Frazier took the defeat graciously but vowed he would be back. "I've got a score to settle," he said. "I'll be back and that's a promise."

Yank Durham, the former champion's manager, agreed with his beaten fighter. "I saw nothing to suggest he should retire," said Durham.

Foreman, meanwhile, begins his reign as champion and with the devastating punching power he showed last night, figures to be around quite a while.

38TH STRAIGHT

The victory was his 38th straight and 35th knockout. Only this time his critics can't say he fought "nobody."

Foreman earned $375,000 for the four minutes and 35 seconds he fought while Frazier picked up $850,000 along with his headache.

A crowd estimated at 36,000 witnessed the mismatch and were policed by 1,000 special troops, who were assigned to the stadium after police received threats of sabotage and reports that a bomb might be set off under the ring.

But the only damage done at the National Stadium was to Joe Frazier by George Foreman, the new heavyweight champion of the world.

Boxing: A Sport Full Of Surprises

There's joy for boxing fans throughout the Bay Area today in celebrating the world championship of heavyweight George Foreman of Hayward, a tough customer who surprised a lot of experts last night.

I must admit I have come to expect surprises when two big bruisers get together to fight for the world championship of boxing. And again I was surprised by the mismatch I witnessed last night on closed circuit television at the Oakland Coliseum Arena. It's not like the "good old days" when Joe Louis was whipping all challengers to his crown. That was when you listened to Don Dunphy's voice on radio and purses were in the thousands, not millions. Louis would be favored to win, and he would.

Now I find it impossible even to try to predict outcomes of world heavyweight championship fights. Just when I thought a guy by the name of Sonny Liston was unbeatable, he was whipped easily by Cassius Clay (that was his name then). Then when I was convinced Muhammad Ali (after the name change) was the best heavyweight in boxing history, he lost a decision to Joe Frazier. But how could that have been the same guy who last night was such easy prey for Foreman? That was the latest of surprises for me.

Everything pointed to a close match last night. Frazier was favored to beat Foreman who had a spectacular record of 37 victories without a loss, a record built up against mostly no-name foes. Instead, Frazier became the 35th knockout victim of Foreman.

When Frazier tried to get in close, Foreman pushed him back easily and then connected with right hand after right hand. His final rightcross which sent Frazier to the deck for the sixth time looked like it came right out of a John Wayne movie. In the slow motion replay of the punch Frazier is seen hoppint in split-second after the punch landed. Said one wag: "It's Foreman's rabbit punch. It sends his opponent hopping."

Explanation of Frazier's poor showing is being centered on the beating he absorbed from Ali on his way to his winning decision 22 months ago. It looked like a different man.

Frazier faked me out when he stared so menacingly at Foreman as the two boxers were receiving his instructions from referee Arthur Mercante. Then when the fight started, he appeared to be the quicker of the two. A minute later he was sent to the canvas with a right. From then the only thing he was quicker with was his chin. It was mercifully stopped at 1:35 of the second round.

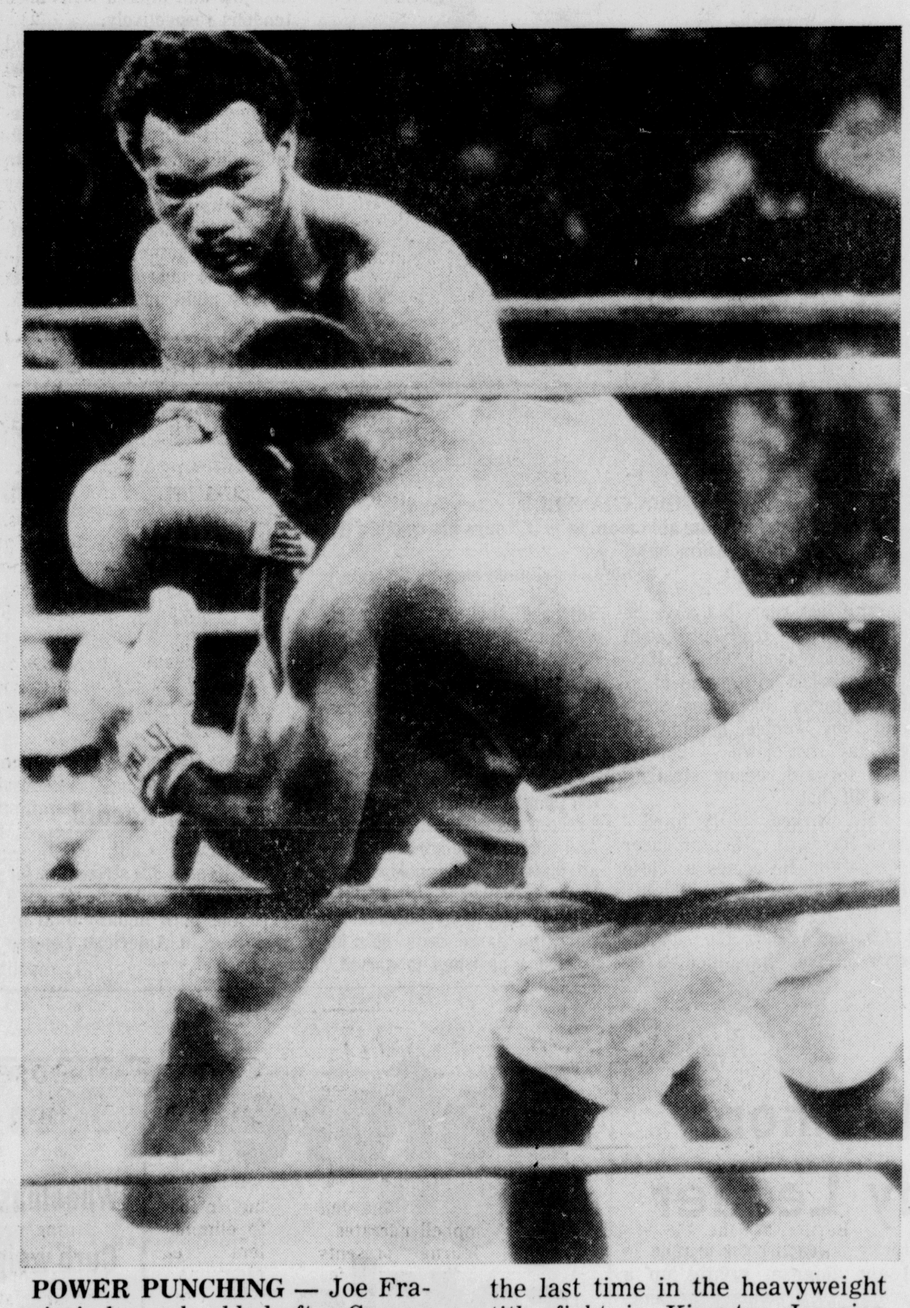
That's less than five minutes of fighting. For the thousands who were sitting aound me that comes out to just over $2 a minute to watch the fight on closed circuit television. Most of the Coliseum seats on the main floor were sold for $10, and other seats ranged to a low of $7.50 and high of $12.50. The Oakland Coliseum Arena was one of a half-dozen locations in the Bay Area showing the fight at about the same prices.

The 8,000 fans at Oakland Coliseum Arena paid a gate of $80,000, which promoter Ed Bercovich says is the biggest gate in the country, unofficially. There were also 1,850 fans at the Orpheum and 2,000 at Winterland in San Francisco and 1,400 at Richmond Auditorium.

The boxing fans were in and out of the arena by 7:40 p.m. There was still time to take in a movie somewhere, unless they were broke because of the ticket prices.

Foreman becomes the first fighter from around this area to win a world heavyweight championship since Max Baer of Sacramento wore the crown in 1934. I hope it's a long reign for George, but judging from the past three decades, it won't be too long.

A LATE NOTE — Tim Cullen, Oakland A's reserve second baseman who announced his retirement from baseball yesterday, has a little unfinished business in Novato Thursday. Cullen will be guest speaker at the Lu Sutton elementary school Father-Son night at 7:30 in the school auditorium. Cullen, a star at University of Santa Clara before his professional baseball career, will bring a film of the 1972 World Series with him. A's owner Charlie O. Finley gave all 25 members of the A's team a personal copy of the film.



POWER PUNCHING — Joe Frazier's knees buckled after George Foreman (background) landed a hard left in the second round, sending Frazier to the canvas for the last time in the heavyweight title fight in Kingston, Jamaica last night. Foreman was declared the new heavyweight champion after flooring Frazier six times.

A Visit To Dressing Room Of Sad Frazier

By MILTON RICHMAN

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — The two of them, Joe Frazier and Yank Durham, his manager, were alone now.

They had come all the way together to the very top of the mountain, and now they were back where they started, at the bottom.

Joe Frazier fingered his lower lip tenderly, the lip in which eight sutures had been taken only a short time ago by Dr. Stewart Gray, and looked over at his manager.

Yank Durham didn't say anything, but Joe Frazier could sense the question in his manager's mind.

"I didn't see it," said the beaten ex-champion, talking of course about that sledgehammer right uppercut of George Foreman's, that terribly devastating blow which preluded the first of six humiliating knockdowns and ultimately resulted in the crowning of a new world heavyweight champion at 1:35 of the second round here Monday night.

"Don't worry about it," Yank Durham tried to comfort his fighter.

This time it was Joe Frazier's turn not to reply.

"They'll give us a return," said Durham. "I'm pretty sure they will."

Joe Frazier had peeled off his soaked boxing trunks by this time and was beginning to put on his white street clothes. Yank Durham decided to leave him alone for a few minutes, told him he'd be back shortly, walked out the door and into another room further down the main corridor inside the National Stadium amphiteater.

"There's no return," Durham told a newsman who had asked. "We hope they'll be nice enough to give us another contract. If they don't then we'll have to start all over again just like any of those other guys."

"Did you tell that to Joe?" someone asked Durham.

"No," he snapped, impatiently. "I'm telling it to you. I'm confident they're gonna give us a rematch. Of course, I could be wrong."

"Did you tell somebody you thought Joe should quit now?"

WEST TABBED TONIGHT

Abdul-Jabbar, Barry To Miss NBA All-Star Game In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two starters were knocked out of the West lineup today for the 23rd National Basketball Association All star game— Milwaukee's Kareem AbdulJabbar and Rick Barry of the Golden State Warriors—but the West remained a slight favorite for the classic contest.

The game will be played on the Chicago Bulls' court in the Chicago Stadium tonight before a crowd expected to exceed 18,000 and will be televised nationally over ABC, Channel 7, beginning at 6 p.m. PST.

Barry and Abdul-Jabbar, named to the starting West lineup by vote of media personnel in every city in the league, were replaced on Los Angeles Lakers' Coach Bill Sharman's roster by Connie Hawkins of the Phoenix Suns and Bob Love of the Bulls.

Barry had to be scratched from the lineup because of a severely sprained ankle suffered in Sunday's game against Milwaukee, and Abdul-Jabbar was replaced for "personal reasons."

A spokesman for AbdulJabbar and the Bucks said that security measures would be taken to protect both the player and his family. The action was believed to be the aftermath of a shootout in Washington last week in a home purchased by Abdul-Jabbar and later turned over to the Muslim sect of which he is a member.

There was no indication whom Sharman would start at center in place of Jabbar, but he could choose between his own Wilt Chamberlain, expected to be selected, Detroit's Bob Lanier or Nate Thurmond of the Golden State team. Sidney Wicks of Portland will move up to replace Barry.

Other West starters will be Jerry West of the Lakers, Nate Archibald, the league leader in scoring and assists from Kansas City-Omaha, and Spencer Haywood of Seattle.

The East starting lineup and roster were unchanged with Walt Frazier and Dave DeBusschere of New York, Dave Cowens and John Havlicek of Boston and Pete Maravich of Atlanta scheduled to open for Coach Tom Heinsohn of the Celtics.

The East team has won 14 and lost eight in previous All Star games, while Sharman has a 1-1 record and Heinsohn 0-1 in previous appearances. Sharman won a 112-110 decision over Heinsohn a year ago when West hit a jumper with two seconds to play for a win for the West.

The West will be trying for its third straight victory in the series.

A's Sign Campaneris; Cullen Quits

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — The Oakland A's have another key performer in the fold today, but the baseball world champions lost a reserve infielder to the bulls and bears.

Shortstop Bert Campaneris yesterday returned a signed contract and received a "substantial raise," according to a team spokesman.

Campaneris led the league in stolen bases for the sixth time in eight years when he swiped 52 bases. He led American League shortstops in total chances and was second in fielding percentage and double plays.

Others, including outfielder Reggie Jackson and second baseman Dick Green, reportedly have agreed with owner Charles O. Finley on terms.

But the A's lost a player yesterday when reserve infielder Tim Cullen, 30, announced he was retiring to devote full time to his job with a stock brokerage firm in this area.

The 30-year-old Cullen was one of five men manager Dick Williams shuffled at second base. He hit .261 in 72 games while alternating with Green, Ted Kubiak, Dal Maxvill and Larry Brown.

Cullen spent most of his six years in the majors with the Washington Senators and was signed by the A's last spring as a free agent.

Marin Cagers Host Cosumnes

By a stroke of luck unforeseen at schedule-making time, College of Marin's basketball game tonight against Cosumnes River Junior College of Sacramento will provide good preparation for Saturday's crucial contest.

The Tars meet the non-league opponent at 8 o'clock in Kentfield, then rest for three days before hosting West Valley of Campbell in a key Camino Norte Conference encounter.

Marin, 16-2 overall and ranked No. 2 in the state, leads the conference by a full game at 4-0 over West Valley, which was 15-2 and ranked No. 3 until upset by Skyline of San Bruno Saturday.

"Cosumnes runs an offense similar to West Valley's," said Tar coach John Panagakis. "It's called a 'passing game,' where they use a five-man pattern and everybody is continually in motion. There's a lot of passing and screening away from the ball. They also press, which we could use some work against."

Marin defeated Cosumnes last year, 72-62. The visitors lost most of the players off that team, Panagakis said, but retained guard Carl Roper, who scored 19 points in that meeting.

The Tar players are just reaching the end of their final exam period. Normally, a non-league game is not scheduled at this time, but the Cosumnes games was switched from the week of Dec. 24 to fill this time slot, Panagakis said.

The Tars have a series of aches and pains, but not enough to keep anybody out of the lineup, the coach added. Forward Joe Casteel has a sore back, guard Len Smith a sore leg, guard Joe DeMaestri "took a couple of spills" in Saturday's 43-32 victory over De Anza College in Cupertino, and center John Crozier is suffering from Osgood's-Schlatter's "disease," an ailment resulting from rapid growth which affects the knees.

Unitas, Tilleman Peddled

Combined AP & UPI

The pro football travel business picked up yesterday with Johnny Unitas bound for San Diego, Mike Tilleman heading for Atlanta and John Hadl apparently waitlisted on a flight to somewhere in National Football League country.

Unitas, Baltimore's 17-year super quarterback but victim of a youth movement last season, was sent packing from the Colts to the San Diego Chargers for what Baltimore general manager Joe Thomas called "future considerations." He declined to elaborate.

Then, the Houston Oilers sent disgruntled defensive tackle Mike Tilleman to Atlanta for the Falcons' first choice in next week's NFL draft.

Unitas, who has completed more passes for more yardage and more touchdowns than any other passer in NFL history but is closing in on his 40th birthday, had insisted since he was benched in favor of youthful Marty Domres after five 1973 games that he would not return to the Colts. Still, he wasn't ecstatic about a trip to San Diego.

"Just because I've been traded doesn't mean I'll be going to the West Coast," he said. "For one thing, I don't know if it's legal. I'll just have to sit down and look at things and then talk with the San Diego people."

The reference about the legality of the deal apparently concerned a 10-year $30,000-a-year personal services contract with the Colts, which is to begin when Unitas quits playing.

Hadl, San Diego's long-time quarterback, asked to be traded the day after the 1972 season. Coach Harland Svare said there was "a difference of philosophy" between the quarterback and Bob Schnelker, the team's offensive coach.

Informed that the Chargers had acquired Unitas, Hadl said, "Well, I'm leaving."

The only question apparently is where is he going?

FISH AND GAME

Good Weekend For Sturgeon Fishermen

By AL GIDDINGS

"How sweet it is!" That's the way most of the San Pablo Bay sturgeon fishing day in San Pablo Bay in a long time. On Friday, I gave it a try for about an hour just south of the Richmond Bridge.

I guess I fished an hour before landing and about a 60-pounder. I used up about four ghost shrimp out of the 20 I had taken along. When I arrived back at the Loch Lomond dock, Amos Horsely, the caretaker of the gas pumps, hailed me down to check the catch.

After this, as I was leaving, I offered him the 16 ghost shrimp I had left. These he took, immediately planning a trip for Saturday. Well, Amos took his wife, Gladys, and a friend, Pete Jones.

All they caught were three sturgeon — 130, 66, and 35 pounds. The 130-pounder contained about 25 pounds of roe. Now you can't beat that, and I couldn't be happier. Amos is always a most helpful fellow at the harbor.

ONE THING — The fresh water from the delta runoff has put the fish in the bay but has moved the grass shrimp out. By noon Sunday, just about all the dealers were out of shrimp bait. This happened a few years ago, so the sturgeon moved to the south bay where the shrimp had moved.

The brant hunters, though there were just a few, connected with at least nine birds that I know of. Word has it that a flock of about 500 birds showed up in the Tomales Bay area the other day.

I HOPE YOU were all watching television's Channel 3 Sunday evening at 6 to see Al Jr. on the historic dive on the Andrea Doria. He was part of a team of Italian divers making a television special.

A jackrabbit hunt at Grizzly Island Wildlife Area 10 miles southeast of Fairfield, is scheduled for next Saturday and Sunday, the Department of Fish and Game announced this week.

THE HUNTS ARE PART of a DFG effort to assure maximum use of such publicly owned areas consistent with their overall conservation purposes. Jackrabbit populations are high, and the surplus rabbits should be harvested in order to make room for the annual reproduction, the DFG said.

No reservations or fees are required for the hunt which will be conducted on a first-come, first-served basis. Hunters will be required to check in and out at the wildlife area checking station. No more than 400 hunters will be permitted on the area at one time.

The checking station will open at 6 a.m. on both days and shooting will be allowed from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. Shotguns and bows and arrows may be used but no rifle or shotgun-rifle combinations will be allowed.

Hunters may bring dogs but must keep them under reaosnable control.

EACH HUNTER under 16 years of age must be accompanied by an adult 18 years of age or older.

No cottontail rabbits may be taken during this hunt. There is no limit on jackrabbits. All hunters must have a valid 1972-73 hunting license.

FIGHT

was another question tossed at Durham.

The question made him frown, and the frown wrinkled his ordinarily happy features.

"I said if he feels like quitting, he can quit; if he feels like fighting, he can fight," Durham came right back. "Until I see something in him that would make me say 'I think you should give it up,' I see no reason why Joe Frazier should. The doctors examined him a little while ago. They said he's physically fine."

One newsman was more persistent than some of the others. He kept asking Yank Durham exactly why he thought Joe Frazier had lost.

"Why? . . . Why? . . . Why?" Durham said, showing exasperation. "Why did he lose? I'll tell you why. He lost because he got hit, that's why. Why did Ellis lose to Joe? why did Quarry lose? Why did Clay lose? They all lost for the same reason Joe lost out there tonight. They got hit, that's all."

A few minutes later, Durham went back into the room where Frazier was getting dressed. The formerchamp shook his hand silently. Joe Frazier looked at his friend and said simply:

"I'm sorry. I tried."

Drake's Center Channell: A Model Of Consistency

By LEW CODDINGTON

Watching John Channell play basketball is something like watching the closing scene in Walt Disney's production of Davy Crockett — when Crockett was standing on the parapet at the Alamo, totally surrounded by enemy uniforms, battling away.

Often enveloped underneath the backboard, Channell has been a consistent scorer and rebounder all season long for Drake High School. Last week was an example — he got 19 points and 17 rebounds in a victory over San Marin Tuesday, 18 points and 19 rebounds in a loss to Novato Friday, and was named Independent-Journal Prep of the Week.

"If we have an indispensable man, he is it," says Drake coach Pete Hayward. "We can't afford to take him out."

The Pirates are smaller than most teams, and Channel is smaller than a number of Marin County Athletic League centers at 6-foot-4.

"I'm used to it by now," he says. "I like the position, though I realize I'd have to play forward in college."

Channell hasn't decided on college yet, although he is leaning toward College of Marin. "I'd like to stay here, get a job, make some money and then go on to a four-year school," he said.

He also is undecided about what he would major in at college. "I like working with my hands," he says. "I've taken wood and metal shop and ceramics. I'm also in a beginning photography class at school — I might get a couple of shots in the yearbook."

His chief diversion, other than "going out," is riding either his Honda 350 motorcycle or the Honda 450 belonging to his older brother, George.

Although Channell has been playing basketball "for a really long time," he was not always a star. "If you talked to my eighth-grade coach, he would say I was uncoordinated — kind of a clod."

Channell skipped basketball in the ninth grade, played junior varsity in the 10th and varsity last year, but says he didn't become really proficient until this season. "Coach Hayward worked with some of us last summer, like Greg Shaw and Dan Trimble, helping me get my shot down — correct food forward, elbow straight, and all that."

"He worked really hard," says Hayward. "He's an inner competitor. He comes as close to using all the natural ability he has as anybody I know."

Channel prefers the running style of play implemented by Hayward this year over the disciplined style used by coach Bob Fitzhenry last season. "As a small team, we have to run, to be quicker than the opposition," he says.

Usually the Pirates succeed, as they remain in the thick of the frantic MCAL race with a 3-2 record prior to today's games. And much of the success can be attributed to Channell, who in Hayward's words, "is in there battling people by himself, and when the game ends, he's just as strong as when it started."

ABA STATISTICS

Colonels' Gilmore Is A 3-Way Leader

NEW YORK (UPI) — Basketball, it has been suggested by some who have apparently not watched the American Basketball Association's Kentucky Colonels, is a five-man game. But with Kentucky, it's Artis Gilmore going up and Artis Gilmore coming down and, come to think of it, maybe that's not a bad way to play.

Gilmore, the 7-foot bearded pivotman of the Colonels, is leading the ABA in three categories — rebounding, two-point field goal percentage and blocked shots—and is 10th in another—scoring.

Gilmore's intimidating presence under the backboards is the primary reason why Kentucky is leading the league in team defense, giving up a scanty 108.8 points per game. He averages 19.1 rebounds per game, has a .562 shooting percentage and averages 3.6 blocked shots per game.

Julius Erving continues to lead the league in scoring for Virginia. Dr. J is racing along at a 31.1 point clip. Indiana's George McGinnis is second at 28.9 points per game.

Seals Vs. Islanders In New York

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — The California Golden Seals, after finishing strong against the Boston Bruins, try to prove tonight that the New York Islanders really are the worst team in the National Hockey League.

The Islanders, last in the East, have the worst NHL record, with just five victories in 47 games. But they have beaten the Seals, last in the West, in two of the three games between the clubs.

The Seals lost 5-2 at Boston Sunday. Stan Gilbertson and Hilliard Graves scored California goals in the final period while goalie Gilles Meloche shut out the strong Bruins.

The Seals will be missing left wingers Joey Johnston and Gary Croteau, who have a broken jaw and injured right knee tendons respectively.

Their loss has necessitated wholesale line switches for the Seals. Gilbertson has been teamed with center Walt McKechnie and right wing Craig Patrick and responded Sunday with a goal the first time they played as a unit.

California faces a busy schedule of nine games in the next 13 days. The next home game is Friday night against St. Louis.

Hicklin Dinner In San Rafael

A testimonial dinner for Harry Hicklin, who retired last month after 15 years as trainer for athletic teams at College of Marin, will be held Tuesday, Feb. 6 at Dominic's Restaurant, 507 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael.

The dinner is open to the public at a cost of $5 per person. An additional $5 may be contributed toward a gift for Hicklin. Reservations can be made by telephoning either the restaurant or College of Marin athletic director Harry Pieper, and payment can be made at the door.

The Block "M" Club, an organization of letter-winners at the college, is organizing the dinner, which will start at 7:30 p.m. after cocktails at 6:30 p.m.

Hicklin will retire to Oroville, where he owns a mobile home. His successor as Tars' trainer is Bob Overmyer, 56, a civilian structural superintendent for the civil engineering squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base until his retirement last January after almost 31 years of federal service.

A resident of Novato, Overmyer has long been active in Little League, Pony League, Colt League and Babe Ruth baseball there, and has been president of the Novato High Booster Club.

He was chosen from among 35 applicants, according to Pieper.

means the Oilers will have two first-round choices in the NFL draft — their own No. 1 over-all pick and Atlanta's, which is No. 14.

Tilleman, a 280-pound, seven-year veteran from Montana, was the Oilers' leading tackler last season although he played out his option after contract squabbles.

"Tilly was unhappy here," said General Manager John Breen, "but he's been unhappy wherever he's been. After two years, he sees the light and greener pastures. He's happy now. In fact, he's already in Atlanta."

Meanwhile, Los Angeles Rams' owner Caroll Rosenbloom said yesterday he expects to ecide on a head coach for the Rams this week and that the position of present coach Tommy Prothro has weakened.

"Tommy isn't as much in the picture this week as he was last week," Rosenbloom said.

"Before the week is out we'll have a decision," he said, "because we've exhausted all the possibilities." The Rams were 6-7-1 last season.

The Reasons Behind Giants' Poor Season

Strikeouts are a joy to pitchers, a worrisome thing to batters. When a batter goes down swinging, particularly with teammates on base, he feels momentarily frustrated.

Strikeouts that stifle potential rallies not only are individually frustrating but can begin to affect an entire ball club. A successful club can't have three or four batters in the lineup who strike out 100 or more times a season.

There were several reasons why the Giants finished fifth in the National League West last season. First, Willie McCovey was put out of action in the fourth game with a broken arm. Second, Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell had their worst seasons ever, winning only 16 games between them instead of winning 20 games each as expected of them.

BUT OVERLOOKED was the fact that four Giants, on whom the team depended for a robust batting attack, did an awful lot of whiffing. Two of them struck out more than 100 times. Dave Kingman fanned 140 times, Bobby Bonds 137. Garry Maddox whiffed 97 times, Chris Speier 92.

"Don't hold strikeouts against anyone," said Hank Sauer, batting coach of the Giants. "I had my share of them when I was playing."

BUT SAUER READILY acknowledges that the Giants must do something about their strikeouts this year and he promises they will.

"You must remember," said Sauer, "that we have a young but very talented group of players who haven't been in baseball very long. They're not only going to be all right this year but great."

Sauer then analyzed the strikeout situation man-by-man.

"Bonds led the league in strikeouts when he first came up several years ago," said Sauer. "Ever since he has been trimming them each season. I really believe Bobby would have gotten under 100 last year if he hadn't felt that it was up to him, as the team's young oldtimer, to take up the slack created by loss of McCovey's bat. Bobby just tried too hard last season.

"SPEIER'S 92 strikeouts are acceptable. I think 90 strikeouts are acceptable over a season but I know Chris will be aiming at 80 or lower this year. And he'll be successful because I've never seen anyone work harder for success than Speier. He began trimming his strikeouts when he flattened an upright bat. He stayed with it and conquered it.

"Maddox is a cinch to cut his strikeouts. His only problem last year was inexperience. He doesn't stride too far and he has a good short, flat swing."

Sauer summed up Kingman's strikeouts in one word "uppercutting."

"We got to cure Dave's uppercutting of the ball," said Sauer. "He has a tendency to collapse his back leg. That's what got him into the uppercutting. And it caused him to take his head off the ball.

"KINGMAN ALWAYS will have a certain amount of bending of his back leg because he's so tall. But collapsing it to the point where he is off balance is something we must stop.

"Dave's bat speed is so swift that he'll still hit homers even with a shorter swing. He's going from a 34 to 36 ounce bat this year and that will have a natural tendency in producing a shorter swing. I'd never suggest to him, or any batter, to slow down his swing. Bat speed is very desirable — and Dave has it."

Rogers New Grid Coach In San Jose

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Darryl Rogers first did not want to leave his position as head football coach at Fresno State, but said he reconsidered under persuasion of San Jose State President John H. Bunzel.

Last Friday, he declined to take over as head coach of the Spartans because "I didn't want to leave Fresno," but Monday he changed his mind and agreed to a multi-year contract at undisclosed terms to lead the Spartans in place of Dewey King, who resigned under pressure earlier this month.

"I didn't know I'd take the job until 8 o'clock this morning," said the 38-year-old Rogers after touring the San Jose campus and finally giving in to Bunzel's entreaties.

Said the pleased president "I refused to take 'no' for an answer. This the man we wanted for the job."

Rogers, who had a 43-33-1 record in seven years at Fresno State, said he would bring defensive line coach Bob Padilla and defensive backfield coach Jim Colbert with him to San Jose.

Rogers was a record-setting wide receiver at Fresno State who played "very seldom" for Los Angeles and Denver in two years as a pro.

"I hope to bring to San Jose State a class of football that the community will be proud of. I am very honored," Rogers said.

Spitz Selected Athlete Of Year

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — Mark Spitz buried his image as an Olympic choker under a wave of gold medals at the Munich Games and today was a landslide winner as 1972 Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year.

The mustachioed Californian polled 405 votes from a national panel of sports newsmen. Golfer Jack Nicklaus was runnerup with 62 and baseball pitcher Steve Carlton received 61.

Johnny Bench and Dick Allen, baseball sluggers from the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago White Sox, respectively, tied for fourth with 20 votes.

Spitz, a flop at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, churned to an unprecedented seven golds. He established a world record on every journey to the winner's platform.

Golf

MORINO, Calif. — Pat McDonald of China Lake, Calif., holds a slim one-stroke margin over three other golfers going into today's second round of the $25,000 Western Tournament Golf Association event at the Qual Country Club.

McDonald braved 40 mileper-hour winds yesterday and carded a 34-38—72 in the first round of the 36-hole event. The winds were so strong that a 10-foot uphill putt by Mike Davis lipped the cup and was blown back 30 feet off the green.

At 73 were Ray Leach, Novato, 39-34; Steve Veriato, Bryan, Tex., 34-39; Doug Campbell, Tacoma, Wash., 35-38.

Boxing

NEW YORK — The manager for heavyweight contender Ron Lyle said today that he has "no intentions of fighting Muhammad Ali" despite the former champion's claim of seeking a fight with Lyle, after he fights British champion Joe Bugner.

"We have an agreement to fight Jerry Quarry on Feb. 9," said Bill Daniels, Lyle's principle handler. "We have no intention of fighting Ali. After Quarry, we want George Foreman. Let Ali fight all the bums he wants but right now the only man who can stand up to Foreman and hit, is Ron Lyle."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

The Short Term Bond Recommended

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Is it true that the high yielding bonds may soon become eligible for redemption? I am interested in short-term (4 to 5 years) AA bonds. — L.M.

A. Many of the high coupon bonds issued during 1970, when interest rates were peaking, carried five-year call protection. Thus these debt securities are approaching the end of their redemption - protected period. However, if interest rates continue their currently rising trend and are again at a peak in the mid-70s, corporations would have no incentive to redeem those high coupon bonds issued in 1970.

Several debt securities are available which fit your criteria including: Beneficial Corp. 8½s of 1976, Household Finance 9s of 1976, Sears, Roebuck 8½s of 1976 and Union Oil of California 8¼s of 1976. All four are trading at premiums to yield around 8 per cent currently but only 6.5 per cent maturity.

Q. In 1968 I purchased 500 shares of Georgia Medical Equipment at $2 a share — total cost $1,000. In order to establish a tax loss for 1972, I asked my broker to sell the shares. He informed me that there was no market whatsoever for the shares and that the stock was considered worthless. My question is how and for what year can I take this loss? — G.W.

A. If this coproration has in fact filed bankruptcy and forfeited its charter, you may claim a tax loss only for that year in which the charter was forfeited. Since this forfeiture may have taken place several years ago you would, in that case, have to file an amended return for that year. In order to determine whether the charter was rescinded, and in what year, you should write to the secretary of the state in which the company is or was incorporated.

On the other hand, should you find that no forfeiture has taken place you will be in a more tenuous tax position. However, you may sell your shares for a nominal amount at "action" in order to establish an actual loss.

Market Is Sidetracked By Cost-Of-Living Index

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economic worries continued to outweigh prospects for peace as prices declined in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors seemed concerned about the cost-of-living index rising to its highest level in 25 years, and the dollar coming under pressure on European markets. These developments carried more influence with buyers than brightening prospects for a peace accord in Vietnam, analysts said.

Westvaco Corp. led the actives, off 2½ at 24 on 187,000 shares.

Prices were lower in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Houston Oil & Minerals led the Amex actives, off 1⅞ 35½ on 73,300 shares.

Big Board glamors were mixed. Corning Glass gained 4, but Walt Disney lost 3⅛; Wrigley 1¾ and Polaroid 1⅛.

Electronics and computers were mostly lower. Burroughs declined 2⅛, Control Data, 2.

Oils were mixed. Phillips lost 1¼, Superior Oil1. Natomas gained 1⅜ and Mountain Fuel Supply 1.

Airlines and motors were mixed. Delta and United lost 1⅛ each. General Motors slipped the same amount.

Rails, steels, chemicals and aircrafts were mixed. Chesapeake & Ohio lost 1½.

Cyprien Alcetegaray, 92, of 1053 Third Street in Novato literally outlived his own life insurance. Here he is receiving the full $3,029.98 value of his two New York Life policies from Novato agent Dan Richard (right) and San Rafael general manager Lester L. Kuhns (left.) Policyowners reaching age 96 or, as in Alcetegaray's case, the equivalent in extra premiums paid, are offered the value of their policies, Richard explained. Alcetegaray bought the policies in 1928. He retired from his San Rafael laundry business in 1947.

The new hair styling shop is owned and operated by Sherman H. Won of San Francisco, who has 10 years of experience in the business. A unique feature of the beauty shop is a garden gallery where lithographs (portraits, scenes and contemporary designs) are on display.

Doris I. Engel of Greenbrae, who operated Doris Salon of Beauty for about six years, retired last November.

GRAND STAMP CENTER, the philatelic supply house planned in San Rafael, will probably open early next month at 969 Grand Avenue, near Stan's For Sports.

Proprietor Sidney Golditch, who just arrived from New York to open the stamp shop, said he is awaiting supplies from the East Coast. "I'm targeting the opening for about the first of February but it depends on when the shipments arrive," said Golditch. He was in the trucking business in New York and has been collecting stamps as a hobby for more than 15 years.

He chose Marin County for his new venture because his son, Dr. Ira Golditch, lives in San Rafael.

K. L. (JIM) RICE of Tiburon, vice president and director of Hoefer, Dieterich and Brown Inc., spoke before the Puget Sound chapter of the American Marketing Association in Seattle last Thursday.
